Coal Strike In Prospect As Talks Hit New Snags

Miners May Extend Vacation Tomorrow; Several Proposals Still Block Contract

By Charles H. Herrold
United Press Staff Writer

A deadlock involving the Taft-Hartley Labor Act developed in wage negotiations between Northern coal operators and President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers (AFL) yesterday, raising the prospects of another soft coal strike tomorrow.

Although "some progress" was made in yesterday's extraordinary seven-hour parley, UMW and operators' representatives were still at odds over the wording of a section of the contract granting immunities to the UMW from some restrictions of the recently enacted Taft-Hartley law.

The parleys will be resumed this morning in the hope of resolving differences before midnight tonight when the miners' 10-day vacation period ends. Both industry and company spokesmen conceded that there was still some doubt that the deadline could be met.

Unless they break the stalemate by midnight tonight, the mines may shut down indefinitely under the UMW's "no contract, no work" policy.

Policy Meeting Delayed

The meeting delayed the convening of Lewis' 200-man policy committee, which he had called to meet at 3:30 p. m. in anticipation that it would ratify the pact previously agreed upon.

A union spokesman said the committee meeting had been delayed, "subject to call of the chair," apparently until top-flight management spokesmen can be called in to talk with Lewis.

This would mean that George Humphrey, chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., and Benjamin Fairless, president of U. S. Steel Corp., would have to come to Washington for another parley with the mine boss.

Humphrey and Fairless negotiated the basic points of the deal which Lewis accepted in principle last week.

Labor Law Hitch

Their representatives and Lewis reportedly became stalemated over the wording of a provision granting the UMW immunities from some of the restrictions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Industry sources said that some company lawyers, including those of U. S. Steel, have balked at Lewis' choice of language. They are said to fear that both parties may be liable to Federal suits for violation of existing laws other than the Taft-Hartley Act.

Lewis won agreement to a provision guaranteeing the union freedom from damage under the Taft-Hartley law. He already has a clause in the anthracite contract

Ford Foremen, Walkout Lost, Vote to Return

Detroit, July 6 (U.P.).—The Foreman's Association of America, failing to win a single concession from Ford Motor Co. in a 47-day strike, voted 10 to 1 at a mass meeting today to end the walkout and return to work tomorrow.

Robert Keys, FAA president, told a mass meeting of the foremen that "the battle for a new contract will be carried on from inside the plants."

The decision to call off the strike, which the company insisted had failed to affect production, brought virtually complete industrial peace to Detroit's huge automotive industry for the first time in months.

The FAA's capitulation follows effectuation of the Taft-Hartley Act, which dismisses fortmen's unions as collective bargaining units.

Keys asked the formal recognition of the foremen's picket lines; the UAW, which had just signed a new agreement with Ford, sidestepped the ticklish issue.

'Propaganda Heat' Assailed

Taber Orders Investigation Of Internal Revenue Bureau

By Bert Andrews

A staff of investigators will be turned loose on the Internal Revenue Bureau today because the bureau's complaints against budget cuts have aroused the wrath of Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Taber used strong language yesterday to denounce the "cry-baby tactics" of bureau officials.

He disclosed that investigators employed by the committee will make a thorough inquiry into the manpower and workload situations and made these predictions:

That the investigation will "convincingly demonstrate" that the bureau can and should do more and better work with fewer employes.

That the investigation will bear out complaints he has received that some able, experienced workers have been dropped while newly-come "political hacks" have been kept on after being given preference ratings hastily.

Taber's blast was evidence that the Appropriations Committee is determined to start a counter-attack against any Government agency that, as he put it, seeks to turn on "propaganda heat" when its budget is slashed.

"We reduced the bureau's budget only after investigation convinced us it was another of the agencies swollen beyond reason," he said. "Now we'll make a more thorough investigation, since that's what they seem to be asking for. But the cuts are going to stick. And if we find the propaganda is unjustified, as I think we will, somebody's going to get hurt."

W. T. Sherwood, assistant commissioner of the Internal Revenue Bureau, is irate over the Treasury Department appropriation bill providing 188 million dollars for the bureau. This is 26 million dollars less than had been requested and 15 million dollars less than was voted by the Senate. It was signed, reluctantly, by President Truman.

"This is one of the most unfair things that has ever been done to the millions of law-abiding American taxpayers," Sherwood said. "The only ones who will benefit from this are those who are not obedient to the taxing statutes."

What Mr. Sherwood meant was

Union Expects Circumvention Of Labor Law

Machinists' Journal Sees Men Working Without Contracts

By The Associated Press

The Journal of the Machinists Union said yesterday that the new Taft-Hartley labor law "still permits a worker to leave his job and men will learn to do so effectively."

It continued:

"The law seems to make much litigation where contracts exist; so men will learn how to work without contracts on terms which they have agreed upon themselves. "This is not collective bargaining, but the bargaining is not necessary if there is only one price. It so happens that a man's labor is his natural monopoly to sell at his price or withhold regardless of price."

The Machinists Union, an independent, claims more than 600,000 members.

The Journal said unions must be cool at this stage, "and should warn all members against panic, anger or emotion that might result in any foolish striking back at an imagined injustice" stemming from the union-curbing law.

"The experienced union man feels the act is designed to provocate outbreaks so that more vicious restrictions can be justified," the editorial said.

Representative Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, said meanwhile the new law would "curb those within the labor movement whose excesses—deliberate or otherwise—bring discredit upon legitimate labor unions, and threaten to discredit them."

In a formal statement, Halleck said the act "forbids interference from any source with the worker's rights. It equalizes collective bargaining and gives meaning and effect to agreements that result from collective bargaining in the interests of stability and peace."

He said the measure, which became law over President Truman's veto, is "designed in the interests of all our people, and particularly in the interest of working men and women to further the purpose of the Wagner Act, to increase output, and to strengthen the protection the Wagner Act gives to workers in their organizing and collective bargaining activities."

Austria Submits Bid For U. N. Membership

Diplomatic informants said that Austria had made application three days ago for membership in the United Nations.

The application was reported to have been filed with Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary general, by Dr. Ludwig von Kleinwaechter, Austrian Minister to Washington.

Tax Cut Bill May be Passed During Week

Ban on Amendments Expected; Unification Bill on Senate Docket

By Jack Bell
Associated Press Staff Writer

The income tax reduction bill may be back on President Truman's desk again before the week is over.

Republicans driving to push it through Congress were encouraged yesterday to hope it would not encounter time-killing debate in the Senate.

It will come up first in the House where quick passage is expected tomorrow.

The measure would lop four billion dollars off the annual tax bills of individuals beginning January 1. It is the same bill vetoed last month by President Truman, except that the effective date was changed from July 1. He has not made known his attitude toward the rejuvenated legislation.

Armed Forces Bill Up

Also on the Senate schedule this week is a bill to unify the armed forces and its backers hope for approval by Wednesday. Debate starts today. It has not passed the House.

In the House, Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the Ways and Means Committee, will ask the Rules Committee today to approve a rule by which the House would bar amendments in considering the tax bill. It is expected to do so.

Chairman Millikin (R., Colo.) said it is his plan to have the Sen-

Istanbul Papers Predict Collapse Of Government

Istanbul, Turkey, July 6 (A.P.).—Some Istanbul newspapers predicted today the collapse of Premier Recep Peker's government under protests against its domestic policies, but normally well-informed sources expressed doubt there would be an immediate change.

Such an eventuality would have no effect on Turkey's relations with the United States under the military aid program, since all elements of the government and opposition are united on the present foreign policy.

Son Posta, independent morning paper, said Peker might resign today or tomorrow. The Conservative influential Cumhuriyet said Ankara was again full of reports that a coalition cabinet was in the offing.

Truman Takes Wheel, Drives Home 65 Miles An Hour

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

At the wheel of a White House Cadillac convertible, President Truman drove the 117 miles from Charlottesville yesterday, ending a Fourth of July weekend in the Blue Ridge.

He piloted the heavy automobile skillfully through holiday traffic with only two brushes with innocent motorists. One time a heavy house trailer began weaving across the road just after he passed Fairfax, Va. Another car near Culpeper crossed the road directly in front of him. The President maintained a steady speed near 65 miles an hour, paced by a Virginia State trooper in an automobile ahead of him.

In the car with Mr. Truman were Admiral William D. Leahy on the front seat, and Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, White House physician, and Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder in the rear.

Mr. Truman appeared rested and relaxed after his trip, which included both a stern warning to Russia to join with the rest of the world in Europe's rehabilitation and a day of loafing at Colle, hilltop estate of Stanley Woodward, State Department chief of protocol.

He arrived at the White House at 12:15, two hours and 45 minutes after leaving Charlottesville. At Memorial Bridge, he surrendered the wheel to a Secret Service driver after shaking hands and exchanging a few words with his State Police escort.

The President faces a busy week here, with much important legislation still piled up in Congress. He is expected to send at least one message to the Hill, on displaced persons, this week.

Death Toll For Weekend Rises to 14

Thousands Returning From Holidays Jam Rails, Buses, Roads; Railroader Drowns

Holiday thousands returning from parks, beaches, vacation resorts and home towns, filled Washington area highways and jammed trains and bus facilities here last night.

The Greater Washington death toll for the three-day holiday stood at 14, boosted by one yesterday when the body of a 27-year-old Pennsylvania Railroad employe, apparently drowned, was removed from Anacostia River.

The national death toll stood at 514 last night and was expected to soar to at least 550 when the final tally is taken after the end of the homeward rush early today.

Over the Nation, press services counted 231 traffic deaths, 157 drownings, 7 fireworks fatalities, and 119 deaths from other causes. National Safety Council said it probably would be the deadliest three-day holiday since prewar years.

The Nation's deadliest Fourth of July during the past 20 years was in 1941 when 628 persons were killed during a three-day period. California last night was leading this year's holiday traffic fatalities with 21 highway victims.

7 Drownings, 4 Traffic Deaths

The Washington area counted seven drownings, four traffic fatalities, one death from over-exertion, one accidental gun death and one from a freak accident in which a man was crushed when pushing a truck from a garage.

The rush homeward in the Washington area was noticeable by mid-afternoon.

Trains arriving at Union Station were packed, with homecomers standing on many of them. Pennsylvania Railroad operated 14 extra trains from here to New York and 17 from New York to Washington.

Baltimore & Ohio added four extra trains, while the Southern, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac ran 14 extras into Washington from the South and six out. All trains carried extra coaches.

Buses also were crowded, with most companies operating from one to four extra buses on each scheduled run. Airlines, however, reported only slightly above normal business. Airline officials said, however, there was an air rush out of Washington Thursday night and Friday morning.

Storm Hits Northwest

A heavy thunderstorm, which passed over northwest Washington about 6 p. m. yesterday, caught many homecomers at bus and railroad stations. The storm, however, was local and did not touch National Airport where official Weather Bureau observations are made.

The Pennsylvania Railroad employe, removed by Harbor Police from Anacostia River near Benning bridge yesterday, was identified from a Social Security card as James A. Boddie, 4617 Benning rd. se. A brother, Jesse Boddie, 2607 Benning rd. ne., said he was a dining car employe and had been missing from his home since Friday evening.

Boddie's body, Harbor Police said, was floating in the river and was fully clothed except for shoes. A bedroom slipper, they said, was on one foot. The body was removed to District Morgue for an autopsy.

John C. Boyd, 21, a plumber of 622 Madison st. nw., entered Prince Frederick Hospital in Calvert County, Md., in a serious condition after his car skidded and overturned twice at 2:40 a. m. at Route 261 and Breezy Point rd. in Calvert County.

Boyd, the hospital said, suffered

Panama Road Costly Error, Senate Told

Only Half Finished, Investigators Say, And Now Will Need 139 Million Dollars

By The Associated Press

The wartime project of trying to link the United States and Panama Canal with an all-weather highway was termed a multi-million-dollar mistake yesterday by the Senate's Special War Investigating Committee.

Although the highway was to have been completed in May, 1943, at a total cost of 20 million dollars, the investigating group reported, it "is not as yet half completed" and "will now cost at least 139 million dollars."

"It will take many years and many millions of dollars before the highway reaches the quality and degree of completion which some of the more optimistic reports indicate as its status today," the Senate was told.

Motorists Cautioned

Motorists and vacationists who plan to climb into an automobile and drive down to Panama or on into South America received some negative advice from Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), who presented the report for the committee.

"The facts are that there are long stretches where there is no road at all," he reported. "Many of the existing sections of the highway are of the type we would have called a fair country road 20 years ago. Others are simply mountain trails."

Ferguson recalled his personal survey of the highway project by means of automobiles and jeeps and planes (where there is no road).

Overtakes Ox-Carts

"A driver on these roads is continually overtaking or meeting droves of cattle, chickens or swine or slow-moving oxcarts," the report stated. "Outside of the principal cities, one rarely sees a service station for gasoline or repairs. What we consider the ordinary adjuncts of a through highway in this country are practically nonexistant except in isolated sections."

Among a dozen conclusions critical of various Federal agencies and officials, the committee recommended establishment of an "inter-American highway commission or authority to be established by a multi-lateral treaty between the interested governments."

It said this commission or authority "should have power to insure the maintenance and use of the highway, when completed, as an international artery of commerce and as an instrument of hemispheric defense."

Through 7 Countries

The committee inquiry dealt with only a part of the so-called Pan-American highway which has been planned for years to connect South American countries with the United States and Canada. This part is the "Inter-American Highway" between Laredo, Tex., on the Mexican-American border and the Panama Canal. It passes through Mexico and six Central American nations: Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama.

Parts of this 3250 Inter-American route were completed before the recent war but in 1942 Congress approved a project to complete more than 900 miles "to close gaps and improve inferior existing roads."

It was this project that drew the fire of the Senate probe, including the following criticisms:

1. The War Department should not have undertaken construction "as a war project" because 36 million dollars were added to the cost of the war "without contributing to the defense of the United States."

2. The project was "conceived

The Post Poll

Housing Lack, Living Costs Rated Main Veteran Problem

Greater Washington veterans rate the high cost of living and the housing shortage their most serious problems, The Post Poll finds.

Thirty-five per cent mention the high cost of living as one of their main problems in getting along in civilian life. Twenty-seven per cent say finding a place to live is one of their toughest.

Locating the right job is more of a stopper than just finding any job.

Among veterans, a slim majority of 51 per cent believe they are getting enough help right now, but 26 per cent think more should be done for them. Their families, however, are much more dissatisfied. Forty-two per cent with close relatives who are veterans think they are not getting enough help.

In the general public, few people feel that veterans as a group are being over-pampered. Forty-four per cent say they are getting enough help; 30 per cent say they are not getting enough; and 8 per cent say they are getting too much. A small group of 10 per cent believe some veterans are getting too much—for example, those who will not look for a job so long as they get unemployment compensation—while disabled veterans are not getting enough assistance.

The majority of area residents do not believe that resentment toward veterans is growing, but many of the veterans disagree. Forty-five per cent of veterans feel an increase of tension directed against them, as compared with only 27 per cent of the general public.

Chief reason given for rising resentment is the veterans' attitudes toward other people. Fewer people relate resentment of the veteran to "veterans' preferences" in housing, jobs, or other areas.

These findings of The Post Poll are based on interviews with a scientifically selected cross-section of people living in the Greater Washington area. No special survey was made of veterans, but an adequate number fell into the general sample to give reliable data on their opinions.

Veterans of the last war were asked:

"What do you think are your Universal Military Training Assailed as Part of Arms Race

By The Associated Press

A group of 20 Americans, most of them educators or churchmen, assailed universal military training yesterday as part of an arms race theory that would bring on "a titanic showdown conflict" with Russia.

Signers of a joint statement included Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy in World War I; Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago; the Rev. William J. Miller, S.J., president of the University of Detroit, and Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.).

They urged rejection of the recent report of President Truman's commission on universal training, saying it is based on an implied assumption that "war with Russia within a decade or two is inevitable."

They said that "universal military training is an outmoded form of military preparation in the atomic age and gives a nation the feeling of power without the reality of power."

The commission's argument that weakness causes war and the United States must be in a position "to lead from strength" was characterized as "a trite and unbelievably childish oversimplification of history."

Their statement said history shows that "the great heavily armed nations" have gone down to destruction through exhaustion of their economic resources and their manpower and become caught in a cycle of wars with other nations "equally infatuated with the idea" of piling up armaments.

The group said theiy agreed that communism and Russian expansion must be stopped but maintained the "only real security for this country or any country lies in the abolition of war, a vigorous program for universal disarmament, and strengthening of the United Nations, including the World Court."

They also urged a huge relief and reconstruction program to help people everywhere, including Russia, and the strengthening of democracy at home through aid to education, improved health facilities and general lifting of living standards.

Other signers were listed in the statement as:

Defeat Reds Or China Dies, Chiang Warns

Manchuria Loss Holds Peril, He Broadcasts In Face of New Losses

Nanking, July 6 (A.P.).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in a bitterly worded address tonight, told his people the nation would die unless they conquered the Communists.

Speaking on the eve of the tenth anniversary of the Japanese invasion, the Chinese government chieftain declared the long war with Japan would have been "fought in vain" unless the government recovered the Northeast Provinces (a Chinese term for Manchuria) and assured the integrity of all Chinese territory.

The Communists, he declared, were "carrying on the heritage of imperialistic activities left over by the enemy and their puppets."

(This version of his statement was taken from the official Chinese text, furnished to newsmen some three hours after the speech was delivered.

(Chinese listening to the generalissimo's radio address as it was delivered, however, declared that he said Communists were "only the tools of a vast imperialism" whose goal was eventual destruction of the Chinese nation and race.)

The Chinese people, Chiang said, have these alternatives:

"Remain aloof from the present struggle and watch the nation die, or realize the Communist imperial-

Dog Recuperating After 43-Day Stay In W. Va. Sewer

Charleston, W. Va., July 6 (A.P.).—Pat, a little black and white dog, was inching his way back to his old frisky self today, his 43-day-long entrapment in a sewer ended when a fellow canine led human rescurers to the scene.

A veterinarian, Dr. H. V. Miller, gave him a "fairly good chance of recovery" from his ordeal which apparently began May 22, when Pat disappeared and anxious searches by his owner, 13-year-old Jimmy Moss, proved fruitless.

Jimmy's mother, Mrs. Guy Moss, said Pat, who is mostly spitz, evidently fell into a break in the sewer. Pat's fox terrier playmate, Skipper, finally led members of a picnic party to the grilled drain exit where an enfeebled Pat awaited liberation.

Dr. Miller found him "greatly dehydrated because of lack of water, almost starved to death, and weighing not more than 10 pounds."

Flying Saucers Baffle Radar, But People Keep on Seeing 'Em

By Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

The flying saucers which have been reported skimming through America's skies at speeds up to 1200 miles have eluded the usually keen eye of radar.

Capt. Tom Brown of the Army Air Forces public relations staff said the Army Airways Communications Service had reported late yesterday that so far its radar scopes throughout the country have been unable to pick up any strange objects in flight.

And in the Pacific Northwest—where most of the fly-happy platters have been reported—the Army has radar equipment which can pierce fog and darkness and pick up objects in the sky 200 miles away.

Even so, Brown acknowledged that the Air Forces had decided "there's something to this" and had been checking it for 10 days.

"And we still haven't the slightest idea what they could be," he added.

A new series of comments and explanations were offered yesterday, most of them tinged with a slight hesitancy to laugh off the whole thing.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, nationally known psychiatrist and superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital here, said it "has some of the earmarks of being national hysteria."

"Everytime someone comes up with a sea-serpent story," said Dr. Overholser, "others with vivid imaginations are sure they have seen the same thing.

"The critical faculty in man, the last one he received, is still not very well developed. Scratch the surface and you find the same mass hysteria which predominated during the witchcraft scare. Some

Czech Radio Says Nation Is Accepting Bid to Parley

Reported Break In Soviet Bloc Brings Hope Poles May Participate

London, July 6 (INS).—Czechoslovakia was reported tonight to be the first nation in the Soviet bloc to accept "provisionally" an Anglo-French invitation to the European Aid Conference in Paris, July 12.

The Czech action, reported by the Prague radio, increased hopes that Poland also might attend.

The Communist newspaper Rudeprava was quoted as saying that, nevertheless, Czechoslovakia will remain faithful to her alliances with Russia and Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic circles in London expressed confidence that at least 14 of the 22 European nations will accept bids to the meeting. Italy and Portugal were the first to accept and favorable replies are expected shortly from the Netherlands, Denmark, Greece, Switzerland, Eire and Turkey.

Pravda Places Blame

The newspaper Pravda in Moscow charged meanwhile that the Anglo-French attitude at the recent European Big Three parley made it impossible for the conference to succeed.

Pravda asserted that the Anglo-French stand was taken purposely "in order to free their hands for further actions" in Europe.

[Pravda accused Britain and France of sabotaging the conference to strengthen their own hands for "unilateral actions," the Associated Press said.

[Jacob Victorov, writing in the Communist Party organ, also declared that France had sent out invitations to 22 European nations for a new economic conference with her and Britain even before the three-power conference had ended.

[In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry denied Pravda's statements. A ministry spokesman, terming the accusations "absolutely false," said the invitations were drafted by French Foreign Minister Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Bevin the morning after Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov rejected the final French-British proposal.

French Are Concerned

[French doplomats made no attempt tonight to hide their concern at the threat of Europe splitting into hostile camps over the Marshall aid-Europe proposal, but stressed anew that the door remained open for Soviet participation.

[They clung to their stand that the Marshall program offered Europe a unique opportunity to overcome the divisions and quarrels which have plagued the Continent for centuries.

[A Foreign Ministry spokesman said 11 nations had indicated unofficially their intention to take part. They include Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Portugal, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, Greece, Iceland and Turkey.

[Unofficial word from Finland was that she would reject the invitation unless the Russian attitude changed.

Spain Ratifies Law Retaining Franco for Life

Vote Also Sets Up Method of Choosing His Successors

Madrid, July 6 (A.P.).—Spanish voters today ratified by an apparent majority of more than 80 per cent the law confirming Generalissimo Francisco Franco as Chief of State and establishing procedure for selection of a king or regent to succeed him.

It was the first time in 11 years that balloting had been permitted in Spain.

Of 330,948 votes tabulated late tonight by the Associated Press, 302,086 were "yes," 14,483 were "no" and 14,379 were blank.

Majority Conceded

There was no official announcement of the result of the balloting other than a statement by Minister of the Interior Blas Perez that the succession law had been approved by "an overwhelming majority," probably greater than 80 per cent.

There was no indication how many of the 16,137,992 registered voters had remained away from the polls.

Franco had permitted no organized campaign by the opposition, which was expected to show its strength in the number who refused to vote.

Perez reported that more than 82 per cent of the qualified voters of Barcelona and an unspecified majority of those on the registers in Bilbao had cast ballots. Both cities are considered centers of anti-Franco agitation.

Results Due Today

He promised to release complete results Monday afternoon.

At one Madrid voting place in a monarchist stronghold only 65 out of 744 registered voters had cast their ballots by 1 p. m. This was in contrast to a workers' district, where 80 per cent had voted by that hour.

The balloting was secret and freely exercised at polling places visited by the Associated Press. The citizens displayed the traditional good humor of the Spaniards as they stood in line under the hot sun awaiting their turn. Many carried large picnic baskets.

90 an Hour Vote

At one polling place the ballots were dropped into the urns at the rate of 90 an hour.

Each ballot carried a "yes" or "no" reply to the question of whether the law met with approval of the voter.

All eligible citizens were required by law to vote. The polls were open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The official outcome will not be announced until July 26.

Navy Pilot Killed When 'Helldiver' Hits 3 Dwellings

Quincy, Mass., July 6. (A.P.).—A two-passenger Navy SB2C "Helldiver" bomber with a full load of gasoline plunged into a row of three homes on a takeoff today, killing its pilot, seriously injuring an enlisted passenger and leaving a trail of burned wreckage.

The pilot was identified as Ensign George E. Curley, USNR, of Boston. Storekeeper Third Class Hugh F. Ahearn, also of Boston, the passenger, suffered a broken jaw, internal injuries and severe cuts.

The plane knocked a chimney off one house, stove in the roof and sheared off the upper back end of the second in line, then crashed into the side of the third where fire subsequently gutted the four-family residence. Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman estimated damage at $50,000.

Only one civilian was hurt. She was Mrs. Mary Batchelder, 60, of 37 Faxon rd., who suffered burns fleeing her home after the plane set it afire.

Moslems Balk At 'Caretaker' India Cabinet

New Delhi, India, July 6 (U.P.).—Viceroy Viscoun Mountbatten has accepted the resignations of nine members of the interim government and has asked the remaining five Moslems to resign so a caretaker cabinet with the same men may be formed pending division of India into dominions, reliable sources said today.

Mountbatten asked all the interim ministers to resign at a meeting last Friday, it was reported. The Moslem League members, acting under protest, probably will resign tomorrow.

Reliable sources said Mohammed Ali Jinnah, leader of the league, told Mountbatten last night that he objected to a caretaker government because it was not mentioned in the 1935 constitution act.

The Indian News Chronicle reported in a Calcutta dispatch that big American firms were negotiating for the erection of five jute mills at Chittagong. The dispatch carried the headline, "Americans attempt to exploit East Bengal."

Meanwhile, Mohandas K. Gandhi, hindu spiritual leader, deplored the lack of enthusiasm displayed by his countrymen at India's impending independence, saying the indifferance had its roots in the division of India into two states—India and Pakistan—which were to be turned into two armed camps.

Military expenditures are being maintained at a high level and from all indications they will be increased, Grandhi said.

These expenditures, he said, would be "all for the mutual slaughter." The outlook is dismal, he added.

Vaters went to the polls today in the Sylhet district of Assam and two districts of The Northwest Frontier Province in referendums which will determine the future of those areas in the divided India. First reports said that galloting was peaceful.

U. N. Nearing Showdown on Balkan Issue

Lake Success, July 6 (A.P.).—Some United Nations delegates said today there was a possibility Russia and the Western powers would reach a showdown this week on the Balkans.

This will come when the Security Council votes on a United States proposal for a semi-permanent U. N. Border Commission to watch over the Balkans.

With the Council set to hold three and possibly four sessions this week on the Balkan question, delegates said there was a chance a vote might be reached Friday.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was expected to announce the Russian position Tuesday and might disclose then whether he will veto the United States proposal.

Representatives of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania have denied they were responsible for disturbances on Greece's northern frontiers.

Constantin Tsaldaris, Greek foreign minister, arrived from Athens by plane last week for the showdown discussions.

The Council also prepared to review long-pending bids from the Mongolian Peoples Republic, Albania, Trans-Jordan, Portugal and Eire for membership in the United Nations.

A session also was set to resume discussions for the creation of an international peace force.

5. The State Department and Public Roads Administration failed to obtain agreements for the best route and the route "in some sections is unnecessarily circuitous."

'Unilateral' Nature Of Jap Occupation Has Evatt Irked

By R. H. Shackford
United Press Staff Writer

American-Australian relations, strained by Australian dissatisfaction over United States occupation policy in Japan, are boiling toward a major clash when the Japanese peace conference is held.

Diplomatic reports from Australia reveal that Herbert V. Evatt, the fiery, blunt-spoken Australian foreign minister, is more than ready to say a lot of things in public that he has been thinking privately about United States unilateral direction of Japan.

He will have a chance to tell Gen. Douglas MacArthur in person this week. He planned to leave Australia yesterday for a tour of Japan in preparation for next month's British Commonwealth conference in Canberra of the Japanese peace settlement.

'Back Seat' Resented

The basic trouble in American-Australian relations—which to date has been left unsaid—is Australian resentment about the secondary position to which it has been relegated in postwar Far Eastern affairs. Evatt has never hidden his displeasure that MacArthur "runs" Japan as a purely American show.

In a recent report to the Australian Legislature on foreign policy, he appealed to Britain to retain "real awareness" of what is happening in the Pacific. He left unsaid that he thought the United States was taking over Britain's former position there. But he went on to say that there were many things in the Pacific area which "can be achieved only by the closest coordination of British, New Zealand and Australian effort."

American officials fear that Evatt will seek at the Canberra conference to form a British Commonwealth bloc to oppose the dominant American position in Japan and at the future Japanese peace conference.

Series of Protests

Evatt has been sending a long series of protests to the American Government about MacArthur's policies. Only last Thursday he ordered his ambassador in Washington, Norman J. O. Makin, to deliver yet another protest about the proposed Japanese whaling expedition to the Antarctic which MacArthur has authorized.

MacArthur has approved the expedition, to be manned by Japanese but controlled by his officers, claiming that Australian fears for security are unwarranted. Australia has offered to take over all the whale catching necessary and turn over the oil and meat to Japan. Australia just doesn't want Japanese in that part of the world.

Other issues on which the United States, through MacArthur, and Australia are at odds:

Japanese Trade—Australia has bitterly protested that the United States is getting the lion's share. Last Thursday the Interallied Trade Board for Japan announced that of 400 private traders to be allowed to go to Japan, 102 would be Americans and only 23 Australians. No allocations were made for the Soviet Union but some are under consideration.

Phosphate Work Opposed

Phosphate—The United States has overruled Australia's protest about MacArthur's decision to let Japanese work a phosphate rock deposit on Angaur Island in the Palau group. Australia charged MacArthur made the decision without consulting Australia. Secretary of State George C. Marshall announced Wednesday that the project would continue under "close superivsion" of MacArthur's headquarters and that all the Japanese will be returned when the job is completed. The phosphate is needed to east Japan's fertilizer shortage.

Civil Aviation—Australia wants Japan to be deprived of all rights to manufacture or operate civil aircraft during the period of Allied control, and wants the right to establish her own airlines in Japan. The United States would be more liberal on civil aviation toward Japan.

Japan's Fleet—Australia has bitterly protested against being excluded from participation in the decision on disposition of that fleet. The Big Four agreed to scrap all submarines and large surface vessels above destroyer size and divide the rest among themselves.

Japanese reparations—Evatt has contended that the Far Eastern Commission, in which each of the Big Four has a veto, is not the proper organ to decide this issue. He wants it left to the peace conference where he will wage a strenuous battle to oppose a veto for any country.

Peron Pledges Aid to Nations War Punished

Buenos Aires, July 6 (A.P.).—President Juan D. Peron, in a speech broadcast throughout the world today, pledged Argentina's resources to aid countries "so severely punished by the war."

The president declared that international peace could be established only after internal peace was secured in war-torn countries of the world.

The Argentine government arranged for the speech to be broadcast and translated by 1165 radio stations throughout the world and instructed all Argentine diplomats to listen.

Schools Discuss Talk

Every radio station in Argentina broadcast the President's words twice today. Teachers were instructed to discuss the speech in classrooms and students were directed to write compositions about it.

Peron said Argentina was "fully aware of the needs of the world; we must substitute plenty for misery without falling into the error of turning help into charity."

At another point, he assured his listeners that Argentina's resources "have been added to world plans of assistance, in order to achieve the moral and spiritual rehabilitation of Europe, and to facilitate the material and economic rehabilitation of all suffering nations."

Urges Pacifist Societies

The President also called upon all peace-loving men, women and children to organize Pacific societies and assured that governments should take action in political, economic and social fields to eradicate "capitalistic or totalitarian extremes."

At the same time, he stressed that "the world conscience must place man above systems and ideologies."

The world needs, he added, "a conviction that war is not a solution because misery and despair will afflict all equally."

istic ambitions and join in the war effort to defeat them."

As he spoke, his government was acknowledging new Communist successes in inmportant Shantung Province, and United States Minister Walton Butterworth was en route by air to Washington for conferences which may decide American policy vital to the Chiang regime.

Chiang's address was full of references to the Communists as "bandits" and "gangsters" as he sought desperately to arouse China's millions to support his hard-pressed government.

"Peace and unity cannot be separated," he asserted. "Neither can unity and race."

He asked his people to consider the civil war "an extension of the war of resistance against the Japanese, with the same aims and the same necessities."

Admitting defects in the government, he promised immediate economic and political reforms in return for support of his new total mobilization orders, saying every Chinese had a duty to "prevent establishment of a proletrian dictatorship in China."

Gen. Chen Cheng, government chief of staff, followed Chiang on the nation-wide network with an appeal to his troops to revive their spirits and carry the war to the Communists.

Earlier Premier Chang Chun issued through the official Central News Agency a statement that the new total mobilization was aimed not only at "suppression of rebellion" but at national reconstruction.

Government dispatches meanwhile conceded that the Communists had expanded a bridgehead across the Yellow River in western Shantung Province and had captured Chuangcheng, 95 miles southwest of Tsinan. (The Communist radio announced this July 4 and it was the auspicious start of a new major Communist offensive.)

Pro-government reports also said national troops had abandoned to the Communists Tangkwantun, a town 30 miles south of Tientsin "to shorten the defense perimeter" around that important port.

'Foreign Power' Accused

Mukden, China, July 6 (U.P.).—Gen. Tu Yu-ming, commander of Nationalist armies in Manchuria, said today that fighting in China could not be described correctly as a civil war since it was a struggle between the legitimate government of China and a foreign power making use of Chinese "traitors."

In a bedside interview in his home, the ailing general compared Chinese Communists to the Japanese puppets who precipitated the Mukden incident in 1931, signaling the beginning of Japanese annexation of Manchuria.

Record Year in Plant Outlay, Topping 12 Billion, Predicted

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

American business will spend an all-time record amount this year for new plant construction and new equipment, the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission report.

In predicting an expenditure of 3.8 billion dollars in the next three months, the report indicates that this year will slightly exceed last year's record expenditures of 12 billion, 40 million dollars.

Expenditures since the last quarter of 1946 have been "at an annual rate almost 85 per cent above the amounts expended in 1941, and more than 60 per cent higher than in 1929, the two prewar highs," the report says.

However, even this increase was not as high as expected, the report adds.

"The aggregate amount expended by industry on new plant and equipment during the first quarter of 1947 was about 8 per cent lower than had been anticipated," the report says. "All industrial groups showed lower expenditures than had been planned.

"Manufacturing companies made 10 per cent smaller outlays than had been anticipated. For the most part, this was accounted for by the larger companies, the expenditures of the small manufacturing companies being higher than anticipated.

"Railroads showed the highest percentage decline from anticipations, with almost 25 per cent lower expenditures."

38 AAF Fliers Won Medal of Honor in War

By The Associated Press

The Army Air Forces reported yesterday that the Medal of Honor, highest United States award for bravery in battle, has been made to 38 of its fliers for action in World War II.

Fewer than half of them were alive to receive the decorations. The medal was awarded posthumously in 18 cases. Six others were missing in action when the medal was ordered for them and since have been declared officially dead.

Production Workers' Hourly Earnings Rise

New York, July 6 (A.P.).—Hourly and weekly earnings of production workers in 25 manufacturing industries showed an "appreciable" rise in April, the National Industrial Conference Board, independent fact-finding organization, reported today.

Hourly earnings, registering their 15th consecutive monthly advance, climbed in April to $1.30½ which was 17.5 per cent above the highest average reached during the war, and 1.6 per cent ahead of the preceding month, the board said.

Indorsement Of Ramadier Is Predicted

Paris, July 6.—Socialist leaders predicted tonight that their party's National Council will approve Premier Paul Ramadier's policies by a two-to-one majority at the end of a two-day session which is expected to last until early morning.

Although 30 orators were still scheduled to speak, the issue appeared settled when Guy Mollett, a leader of the Socialist left wing, came out this morning against the return of the Communists to the government.

Refusal Influences Decision

"The errors committed by the Communist Party in domestic affairs and by the Soviet Union in foreign affairs make the return of the Communist Party to power impossible at the present time," Mollet declared before assembled party leaders.

The decision of the left wing to go along with Ramadier was said to be influenced by the action of Soviet Russia in refusing to collaborate with the western democracies in this week's Big Three conference on the Marshall proposal.

Calls It Great Opportunity

Ramadier himself told today's session that the American plan to aid Europe was a great opportunity for all continental countries and made it clear that he was determined to back Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, in his efforts to speed the economic organization of Europe in line with the suggestions made by the American Secretary of State.

Several delegates indicated tonight that the Premier will probably make certain concessions to the left wing in exchange for their support, such as the extension of nationalization, protection of the workers' purchasing power and taxation reforms aimed at the rich. The council is also likely to reaffirm the party's loyalty to traditional Socialist ideals.

scribed as "ridiculous" Russia's argument that the Marshall program meant curtailing German reparations payments and reviving the Reich at the expense of her wartime victims.]

French 'Yellow Book' Due

[The United Press said that France plans to publish in the next few days an official "yellow book" giving in full documents and diplomatic conversations exchanged in the Big Three conference at Paris.

[The publication will constitute a reply, on a major basis, to the challenge Molotov made at the final Big Three session when he promised Russia would publish the final statements of the chief delegates and asked that Britain and France do likewise.

[French Communists changed their tactics abruptly on the Marshall plan. They abandoned their frontal offensive against the European "Western bloc" and attempted instead to create doubt of the sincerity of the United States in offering it.

["We cannot see what France has gained on the economic plane by aligning herself without debate with the British position, because it is always useful to recall that this famous 'American aid' still remains very vague," the Communist newspaper L'Humanite said.

[" 'The Marshall plan' is not yet an official diplomatic instrument. The speech of Marshall at Harvard was just a speech.

["The balance sheet of the Big Three conference is singularly negative. Against a vague uncertain promise we have now dangerously alienated our independence, delivered a mortal blow to our right to German reparations and gravely compromised our security."]

Czech acceptance of the invitation to Paris was first reported in the newspaper Pravolidu and then broadcast by Radio Prague.

The newspaper said acceptance was provisional since "more must be known about the plan and how it will work."

It was added that Dr. Jindrich Nosek, Czech Ambassador to Paris, was delegated as representative at the talks.

Hungary Explains Refusal

Some informed quarters in the British capital believed that Yugoslavia as well as Poland may now send delegates to Paris next Saturday despite Russian influence in those countries.

It was pointed out that Poland is particularly anxious to be represented because she is seeking a loan from the World Bank and if Warsaw does not back the Marshall plan it will be unlikely that a loan will be forthcoming.

Use of Big Inch Pipelines To Get Hearing Here Today

By the United Press

A dispute over final disposition of the government's Big Inch pipelines will be aired today at hearings on the question of extending use of the lines to serve the Appalachian area and the Eastern Seaboard permanently with natural gas.

The lines are now held by the Texas Eastern Commission Corp., of Houston, under an iterim lease with the War Assets Administration. The company has asked the Federal Power Commission for permanent authority to acquire the lines and construct additional facilities to transmit natural gas from the Gulf Coast to Philadelphia and New Jersey.

The application states that the company hopes at a later time to enlarge its system to serve Baltimore, New York, and New England.

Although the application is favored by power companies in the Appalachian and Middle Atlantic areas, it faces stiff opposition from several strong groups, particularly coal and railroad operators and unions. This opposition is based on the fear of competition from a new fuel in the rich industrial Eastern area and on the argument that the Midwestern States now served with natural gas should get all they need before it is introduced into new territories.

New U. S. Ambassador Arrives in Warsaw

Warsaw, July 6 (A.P.).—Stanton Griffis—newly appointed United States Ambassador to Poland—arrived in Warsaw by automobile from Prague late yesterday.

Griffs said that during his journey he "noted with admiration the energetic manner with which the people of Poland are at work building their country, which suffered terrible devastation during the war."

He said he expected to present his credentials to Polish President Boleslaw Bierut later in the week. He succeeds Arthur Bliss Lane, who recently resigned.

Madagascar Rebels Repulsed at Capital

Paris, July 6 (A.P.).—The Overseas Ministry reported today that several thousand native rebels assaulted Tananarive, capital of Madagascar, three nights ago, and were repulsed with heavy losses.

The ministry said more than 3000 insurgent warriors fled their own lines to surrender to French military posts. The rest were dispersed.

Reinforcements have secured both the capital and Tamatave from the danager of further surprise attacks, the ministry added.

Atom Research Aided by Papal Observatory

Research work of the Papal Observatory near Rome was described last night by three Jesuit astronomers visiting Georgetown University in the course of a tour of American observatories and laboratories.

The three scientists are:

The Rev. Alois Gatterer, J. J., an Austrian, who is director of the Astrophysical Laboratory of the Vatican Observatory and member of the Pontifical Academy of Science.

The Rev. Joseph Junkes, S. J., a German, vice director of the Vatican Observatory at Castel Gandolfo and Superior of the Jesuit Community residing in the papel summer palace there.

The Rev. Wlter J. Miller, S. J., only American of the nine astronomers at the Papal Observatory. He is a native of Rochester, N. Y., and taught physics and worked at the observatory at Georgetown University from 1931 to 1934. He was appointed to the Vatican Observatory in 1945.

Admitting that the work of the Ppal Observatory is little known, Father Miller, who acted as spokesman for the group, said that historically it dated from the time of the Gregorian calendar reform in the sixteenth century, that its work had been placed in the hands of the Jesuits in 1906, but that is was not until the World War II period tht a "really modern observatory was equipped."

Indirectly, Hitler contributed to the equipping of the observatory, Father Miller said, by freezing export German and Austrian funds.

"The Holy Father used the credits to buy astronomical equipment for the observatory from their manufacturers and transferred funds earmarked for this purpose to other accounts," he said.

"The work is supported by the Pope from personal gifts to himself. He is very much interested in the observatory as he feels that supporting first class research work is one way of showing that there is no basic conflict between religion and science.

"The astrophysical laboratory was formed in 1932 to analyze spectroscopically the meteorites in the Papal collection. This required an atlas of the spectrum of iron, the most common constituent of meteorites, so Fathers Gatterer and Junkes made and published their own in 1935. Two years later they published an atlas on the spectra of 30 elements commonly associated with iron.

"Then, after eight years' work, they published in two folio volumes an atlas on the spectra of 18 rare earths. This was intended as pure research, but the advent of the atomic bomb made the work very useful to atomic scientists, and it and the other atlases have had to be reprinted to satisfy the demand, especially in America."

Father Gatterer hopes to complete a similar work on rare metals, Father Miller said, and will also edit the Spectrochimica Acta, a technical journal on spectrochemistry published in Germany until the war, and which the Pope will now publish.

Housing March Held Possible By AVC Chief

Chet Paterson, new president of the American Veterans Committee, warned the Eightieth Congress yesterday of a possibility of a veterans' "housing march" on Washington.

The veterans' leader, who was interviewed by Ed Hart on the WINX forum, "Is Congress Doing Its Job?" described the present body of lawmakers as "a rousing snafu all around."

All the AVC members, numbering more than 100,000, "are so worked up," according to Paterson, "that if Congress doesn't do something about housing, it's likely that we'll have a housing march similar to the bonus march, only this will have hundreds of thousands of marchers."

The Eightieth Congress, he continued, "is so intent on showing monetary savings" that nothing is being done "to conserve the wealth of the Nation, such as the land, health and education of the people, to giving school children lunches, to allowing votes to 10 million disenfranchised people, or to preventing mob violence."

The AVC president, listing what Congress has done, said it had passed "a labor law which will create industrial strife, and an unfair tax bill," has "carried on a witch hunt," and has "raised rents."

Paterson, who has been a lobbyist for the AVC, said he had seen two kinds of lobbyists on the Hill —those "too few" who are "working for the general interest" and those working for the power interests, the NAM, the railroads and real estate, who, he said, have "plenty of money and personnel." These "pork barrelers," as the 27-year-old veteran of the war in Europe described them, "appear to be running hog wild," he declared.

His group's program of veterans' legislation, he said, includes immediate cashing of terminal leave pay bonds, raising of the $200 and $175-a-month ceilings for on the job training, and an increase in GI bill subsistence.

Flying Saucers Baffle Radar, But People Keep on Seeing 'Em

persons are quite ready to see things and follow beliefs."

Dr. Overholser said that when he made his rounds of the mental patients yesterday at St. Elizabeths not a one commented on the flying saucers story.

"I think they may be a little skeptical," he added.

However, Dr. Overholser said he wasn't trying to dismiss the matter as a joke "because there are so many strange things going on today that one can't be sure."

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, noted aircraft designer, told The Post by telephone from New York that until he sees a flying saucer he "wouldn't like to pass judgment."

He agreed with Dr. Overholser that much if not all of the story may be because of hysteria.

"After all," he said, "we are more or less an hysterical Nation." Major de Seversky said it was possible that the persons who claim to have seen the aerial discs have instead glimpsed the exhaust of jet-propelled planes.

He conceded, too, that they might be guided missiles let loose as part of an experiment, but added:

"I don't think the Government would fire them so promiscuously. They would test them in one spot, in an isolated area, like they did the atomic bomb."

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who as Deputy Chief of Air Staff for Research and Development would know if the saucers involved experiments with guided missiles, commented:

"Whatever these people have seen it hasn't been anything resulting from experiments by the Army Air Forces. As for as I'm concerned there's nothing to it at all. The whole thing is unfortunate."

General LeMay refused to discuss whether the Air Forces has guided missiles which can attain speeds of 1200 miles.

"There's been too much said about guided missiles now," he said.

Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor, said the whole business may be an optical illusion.

"At any distance which is close to the limit of how far a person can see," he wrote, "all objects appear round or nearly so. This law of sight covers both small things seen nearby and large ones at great distances.

"The one outstanding fact about virtually all the saucers is that they had no structure—they seemed merely round and flat. That description fits exactly with the tricks that eyes play. This trickiness varies with differences in weather and lighting."

However, Nova Hart, St. Louis mechanic who was trained during service in the war to spot all types of aircraft, yesterday offered a minute description of one of the flying patterns which he claimed he saw flying at an altitude of about 300 feet.

Reporter Sees One

He described it as circular with a ribbed framework and silver gray in color. He said it appeared to have a motor with a propeller attached in the center and that it kept turning like an airplane doing a slow roll.

And there was the report of a Charleston, S. C., reporter who said he and his wife witnessed a flying saucer Saturday evening. He said they watched it for two minutes until it disappeared over the horizon of the Atlantic Ocean.

"It was flying alone," said the reporter, "and it was following a steady course without deviation. No wings or other projections were perceptible, although it seemed to me that a medium-sized plane at a fairly high altitude would have been identified easily as such. I saw no glow or tail vapor which have been mentioned in previous descriptions of the flying saucer."

Watches 'Take-off'

Although the saucers have generally been described as being about 20 feet in dismeter, Francis Howell, of Tempe, Ariz., yesterday claimed he had seen a two-foot saucer ascend near his home, then fly away.

He said he and his wife and another couple saw the disc disappear behind a row of trees and rushed to the spot. When they were 600 yards away, he said, the platter, apparently constructed of aluminum, took off at a high rate of speed and headed for Phoenix, Ariz., nine miles northwest of Tempe.

Although many explanations have been offered, none have been convincing. A Los Angeles newspaper quoted an unnamed nuclear physicist as saying the silvery discs resulted from experiments in the "transmutation of atomic energy."

This report was rapidly herded into the hoax column by David Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and several prominent atomic scientists.

Starr Expects Word

Louis E. Starr, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced Saturday at Columbus, Ohio, that he was expecting "momentarily" information from Washington which would explain the dashing discs. But the message never arrived.

The Air Forces said that Gen. Carl Spaatz, Air Forces chief, was in the Pacific Northwest where most of the saucers have been reported, but added that his trip there was planned two months ago, long before the saucers scare. General Spaatz is expected back in Washington late tomorrow.

Muroc Army Air Field in California had a P-80 jet fighter standing by, and the National Guard in Oregon had prepared six regular fighters to give chase should saucers be reported nearby.

English Scoff As America Sees Saucers

London, July 6 (AP).—Don't mention those flying saucers on this side of the Atlantic unless you're prepared for an argument about your sanity.

Europe won't believe in them until somebody lassoes one and has it photographed by Frank Sinatra, the British Ambassador and five Supreme Court justices.

"America's reply to the Loch Ness monster," chortled today's Sunday Dispatch, referring to the vast serpent that is "seen" romping in Scotland's Loch Ness every time the tourist trade needs a shot in the arm.

"You remember those stories about rockets streaking out over Sweden—or is your memory so short?" asks the Communist Daily Worker.

Detect "Ghost Rockets"

(Swedish military headquarters announced last October 10 that radar equipment had detected some kind of "ghost rockets" over Sweden, but that "it proved impossible, on the basis of indications, to decide the nature of the things." Peculiar aerial objects have ben reported sighted in great numbers between July and October, 1946. There was speculation that they might be experimental rockets from the Russian-occupied Baltic Coast of Germany.)

Europeans generally took the position that the flying saucers, like Sweden's "ghost rockets," would go away if everybody took a good stiff bicarbonate of soda and the pledge, in that order.

Frenchmen Shrug

Frenchmen shrugged at the story, Scandinavians grinned good-naturedly and Englishmen—most infuriatingly of all—asked Americans about the skyborne crockery as one might ask a child how his G-man game was progressing.

"You Americans do have a lot of fun playing games like that, don't you?" suggested a school teacher.

New Tax Reduction Measure May Go to Truman This Week

ate Finance Committee approve the tax reduction measure and bring it to the floor Thursday for possible action by the end of the week.

While Senator McClellan (D., Ark.) and others have said they will fight to amend the proposal, the threat of lengthy debate which might delay its passage and hold up the scheduled adjournment of Congress July 26 was lessened by an announcement of Senator Taylor (D., Idaho) that he has no plans to attempt to talk the bill to death.

No Filibuster Plans

Taylor, who spoke at length when opponents were seeking to stave off a vote by which the Senate finally overrode President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, told a reporter he does not think a similar debate will arise either in original consideration of the tax measure or on subsequent action if the President vetoes the new bill.

"I don't think the tax bill is a life-and-death matter with the country and I have no intention of talking at length about it," said the Idaho Senator, who opposes the measure.

Millikin predicted that attempts to amend the tax measure will be beaten down both in the Senate committee and on the floor.

McClellan and his associates, however, are not expected to be turned off their course by a letter written by Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee to Senator Byrd (D., Va.), promising action in January on community property legislation.

Knutson said in the letter that it would be "most unfortunate" if Congress acted "hastily on this matter before we found an adequate solution."

Changes to Be Fought

McClellan insisted, however, that it will be an adequate solution to make it possible for husbands and wives in all the States—not just the 10 where the practice now is legal—to split their income and take advantage of lower Federal rates.

Millikin has put his foot down against any changes in the measure. He said he hopes it can be passed by next weekend, so that President Truman can take the full 10 days to study it before the proposed July 26 quitting date.

Senator Robertson (R., Wyo.), leading the fight against the service unification measure, has prepared a lengthy speech and has a substitute bill ready for introduction. As the committee-approved measure stands, it sets up a Secretary of National Security, with Army, Navy and Air Forces under separate Cabinet heads.

While these measures are under consideration, both Houses will work from time to time on appropriations bills in an effort to clean them up.

Vote Due on Judgeship

The House has scheduled midweek consideration of a Senate-approved measure making the Speaker, instead of the Secretary of State, next in line behind the Vice President in succession to the presidency.

The Senate will interrupt debate on armed services unification to vote tomorrow on a motion by Senator O'Daniel (D., Tex.) to pigeonhole the President's nomination of Joe B. Dooley as Federal judge for the Northern District of Texas.

The same day its Foreign Relations Committee probably will decide whether to suggest that the Senate tackle in the three remaining weeks of the session the House-approved bill to put the State Department's foreign information service on a permanent basis.

500 Attend Dedication of Legion Home

More than 500 persons attended dedication of the new $50,000 clubhouse of the Cissel-Saxon Post, American Legion, 907 Sligo ave., Silver Spring, Md., yesterday.

The building was dedicated by Leonce R. LeGendre, assistant national adjutant of the Legion.

Col. Bryan Hobbs, former Maryland State department commander and now member of the national executive committee, read a congratulatory message from National Commander Paul Griffith.

The three-story frame building has been remodeled at a cost of $15,000 and will be completely furnished soon.

The dedicatory prayer was given by William Brooks, post chaplain. John F. Collier was chairman of the dedication committee and James Roeder chairman of the housing committee which secured the new clubhouse.

Colorful flag-raising ceremonies were held with the aid of Service Company, 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard; Boy Scout Troop 294, which is sponsored by the post, and the Ladies Auxiliary.

John Alexander, retiring post commander, was master of ceremonies, assisted by the new post commander, William Brannan. Music was provided by the 60-piece Elks Boys Band of Silver Spring.

that the appropriation cut would help tax chiselers by making it more difficult to check returns. Other bureau officials said 5000 workers would have to be laid off and that at least 400 million dollars in taxes would be lost because returns could not be carefully checked by the remaining workers. These officials contended that $20 in taxes would be lost for every $1 saved.

To this Mr. Taber said, "nonsense."

And he added: "They'll still have plenty of people to do the work if they keep the good ones and see that everybody puts in a full day's work."

Taber's anger was shared by Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), chairman of the Subcommittee on Appropriations for the Treasury Department.

"It now appears," Dirksen said, "that the Bureau of Internal Revenue intends to make the President's prophecies of lost revenues come true."

Democrats to Check Board Candidates

Arlington Executive Committee Takes Stand That Status Should be Proved

Investigation of candidates for election to the Arlington Democratic Executive Committee was strongly defended yesterday by that group's certification committee.

In a statement replying to criticism of the procedure by Arlington "Progressive Democrats," the committee said the investigation was scheduled in line with the "Democratic Party Plan," and was designed primarily to establish the candidates' Democratic status.

Candidates for election to the committee have been asked to appear before the certification unit tonight at 7:30 in Democratic headquarters, 3179 Wilson blvd., to establish their eligibility.

"The Party Plan specifically provides that no person shall be qualified as a member of the Democratic Executive Committee unless he is a member of the Democratic Party," the statement said. "Many candidates have filed for the Democratic Executive Committee who have no established Democratic affiliation and hitherto have been unknown in Democratic activities in Arlington County."

According to the certification committee, the executive committee is the policy-making body for the Democratic Party, "and therefore great care must be taken to be certain that the candidates are qualified members of the party."

The statement was issued after Harold L. Schilz, chairman of the Arlington Progressive Democrats, said members of his group seeking election to the executive committee would boycott tonight's hearing, and would refuse to appear before the certification unit.

Whether the candidates will be disqualified from participation in the election if they fail to appear at the hearing will have to be determined by the executive committee, Chairman Harry A. Grant of the certification committee said last night.

A total of 56 candidiates have filed for election to the 33-man executive committee.

Clayton's Return May Break Deadlock

Geneva, Switzerland, July 6 (U.P.). Return of United States Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton to the International Trade Conference, coupled with President Truman's veto of the wool tariff bill, may break the deadlock in United States tariff negotiations, observers said today.

Trade and charter talks among other nations reportedly were showing considerable progress. Six trade agreements have been concluded so far, with South Africa as a partner in four of them.

U. S. Must Keep Making A-Bombs, Senator Asserts

The United States must continue making atomic bombs because "we can not afford t odeceive ourselves in the present state of the world," Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) said yesterday.

In a radio broadcast, McMahon, who led the fight for a civilian, instead of military, Atomic Energy Commission, recalled the recent proposal of Dr. Albert Einstein and other scientists for a world government as the road to peace. He added:

"I would be more optimistic about the possible success of this proposal if I thought it could be realized. Unfortunately, it does not seem to me possible that it is in the cards at this time."

Six Residents State Views On Benefits Given to Veterans

Residents interviewed by The Post Poll were assured their names and opinions would not be divulged. Comments presented here were obtained in spot interviews in the downtown area.

A 63-year-old Washingtonian thinks veterans are getting a lot of benefits but "deserve everything they can possibly get."

Heath

J. E. Heath, of 4220 4th st. nw., expressed the view veterans are being treated quite fairly but could be "treated even better."

He said he has never felt any attitude of resentment towards veterans because of the benefits and preferences they have won. Most people "I have come into contact with," he said, seem as grateful to the veterans as they did just after the war.

Heath is an electrician at the National Theater. He has no veterans in his immediate family.

Jones

Prince Jones of 3603 13th st. nw., believes veterans "are getting the jobs they would like to have" and other things, too, that don't come so easily to nonveterans.

"It seems that every time we civilians go to get a job, they ask if we are veterans. If we say no, they say, "Sorry, we can't help you."

They talk as if they would help us, if we were veterans."

Jones, a busboy at a local restaurant, believes resentment toward the veteran is growing because "everywhere you go they want to know if you are a veteran before you can qualify for anything." He said preferences in jobs and housing cause most of the bad feeling.

Anita Slavin, 20, of 5809 3d pl. nw., believes veterans are "getting enough help."

Miss Slavin

"Everybody is helping them out—giving them jobs and building homes for them," Miss Slavin said. "Nonveterans can't get houses and jobs as easily."

Nevertheless, she told a Post interviewer, she feels resentment is definitely not growing. "I think it's vice versa," she said.

"People figure the veterans gave us peace and for that they deserve everything they get—and more."

Miss Slavin works in her father's store.

* * * *

Stewart

Hayes G. Stewart, 23, of 722 22d st. nw., has had no difficulty with housing or employment, but making ends meet is a tough job for him.

His job, law reporting, helps some, he said, but not enough to effectively combat skyrocketing prices.

He reported no signs of resentment toward veterans.

A former Air Corps lieutenant, Stewart is a sophomore at G. W.

* * * *

C. R. Leggett, 31-year-old former Navy storekeeper, 1st class, doesn't have any postwar problems—except for the high cost of living.

"I have a job and I'm pretty well adjusted," Leggett told a Post interviewer.

Leggett

"I haven't asked for anything as a veteran and I haven't gotten anything."

He said he'd completed his education before entering the service and on his return to civilian life went back to his old job.

He said he didn't feel veterans are being "overpampered." A paint salesman, Leggett lives at 710 22d st., S. Arlington.

* * * *

"Money period."

That was the terse response of former Coast Guard Yeoman 3/cl. Alice Breeze to the Post's query on her major problems in civilian life.

Miss Breeze

The cost of clothes, food and rent are all way up, the petite veteran pointed out, so that service life still looks like a good bet to her.

"I wish I were still in," she said. "Living is so much easier that way."

Another major problem cited by Miss Breeze was housing. She and her three roommates hunted for suitable living quarters for quite some time, she said, and got few worthwhile responses to their advertisements.

"Now," she said, "we're pretty well satisfied, but it's not exactly what we wanted."

The pretty veteran, who lives at 1447 Clifton st. nw., said she's "never found any resentment towards veterans." She is now doing clerical work.

Housing Lack, Living Costs Rated Main Veteran Problems

main problems in getting along in civilian life?"

They replied:

	Per cent Saying
High cost of living	35%
Housing	27

No Problems	12

(This table adds to more than 100 per cent because more than one answer was possible).

All local residents were asked:

"Right after the war, everyone wanted to do a lot for the veterans. Do you think veterans are getting enough help, not enough help, or too much help right now?"

	All Groups	Relatives of Vets	No Family Member a Vet
Vets are getting enough help	44%	51%	32%	48%
Not enough help	30	28	42	26
Too much help	8	10	6	9
Some too much, some too little	10	10	12	8
Undecided	8	3	8	9

Asked in what way veterans are not getting enough help, the group with this opinion replied: In housing (52 per cent); in jobs, (21 per cent); in cost of living (8 per cent); injured are not getting euough help (8 per cent), and in understanding of their problems (4 per cent).

Unemployment compensation is chief target of those who think veterans are being pampered.

Washingtonians were then asked:

"It has been said that resentment toward veterans is growing. Do you think this is so?"

They replied:

	All Groups	Relatives of Vets	No Family Member a Vet
Resentment of Veterans is growing	27%	45%	26%	21%
Resentment is not growing	62	52	61	67

Those who believe resentment is growing were asked:

"Why do you think veterans are resented?"

Answers were as follows:

Veterans' attitudes—"they think the world owes them everything," "they demand too much," "they lean on preferences too much," etc.	47%
Veterans' preferences (general)	13
Veterans' preference in jobs	13
Veterans' preference in housing	3
The war is over—people forget, they think veterans are like anyone else	13

British Secret Agent Requests Release of 2 German Officers

London, July 6 (U.P.)—Col. R. H. Best, one of the two British secret agents kidnaped by Germans in a sensational raid on Holland's neutral soil during the early days of the war, today made a strong plea for the release of German Col. Gen. Franz Halder and Col. Bogislav von Bonin.

Halder, former chief of general staff, and Bonin, who was Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's operations chief in Africa and at Hitler's headquarters, are in American custody at Allendorf in Hesse, Germany.

A smilar plea by Best to the British reportedly was effective in bringing about the recent release of Gen. Baron Alevander von Falkenhausen, with whom Best shared a prison cell during his detention by the Nazis.

Best said he "was proud" to call Halder and Bonin "my friends."

"Halder told me personally about the steps he took to consolidate opposition in Germany to Hitler's plan for the invasion of England," Best said.

Best said that the fact that Dr. and Mrs. Kurt von Schuschnigg and their baby daughter, Leon Blum and his wife and many other prominent persons are still alive "is due mainly to the initiative and courage of Colonel Bonin."

He said that SS and SD guards over the group had orders to liquidate them the night of April 29, 1945, to prevent them from being liberated by the Allies.

Bonin secured a company of Wehrmacht infantry and disarmed the SS and SD troops in a surprise move, thereby saving the lives of the party, Best said.

Best was kidnaped along with Col. R. H. Stevens and spent more than four years in German concentration camps, mostly at notorious Dachau.

'Czar' Petrillo Opens 2-Day Stand Today

By the United Press

Music Czar James C. Petrillo opens a two-day appearance before a House Labor Subcommittee today to defend himself against the charge that he has established a dictatorship over the entire entertainment industry.

The hearings was called to determine whether the anti-featherbedding provisions of the Lea Act and the new Taft-Hartley labor law are tough enough to cope with him.

Chairman Carroll D. Kearns (R., Pa.) a paid-up member of Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians—said he has so many question to ask his union boss that the rest of long list of scheduled witnesses probably will not begin testifying until Wednesday.

Night Club Impresario Earl Carroll and Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, head of the Interlochen (Mich.) National Music Festival which has been blackballed by Petrillo, will be on hand to hear the music czar but it was uncertain whether they would testify.

Carroll charges he is being forced to close down the entertainment in his Hollywood restaurant because Petrillo made unreasonable demands of him. Dr. Maddy was expelled from the AFM for his work in the field of amateur music.

Kearns is a musician and educator who has sung professionally in Petrillo's home bailiwick, Chicago.

Virginia Youth Sentenced to Die In Ky. Slaying

Louisville, Ky., July 6 (AP).—Criminal Court Judge Loraine Mix yesterday sentenced Daniel T. McPeak, 21, of Dublin, Va., to die in Kentucky's electric chair November 1 in connection with the robbery-slaying of Vernon Hodge, 26, Louisville war veteran.

However, Judge Mix automatically stayed the execution when he granted an appeal from the jury's verdict returned a month ago.

Jasper Nease, 25, McRoberts, Ky., also has been given a death sentence on the armed-robbery charge but his counsel appealed. A third defendant, Herbert Workman, 18, of Tesla, W. Va., also charged with armed robbery, has been too ill to stand trial.

According to statements given officials by the defendants, who escaped from detention barracks at Fort Knox, Hodge was slain in Perry County, Ky., after he was robbed.

China Executes Traitor

Nanking (Monday), July 7 (AP).—Ting Mo-chun, chief of secret police during the wartime Japanese puppet regime, was executed by a firing squad Saturday for treason.

Relationship Between Patriotism and Religion Stressed in 'Independence Sunday' Sermons

The relationship between patriotism and religion was stressed from many Greater Washington area pulpits at "Independence Sunday" services yesterday.

Rev. Yount

The Rev. George Yount, pastor of Arlington's First Presbyterian Church, called for "unflinching" church support of the United Nations. Speaking in the church at Wilson blvd. and Glebe rd., he said:

"The deterioration of the judgment of political leaders and groups, nourished by hysteria and counsels of men, makes it imperative that the church stir the mind and conscience of men to full service in God's will.

"It is high time for the church to awake," said Mr. Yount. "For, after all, it is our sacred duty to provide spiritual enlightenment and moral armor for our daily tasks and duties. I do not want to vote for a man who is not avowedly right with Almighty God. I will not vote for a godless politician. Here is room for the spirit of independence to live—and not to act as though it were dead!"

Freedom Stressed

Dr. Alfred Wesley Hurst, pastor of Cleveland Park Congregational Church, reminded his congregation that "religious liberty is basic to all the other freedoms we cherish."

"Absolute freedom to choose one's own religious beliefs and the equality of all before the law regardless of religious conviction, is the birthright of American citizenship," he declared. The church is at 34th and Lowell sts. nw.

Dr. Hurst

"Experience proves that religious diversity with freedom is the only acceptable plan in a democracy," continued Dr. Hurst. "Uniformity of religious opinion is utterly impossible and undesirable."

The Rev. Marion S. Michael, minister of Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Four Corners, Md., declared in his sermon:

"The American Nation is confronted this day with the God-given opportunity to translate her independence. The very motives which demanded her independence in the first instance can no longer be passed. For the first time in the history of mankind, our decisions have become a matter of life and death.

Rev. Michael

"Either we do more than talk about independence or we perish. Freedom has become more than a concept of personal behavior. Our religious freedom must emerge from the realm of theology and must be lodged in the hearts of men who will do or die. Our independence shall remain hollow until we shall have learned that the paradox of freedom is a complete surrender—surrender to the ways of God.

Dr. Clifford Homer Richmond, pastor Chevy Chase Methodist Church, warned that "we are drifting from the faith of our fathers."

Addressing a service last night on the courthouse lawn at Leesburg, Va., marking the silver jubilee of the founding of the D. C. Organized Bible Class Association, Dr. Richmond said:

"At the center of our father's faith stood a living and an Almighty God. They believed His will was supreme in the affairs of men and nations. From the beginning they realized their responsibility to God and looked to Him for guidance. It was no formal recognition such as we give today; but, an honest and sincere one. You can't explain America apart from this faith in God.

"When this life-giving faith in the living God is blacked out, there you have paganism, such as we've witnessed very recently throughout the world with its torture chambers and its extermination camps. Let America beware! With less than half of our people belonging to any church and with only one-third of them attending with any degree of regularity, we are drifting from the faith of our fathers."

Dr. Page McK. Etchison, president of the D. C. Organized Bible Class Association and religious work secretary of the Central YMCA, presented a Christian flag to the Rev. J. Shenton Lodge, pastor of Leesburg Methodist Church.

A meeting of a handful of Washington Bible classmen on July 4, 1922, at the Leesburg Methodist Church, launched the Organized Bible Class Association. It now has over 16,000 members in hundreds of Bible classes—in and near Washington.

Dr. L. Ralph Tabor, pastor of Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, in his sermon cited the "weighty contributions" which religious personalities have made toward our Nation's greatness.

"The act of worship is itself most relevant to the achievement of steady, responsible citizenship," he asserted. Three "by-products" of worship which make for true patriotism, he said, "are the ability to see my country under God, as it really ies, and not as my prejudices prefer it to be; the power to recognize the possibility of a truly significant destiny for my country among the nations of the world, and the daring to accept a continuing personal responsibility for the achievement of that destiny."

1st Division Marines Return From China

San Diego, Calif., July 6 (AP).—Nearly 1000 men of the famed Marine First Division arrived here today on the Navy transport Renville from Tientsin, China, where they had been the principal United States force for 19 months.

Coal Strike Looms Tomorrow As Talks Strike New Snag

providing that it applies only as long as the persons covered are individually "willing and able to work."

The UMW chief is said to be insisting on more specific wording in the new soft coal agreement so the union would be exempt from the damage suit and unfair labor practice provisions of the Taft-Hartley law.

The parties are said to be in disagreement also over the administration of the 25 million dollars union health and welfare fund already established and the 60 million dollars to be raised in the next year by the proposed 10 cents a ton levy for the fund.

Lewis is said to be demanding that the chairman of the three-man board of trustees administering the fund shall be the miners' representative and that he shall have the veto power over board decisions. He has agreed to operator representation and a third impartial member as required by the Taft-Hartley law.

Otherwise, the parties are said to have worked out satisfactorily the language of other provisions.

The contract reportedly provides a daily wage rate of $13.05 for an eight-hour day, 10 cents a ton contribution to the health and welfare fund, includes the Federal mine safety code in effect during Government operation of the mines, and grants Lewis the bargaining right for some groups of workers heretofore classified as supervisors.

Covers 145,000

The contract covers 145,000 miners in 3000 Northern commercial and steel company-operated mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio, northern West Virginia and Maryland.

Illinois operators have announced that they are ready to sign a similar pact covering 40,000 miners. Industry sources said Indiana producers would go along on such an agreement for their 10,000 miners.

Southern producers, who employ 150,000 miners, have sought unsuccessfully to obtain negotiations with Lewis to discuss a new contract. They are said to be ready to sign substantially the same kind of pact but under protest.

The snag in working out the Northern agreement may put off UMW ratification so long that it would be mechanically impossible to notify the affected miners in time to get them back to work tomorrow morning. The delay already has made it almost certain that miners in Indiana and Illinois will be unable to return to work tomorrow morning.

a punctured stomach, fractured left arm and leg, and possible spine fracture. He was pinned underneath the overturned car.

A companion in the car, Joseph C. Hagerty, 22, of 713 Nicholson st. nw., said he and Boyd, who was driving, were returning here from Breezy Point Beach. Hagerty, an apprentice engraver for the Times-Herald, was thrown clear of the car and was uninjured.

At 10:25 a. m., a Cabin John streetcar struck Oscar Volgeli, 79, of 2305 Washington Circle, as Volgeli crossed the street at Hutchins pl. nw. Volgeli was treated at Georgetown University Hospital for elbow abrasions. The streetcar, police said, was operated by Isma Bryan, 36, of 1113 P st. se.

At 1:40 a. m., a truck driven by Frank V. Rainey, 21, of 2125 Ward pl. nw., ran over a curb in the 4200 block of Connecticut ave. nw., struck a light pole and overturned. A passenger, Fred B. Carpenter, 22, of 1232 Ward Court nw., was treated at Emergency Hospital for a lacerated scalp.

Police charged Rainey with unauthorized use of an automobile, driving without a District driver's permit and leaving the scene of an accident. Carpenter and another passenger, Robert L. Jefferson, 17, of 1219 22d st. nw., were charged with unauthorized use of the vehicle.

Sergt. Brook Meade and Patrolman George Ward said the plane crashed three quarters of a mile from the Dixie Airport shortly after taking off from the field, which is 11 miles west of Annapolis.

A witness, L. F. Kirchner, said "The motor stopped and the plane nosedived from an altitude of 500 to 700 feet.

2 Men Injured As Plane Crashes Near Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 6 (AP).—Two men were injured today when their light Cub plane nosedived into a wooded area, county police reported.

Pilot William J. Baldree, 38, of Annapolis and his passenger, James Davidson, 32, of Bowie, were removed to Emergency Hospital here. The extent of their injuries was not known immediately.

48-Hour Mississippi Drop Due

Chester, Ill., July 6 (AP).—The flooded Mississippi fell slowly between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo., today and U. S. Army Engineers said the outlook all along the stream was much brighter, although stages generally were still far above flood level.

The river at St. Louis dropped to 39.1 feet exactly a week after it passed that stage while climbing to a 40.3 reading, highest since 1844. A continued steady fall was predicted for the next 48 hours. At Cairo, Ill., 150 miles south, the Mississippi reached 43.8 and continued to rise, but the crest was reported near that point.

Two-thirds of Grand Tower, Ill., just south of here, remained under water with an estimated 600 persons of the town's 1000 population out of their homes.

About 200,000 acres of farmland between Louisiana, Mo., and Cairo remained under water, with damage in the area estimated at more than 12 million dollars.

A slight rainfall yesterday did not change the picture, the engineers said, except to make it uncomfortable for the workers.

—and Ability to match

GIVE yourself five seconds, and you know that here's car styling as up to the minute as the time of day.

Spend a few fast minutes to see why — and you spot both smartness right from tomorrow's designing boards and everything that should go with it.

Measure the reach and spread of that Buick bonnet, brim-filled with Fireball power.

Sweep your glance over the broad beam that spells room, the stretch that means easy-riding wheelbase, the size that tells of enough roadweight to end jounce and jitter.

Here, you tell yourself, is something to see. Here are looks to hold the eye for seasons to come — and lively, durable ability to match:

... Rich abundance of smooth, hushed Fireball horsepower from a straight-eight kept young and lively by Accurite cylinder finish.

... Tireless coil springing on all four wheels, leveling all roads to boulevard smoothness.

... Riding poise from two steadying tons of roadweight — ease of handling from balance to draw a ballet dancer's envy. Soft, roomy cushions seating three apiece — finish that's the very last word in richness and taste.

Yes, it takes no time at all to show that you and Buick belong together, should go together steady — so what's holding you back?

After all, we can't do much about getting one to you till you make your wishes plain. You do that simply by placing your order — which will get equal consideration whether or not you have a car to trade.

TUCK AWAY PLENTY! Roomy luggage compartments hold plenty—and high-lifting lids make it easy to get at any piece.

Expert Aid For Congress

One of the main pillars of the Legislative Reorganization Act is that section designed to improve and expand the facilities for making information available to Congress. The reorganizers decided that it was no economy but a grave waste to deprive Congress of the expert assistants needed to provide its members with detailed data on all subjects and issues bearing upon legislation. So they proposed that the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress be substantially expanded, with a budget that was to reach $750,000 in the fiscal year 1949. For the year just begun it was to have $650,000. A short-sighted subcommittee in the House, however, cut this down to $300,000 and the most strenuous pleading by Representative Dirksen could raise this only to $400,000 before the bill emerged from the full Appropriations Committee and was passed by the House.

This drastic use of the pruning knife by Representative Noble Johnson's subcommittee was preceded, as Jerry Kluttz pointed out yesterday in his column, "The Federal Diary," by an extensive hunt for disloyalty in the Legislative Reference Service. Apparently none whatever was found. The committee's report makes no mention of employe disloyalty. The committee showed good judgment in not trying to make a case without evidence to go on. But instead of following the logic of its own findings, it proceeded to slash the LRS fund in a manner directly contrary to the will of Congress as expressed in the Reorganization Act.

We have much sympathy with the efforts of Congress to squeeze every unnecessary dollar out of the huge appropriations bills with which it is struggling. But we do not think it is sensible for Congress to deprive itself of the information it needs to do its legislative job efficiently. And the best source of such information—general data which cannot be supplied by expert committee staffs—is an independent, nonpolitical Legislative Reference Service of the type that is now operating in the Library of Congress. More thoughtful consideration of this requirement has apparently been given on the Senate side, and a substantial increase in the LRS fund may be expected. For the sake of strengthening the legislative branch, which, after all, is the fulcrum of our democratic system, we hope that the House will have the good judgment to acquiesce.

Profiteering In Cars

The so-called used-car racket is the natural consequence of the inability of automobile manufacturers to turn out a sufficient supply of new cars to meet deferred demands of eager would-be buyers. It was a foregone conclusion that the removal of price controls over new and used cars while scarcities still prevailed would encourage the kind of second-hand buying at exorbitant prices that is now going on. After World War I there was the same kind of frenzied buying—the chief difference being that cars were then regarded as luxuries beyond the reach of the average lower-income families. Today the family car has become an institution whose cost and upkeep figures in the budget of the comparatively poor as well as the rich. Hence the opportunities for profiteering in cars and the damage resulting from it are much greater than they were a quarter century ago.

This profiteering takes two forms: sales by commercial agencies and sales by individuals who make a few hundred dollars by either disposing of their old cars or making quick sales of new cars at premium prices. The latter type of profiteering, though no doubt extensive, is comparatively innocuous so long as it is confined to shifts of ownership from one individual to another. Unfortunately, it is a different story when the individual owner becomes merely a channel through which supplies of cars—used and new—reach dealers' lots for sales to the general public at fancy prices. This organized business, which draws its car supplies from the public and adds profits from resales to the high prices paid to the individual owner-sellers has assumed the proportions of a racket in many communities and in effect thwarts the efforts of the automobile industry to maintain fair and reasonable prices for its products.

A business of this kind that encourages excessive spending of savings or surplus income is, of course, against public policy. But so long as impatient, self-indulgent people are willing to squander their money for the sake of satisfying their immediate desires, the temptation to exploit their weakness is irresistible. Profiteering of this sort is not confined to automobiles. The turnover in old houses and the high profits from sales of new ones provide an outstanding example of the way in which prices of scarce goods zoom in uncontrolled markets. The inevitability of such developments demonstrates the folly of removing price controls before the supply of durable goods had caught up with demand. We are now paying for such folly.

Fortunately, the conditions that give rise to exploitation are temporary. A large segment of the buying public is prepared to wait until the cars they need or want can be bought on reasonable terms. When the less disciplined buyers have been supplied with cars, therefore, the used-car racket will shrink rapidly and it will disappear when the automobile industry catches up with orders.

Open Conspiracy

President Truman's Independence Day speech, unlike Mr. Bevin's, was nicely calculated to encourage all Europe outside Russia to engage in what H. G. Wells would have called the great Open Conspiracy to unite Europe. The invitations are now out. It may be that delegates will be forthcoming beyond the Iron Curtain, though the Muscovites will doubtless strain every nerve to keep the willing Poles and Czechs away. The hardening brusqueness of the Kremlin makes one wonder whether the NKVD (which has always been insulationist) hasn't taken charge of affairs. This, we imagine, is how the situation will look to the satellites, for their surprise appears to be as marked as their present unhappiness over the denouement. Just as Western Europe needs Eastern Europe, so Eastern Europe needs Western Europe. In default of membership in the proposed economic concert Eastern Europe would find itself progressively tied to the impoverished Russian economy. That would lower its living standards as well as Western Europe's and incidentally would call for more aid from us for Western Europe than otherwise would be needed. For both reasons the President was wise to bespeak the most comprehensive mutual aid association in Europe.

Molotov's refusal to commit Russia to the effort in Paris to develop a common plan for European reconstruction is the finest tribute we know to the Truman Doctrine and to its first application in Greece. Mr. Truman was criticized for by-passing the United Nations. The critics parroted Mr. Gromyko's denunciation of our plan for Greece as "unilateral," though, if they had given the subject a moment's thought, they would have realized that an affirmative answer to a plea for help makes agreement bilateral. It was precisely on a par with the pacts that the Russians themselves had concluded over the head of the United Nations. During the last two years the Soviet government has signed three treaties—with Poland, with Czechoslovakia, and with Yugoslavia—pledging the assistance of these countries in loans, arms and military and civilian instructors.

Where Mr. Truman erred, as we said at the time, was in refraining from communicating his aid program to the United Nations at the same time as he sent it to Congress. But that was only an error in procedure, or, better put, tactics. If he had referred the harassed Greeks and Turks to the United Nations, it is now plain that the request would have been talked to death, as the Ethridge report pointing the finger at Russia's satellites for the responsibility for the border warfare in Greece looks as if it will be talked to death. Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan is so disquieted by Russian procrastination on this latter matter that on Thursday he warned that failure to take action on the basis of the Ethridge report would be equivalent to tearing up the Charter and that the delegates might as well pack up and go home. Greece and Turkey knew that their request would be similarly treated, otherwise they would have applied for help to the United Nations. Now the world, as a result of the experience in Paris, shares that knowledge.

Just as clear as the President's wisdom in the matter of aid to Greece and Turkey is the British-French wisdom in keeping the mutual aid program out of the U. N.'s Economic Commission for Europe sitting in Geneva. It is said that this was Mr. Molotov's initial proposal. Experience has shown that the U. N. is being used as a graveyard for the strivings of mankind for betterment and unity across national frontiers. A Bear-hug was awaiting the Marshall initiative at Geneva, but the British and the French, with needs that have become urgent, avoided this smothering embrace. At Geneva they had seen the Russians engaged in killing the few functional agencies left for reconstruction in Europe. They had seen the Russians insisting on decisions by a two-thirds vote so as to provide a Slavic veto power. We must now help the British and French go it alone—that is to say, in company, and ever closer company, with other like-minded nations. And not for the purpose of ganging up against Russia (for any grouping should be kept open) but for economic reconstruction and the preservation and improvement of our common civilization.

At Paris Mr. Molotov proved the statement uttered as his valedictory by former Undersecretary Dean Acheson that Soviet Russia is "diametrically opposed to the new premises of international accord and recovery." It is the worm in the United Nations which is eating it away. We must now prove in all our actions that we intend to meet negation with affirmation, and so mobilize our resources that the slump for which the Muscovites seem to be waiting, so as to pick up all Europe at what would then be a fire sale, will never happen. It is a very sober undertaking upon which the Russians have compelled us to embark, and President Truman, in his backing of the Marshall initiative and his emphasis on non-exclusiveness, struck exactly the right note. We must try to match our quest for interdependence with Russia's quest for independence and domination. Our success in achieving it will eventually wear down Russian insulation, and persuade the Russians that hermit states are unprofitable and intolerable in this shrunken and atomic world.

In The Sky

At this writing enough of the flying saucers or peregrinating pieplates have been observed in the heavens to equip a celestial crockery shop, but the mystery of how they got up there and what it all means, if anything, grows deeper and deeper. Until a few days ago these strange and, some seem to think, sinister phenomena were reported mainly from the Northwest, notably Washington and Idaho. But the other night four of the things were observed in Friendship Heights, just across our District of Columbia line. Thus it could scarcely have been one of the saucers from Mr. Atamian's set that had been observed on the previous evening over the City of Baltimore by three witnesses of good repute. One of these, a Mr. Riley, wouldn't swear that the thing he saw was one of the flying saucers he had been reading about, but the other two witnesses, who were women, said they had enough experience of dishes to recognize a flying saucer when they saw one.

Out in Seattle a Coast Guardsman named Ryman even managed to make a picture of one of the things which was reproduced yesterday on the front pages of many newspapers including The Post. We hope that it will not hurt the feelings of Mr. Ryman and the picture editor if we say that to our own untutored eyes it might just as easily have been the picture of a golf ball on a putting green. Meanwhile, other observations of flying saucers have been reported from as far north as the Province of Quebec and as far South as New Orleans and also from such intermediate points as Philadelphia, Augusta (Maine) and Akron.

A Los Angeles newspaper quoted an anonymous nuclear scientist who is supposed to have said that the saucers are being sent up from points in California, New Mexico and Oregon where alchemic experiments of some sort are in progress. But Dr. Newbern Smith of the Bureau of Standards was satisfied that the whole thing is just one of those mass illusions like the Lochness sea monster. Mr. Gordon Atwater of the Hayden Planetarium was inclined to the same opinion, but thought it possible that the things could be masses of ice crystals mirroring the rays of the sun. Anyway, they can hardly be meteorites, he said, for meteorites are never shaped like saucers.

In this welter of conflicting testimony and of expert opinion we do not see fit at this moment to offer any hypothesis of our own. But if the phenomenon of the flying saucers should be followed by apparitions of flying cups, platters, gravy boats, porringers and soup bowls that, it seems to us, will be evidence enough of a rational pattern and design in the business, and we promise to adopt a firm and vigorous policy in the matter.

D. C. Population

The Washington Board of Trade has made a timely and useful study of the probable effects of budget cuts on Federal employment in the District. Exaggerated rumors of impending mass discharges have alarmed some local businessmen with good reason. As Government employes are the chief source of consumer purchasing power, a wholesale exodus would have a seriously depressing effect on District trades and industries. From present indications, however, the reduction in personnel in this area will not exceed ~~10,000 this year and~~ that loss will be partially offset by the anticipated return of agencies employing about 5000 persons that were moved out of the District to relieve wartime congestion. Furthermore, the reduction in personnel in some Government agencies will be accompanied by the expansion of others.

Over a period of years, presumably, the reduction of personnel will be considerably larger; the Board of Trade, indeed, expects the number of Federal employes located here to decline from the present level of 215,000 to 180,000 by 1951. But the District will be afforded ample time to adjust itself to these changes. Moreover, many dismissed Government employes will find jobs with private employers since many local establishments are handicapped by shortages of qualified workers. Because of these compensating factors, added to the natural increase in population, the future prosperity of Washington does not seem to be jeopardized by the coming postwar decline in the size of Government establishments.

YELLOW-SHAFTED FLICKER

Here, in the hollow of a sycamore
The yellow-shafted flicker makes his home;
The emerald leaves provide his only door—
A roof of sky assures an azure dome.
Wild fruit and dogwood are his daily fare,
Or sour-gum, and poison ivy berries;
Half earth, half sky, he navigates the air,
Tasting the sun, or sampling wild, sweet cherries.
Over the summer fields we hear his call
Out of the tiny beak . . . then WICKER, WICKER,
In loud insistence, till the sharp notes fall
Back in his throat; the yellow-shafted flicker
Flashes across the camera of our sight,
Leaving a streak of song, a golden light.

Flood Control

With flood crests along the Missouri and Mississippi higher than for over 100 years, with lesser streams running wild and also causing tremendous damage, it is imperative that something be done to stop the annual widespread destruction of property, disruption of transportation and commerce, and utter desolation to thousands.

Of course, every thoughtful American wants to see the national debt regularly reduced, but he does not want to see the growth of the Nation retarded through unreasonably curtailing expenditures necessary for important protection and development. America is not yet complete, or safe. Both growth and strength call for better flood protection, and better harbors and channels.

Waterways and flood control works, like highways and railways, require constant improvement and maintenance. During the war both were neglected. Today, we have grim evidence of that neglect.

It is difficult to believe that since the end of the war, Congress has sanctioned 11 billion dollars for the economic rehabilitation of foreign countries, and then has unreasonably reduced appropriations for urgent improvements in our own country.

Religion In The Schools

Thomas Jefferson said in 1815: "I fear, from the experiences of the last 25 years, that morals do not of necessity advance hand in hand with the sciences." This statement is more true today because the teaching of moral principles today, unlike Jefferson's time, reaches a far less percentage of our population.

Thomas Jefferson said, also, when discussing the subject matter to be taught in the schools: "The first elements of morality, too, may be instilled into their minds; such as, when further developed as their judgments advance in strength, may teach them how to work out their own greatest happiness, by showing them that it does not depend on the condition of life in which chance has placed them, but is always the result of good conscience, good health, occupation, and freedom in all just pursuits."

The purely secular school was unknown in the days of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson. All universities were headed by religious divines. Character education was the prime purpose of education. Religion and education were, therefore, inseparable. Horace Mann got his ideas about the public school from Germany, where many other ideas originated which time has proved to be not only unworkable but dangerous to the moral health of the nation. Marxism was spawned in Germany.

Dialectical materialism and the overemphasis on purely secular education is paving the way for the widespread acceptance of atheistic communism in these United States. Unless children, not otherwise receiving moral instruction, obtain moral principles by the released time religious instruction program, we shall become a backward nation, the citizens of which will be so morally ignorant that they will lack the character and courage to resist the siren call of the atheistic dictator with his police state.

Un-American Activities

If the Communists have honest convictions and honorable motives there is no good reason for their not coming into the open and trying to "sell" their theories to all Americans. That is the American system as opposed to the Soviet underground system. That would automatically give them constitutional protection for freedom of speech. The Constitution does not and never did guarantee protection for clandestine activities and most emphatically it does not when such activities are aimed at its own destruction.

I consider myself an average American, and I must confess that I do not know what the Communists are really driving at. But their underground and underhanded methods make me violently opposed to them. Should they ever present their case honestly, candidly and openly, then if the majority of the people should vote for it, it would be entirely within the principles of the Constitution. But if they should succeed in seizing the Government by force, that would kill the Constitution and leave the people without any lawful protection whatsoever.

Who are those who make up this underground Communist Party?

If American born they must be sadly uneducated or callow youths who think it smart to be members of a discredited secret organization. Spank these publicly.

If foreign born they would fall into two classes:

First, those who have not become naturalized citizens. These should be given prison terms and then deported.

Second, those who have become naturalized. In order to become naturalized they have taken an oath to support and defend the Constitution. If they are secretly plotting to overthrow it they are traitors, and they should be hanged.

The Committee on Un-American Activities has been doing a very fine American job.

Chandler Conviction

Conviction of Douglas Chandler deprives a true patriot of his rights under the Constitution.

Chief Justice Holmes, in a Supreme Court opinion, wrote: "We should be eternally vigilant against attempts to check expression of opinion that we loathe and believe to be fraught with death unless an immediate check is required to save the country."

Internal Revenue

I read Jerry Kluttz's column of July 1, regarding the layoffs in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. I note that he says the abolition of 4500 jobs will cost the Treasury about half a million dollars annually. This, no doubt, is a mistake since two good agents may well produce half a million dollars annually in deficient taxes.

I personally, was a war service appointee and a non-veteran, and am not trying to go to bat for my own job. However, speaking as one of several million taxpayers who has no alternative other than to pay the correct amount of tax due since it is paid through the process of withholding, I feel that if all these taxpayers could have had experience in the field as internal revenue agents, they would realize what laying off these agents means to them, and as taxpayers and voters, would demand that Internal Revenue Service be expanded until all of the tax chiselers have been made to pay their correct tax.

After serving two years as an internal revenue agent, I would be happy if I could know that my personal taxes were being used to help keep an adequately staffed internal revenue force to hold taxpayers in line who still have the privilege of stating the amount of tax they are willing to pay on a gamble that the internal revenue agent will not get around to checking them.

This recalls to my memory that during last filing period a certain publisher made known to these taxpayers what the chances were of their returns being checked. He, no doubt, will revise his figures now and advise them that their chances of being checked are much less, Consequently the American tax chiseler will cut deeper and deeper on Uncle Sam's pocket book, shifting the tax burden more and more from taxpayers who are more able to pay to the vast majority of taxpayers who are less able to pay, but who must pay through the process of withholding.

In order to make tax payments equitable for all, our lawmakers should see that the measure used to gauge tax payments on non-withholding-tax payers is as efficient as the withholding method on the wage earner. How else can this be done except through an adequately staffed Internal Revenue Service?

National Health Insurance

Dr. Thomas E. Mattingly's letter published in your columns on June 15 contains the laudable hope that "conflicting views" about health insurance should be "conciliated." Dr. Mattingly then proceeds, however, to attack the Senators who have sponsored national health insurance in a way that is neither accurate nor conciliatory. May I briefly set the record straight on his three main points?

1. Dr. Mattingly declares that the Senators "insist" that health insurance must provide for "all possible medical service needs." If he read the bill (S. 1320) which these Senators have sponsored, he would see that only the services of physicians (general practitioners and specialists) and of hospitals are required.

Dr. Mattingly, however, favors health insurance plans which offer only services while the patient is in a hospital.. Such a limitation is undesirable, both medically and financially. The president of the New York Academy of Medicine criticized such restrictions in his recent testimony before a Senate committee, saying, "Limited coverage which does not include home and office care and consultative and laboratory services for ambulatory patients omits most preventive services and therefore will not materially influence morbidity rates."

At present, the 90-odd health insurance plans sponsored by State and county medical societies provide only limited service, whereas 175 health insurance plans sponsored by the people who pay the bills generally provide comprehensive care.

2. Dr. Mattingly charges that these Senators "want doctors to forfeit basic rights of freedom of contract guaranteed all other forms of labor and manpower." Anyone who reads the bill will see that physicians are guaranteed bargaining rights through their medical societies or individually; and that every possible provision is made for the maintenance of high professional standards. Under the bill, all purely medical matters remain wholly under medical control.

3. Dr. Mattingly declares that these Senators have cast aside the principle of free choice of doctor by the patient. To the contrary, the bill guarantees the right of free choice in the most explicit terms possible.

How can Dr. Mattingly expect to be taken seriously when he charges the sponsors of this legislation with what they have never sponsored?

Equality And Excellence

SOME TASKS FOR EDUCATION, by Sir Richard Livingstone. (Oxford University Press. $1.50.)

This little book contains the four lectures given by Sir Richard about two years ago at the University of Toronto. In view of the contents the title seems almost absurdly unemphatic, for I gather that the main task of education is to save humanity from annihilating itself with its new toys, and this I take to be something of a rush order. To make it all a little more difficult, Sir Richard's recipe is the old-fashioned liberal, or more accurately the humane, curriculum, now pretty generally out of favor with pedagogues and pupils alike. His argument is essentially this: that there is no hope of improving the world except by improving ourselves and very little hope of that unless we are given some notion of the greatness of which human nature is capable. "The great sources of our knowledge in this field," says Sir Richard, "are religion and the subsidiary realms of literature and the arts."

If an education of this sort seems rather narrow, Sir Richard retorts that "any good education must be narrow," and that "education prospers by economy, by exclusion." The curse of contemporary education, he insists, is the crowded curriculum. "Overcrowding, in education as in housing, means ill-health and turns the school into an intellectual slum. Life in such a slum breeds a disease, common, serious and often overlooked. It does not teach the pupil the meaning of knowledge." Thus the world is full of persons who are, so to speak, pitifully ignorant of their own ignorance; never having been taught any subject thoroughly, they are unaware that there are any subjects of which they know nothing and so feel free, like editorial writers, to have opinions on all subjects. Sir Richard does not go quite as far as Mr. Aldous Huxley and others who have praised illiteracy because it protects men from such dangerous illusions, but he does consider that the unlettered are less a menace than half-educated who, as the proverb has it, "know not and know not that they know not." A sound curriculum, therefore, would include "certain subjects—they cannot be more and should hardly be less than two"—which "must be studied so thoroughly that the pupil gets some idea what knowledge is."

Sir Richard, who, besides being vice chancellor of Oxford and head of its Corpus Christi College, is famous as a classical scholar and as a translator of Thucydides, does not expressly say that these two subjects should be Greek and Latin, as was the case a hundred years ago, though he quotes Professor Whitehead and the late Lord Milner to prove that the old-fashioned English classical education was of greater value as a preparation for politics than all the courses in all the new schools of government, political science and diplomacy put together. Indeed, Sir Richard confesses with an almost audible sigh that hereafter probably only a few will learn to read Greek; yet he thinks that the rest ought at least to make shift with an English version of Plato. But on one point he is altogether firm—that every school curriculum must bring the student into contact with greatness; that is with "the highest reach and scope of the spirit of man." This is necessary because every society takes its character from the character of its members, which in turn is derived from their aspirations.

In the past, as Sir Richard admits, the chief weakness of liberal education was that only a small minority of citizens, chosen mainly by economic status, were exposed to it, and these included many who had no real aptitude for the study of languages, while "many sheep, who were hungry or at least capable of hunger, remained unfed and left school with their intellectual interests starved or undeveloped." But even today it is not recognized that democracy must include not only political and economic freedom, but also "freedom of access and equality in all those activities which ennoble and adorn life," that "we cannot be content with a state where the few are civilized and the many merely employed, fed and amused." Today the many in democracies like Britain and the United States, as compared to the many in Periclean Athens, lack real education in politics, for political education, says Sir Richard, means something more than an understanding of "practical needs and immediate issues"; it also means an acquaintance with the sublimities of religion, art and drama. The Greek tragedies, which, as he reminds us, were attended year after year by every class of Athenians, dealt with such problems as "the clash between the will of the state and the higher laws; the eternal human tendency to corruption by prosperity, the problem of reconciliation and atonement for wrongdoing; war in many aspects—the triumph of a great national victory; the sufferings of the vanquished; the debasement of the victor by success."

Our nearest equivalent to this great educational institution of antique democracy, observes Sir Richard bitterly, are the movies, for the influence of the modern theater reaches only a few, and has besides no religious association. And yet he believes that the movies are potentially an even more powerful educational force than the ancient drama, not only because they reach far greater numbers, but because they have largely become "the Twentieth Century's substitute for the church." If the movies are what they are, the fault is in us rather than in Hollywood, for "prostitutes, spiritual, intellectual, physical, will always be found while there is a market for them."

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

The Politburo's Choice

INTELLIGENCE REPORTS so detailed that they can no longer be disregarded have reached Washington, to the effect that an international brigade, under Comintern auspices, is being organized to fight in Greece. Observers here recognize the preponderant long-term importance of the European reception of the Marshall plan. But they believe that for the short term the northern Greek border area is easily the most important and explosive friction point in the world today.

In Greece the Soviets are faced with the same hard choice, on a much larger scale, as confronted them in northern Iran last autumn. In view of the immense risks of any other course, the politburo strategists can decide to cut losses and pull out, as they did in Iran. Or they can intensify the effort to capture Greece, using the now forming international brigade as their chief instrument. It would be difficult to exaggerate the gravity of the consequences if the politburo makes the second choice.

The key figure in the organization of the international brigade is the Greek Communist and guerilla leader, Nicholas Zachariades. Zachariades went to Moscow in the twenties, and there took the long hard Comintern schooling until 1935, when he returned to Greece. In the Soviet Union he knew, and became friendly with, such other Comintern graduates as France's Jacques Duclos, Italy's Palmira Togliatti and Yugoslavia's Josef Broz, now Marshal Tito. These old school friendships are now standing Zachariades in good stead.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS, Duclos is sponsoring the clandestine training of the international brigade which includes a sprinkling of veterans of the old international brigade which fought in Spain. Training is being carried on in the South of France, largely in the "recreational centers" of the Communist-run general confederation of labor. When preliminary training is completed, old school friend Duclos hands over to old school friend Togliatti. In small batches the men are shipped to northern Italy, usually to Genoa, where Togliatti's organization takes over. They are quietly conducted across northern Italy to the Adriatic, where they are shipped to Yugoslav ports. Then it is the turn of old school friend Tito, who has at his disposal ample facilities for completing the men's training. A portion of the brigade is known to have arrived in Yugoslavia, but none of them has yet crossed the Greek frontier. That is awaiting the final decision of the politburo.

The trend of the politburo's thinking was perhaps reflected in a recent Communist strategy meeting held in Strasbourg, France, after Secretary Marshall made his historic proposal. Zachariades, who crosses borders without difficulty, was secretly present at this meeting. However, he allowed an aide, Porfyrogennis, to speak for him. Porfyrogennis announced that it might be necessary to establish a "free Greek government" in a "free Macedonia," to counter the reactionary government in Athens. This pronouncement of an obscure Greek Communist is regarded in Washington with the utmost gravity. If carried through, it will mean that Gov. Dwight Griswold, the chief of the American Mission to Greece, will face on his arrival, or shortly thereafter, an all-out civil war, backed more or less openly by the Soviets, through the employment of the Comintern-organized international brigade.

Zachariades is believed to have sponsored the formation of the brigade simply because there have recently been increasing signs of disaffection and loss of morale in the guerilla ranks. The brigade would be designed to provide the necessary stiffening and leadership. If the politburo decides in the end to take the desperate gamble of throwing the brigade into action, the United States will then be faced with a crucial decision. Either this country can rely on the ineffective Greek army to protect the American political investment in Greece, or the United States can itself take whatever measures may be necessary to protect that investment. That might well mean the sending of American troops to Greece. And it is all too easy to see where such a step might lead.

YET COMPETENT OBSERVERS here are fairly hopeful that this terrible choice may still be avoided. They lend the utmost significance to the Soviet reaction to the proposal of the United Nations Balkan commission. Except for the Soviet and Polish members, this commission unanimously recommended that a United Nations border commission be established to guarantee the Greek frontiers. If the Soviets abstain from voting when the proposal comes up before the Security Council, this will be taken to mean that the Soviet leaders have decided, as they decided last autumn on Iran, that at least temporarily it is the better part of wisdom to abandon the drive on Greece. If the Soviets veto, this will be taken to mean that the drive is to be intensified and the international brigade is to be thrown into action.

The British delegate to the United Nations recently remarked that if the Balkan commission proposals were set aside, the United Nations "might as well pack up." A Soviet veto of the proposals may have an even more ominous significance.

Postal Rate On Books

IT'S AN OLD political axiom that the squeaky wheel gets the grease. That is to say, the pressure group making the biggest noise gets the biggest favors.

Childs

Likewise, the meek and the modest, who may some day inherit the earth, receive little attention from the powers that be in Congress. Looking for ways to economize, the Republicans are also scurrying about to find new and preferably painless methods of raising revenue.

One proposal now before Congress is to raise the postal rate on books. To those who deal in global sums and global crises, this will seem a mere flea bite on the body politic. It would bring in only two to three millions in additional money.

But small as this is, it can do a serious injustice with consequences far out of proportion. For many years, magazines have been given preferential treatment on the theory that they helped to educate the public.

This has meant, in effect, a generous subsidy to the magazine industry.

BOOKS, however, never have received such preferential treatment, although they have not fully paid their way in the postal system. Now Chairman Edward H. Rees of the House Postoffice and Civil Service Committee proposes to increase the rate from 4 cents to 8 cents on the pound, and from 3 to 4 cents for each additional pound.

If you can make a case for magazines spreading light and learning, you can make an even better case for books on the same score. In fact, in the field of book publishing today there is a wider range of expression and a more free play of ideas than anywhere else. Books coming off the press these days radiate ideas.

In the nonfiction field they are a vital source of information, contributing to an understanding of the complicated world in which we are trying to find a peaceful way. Take that whale of a book, Inside U. S. A., by John Gunther, which must weigh at least 5 pounds. It is a remarkable synthesis of knowledge about this broad land and the strange and wonderful things that happen in it.

At the height of the controversy over the Truman program for Greece and Turkey, there appeared a book called The Greek Dilemma, by William McNeill, based on exhaustive first-hand knowledge. It is useful not merely to the ordinary reader, but for Americans going on the mission to Greece it is a valuable handbook.

Prof. Arnold Toynbee's recently published A Study of History gives us the rise and fall of empires through the centuries. We see in the perspective of this sweep what our own role is likely to be at the present moment of history. Anyone who reads Carlo Levi's Christ Stopped at Eboli will have a better understanding of the politics of desperation in Italy.

THE LIST OF current examples could be extended almost indefinitely, and there is a long and impressive record out of the past of books that have cut through the dark of ignorance and superstition. In the continuing struggle for freedom, they are powerful weapons.

While there are large publishing firms and the book clubs are in a sense big business, the opportunity for the newcomer seems greater in this field than in almost any other. Several new firms have come into being since the war ended.

On the retail side, too, the book business is one of the few in which the individual can make a start with a modest investment. A recent development is the 25-cent pocket book, distributed in large numbers. Pocket books include not merely thrillers, but fiction and nonfiction titles representing the best in literature.

Undoubtedly, the postal rates need a thorough overhauling. Like our archaic tax structure, they have "just growed." Some interests are favored, others are penalized. A careful study is needed to make sense out of the tangle.

But meanwhile it is unfair to put a further penalty on the publishing business least capable of defending itself. Books, however they may sometimes be debased in the quest for mass readership, are part of the honorable record of man's long struggle up from the primeval ooze.

Jim Farley's Memoirs

By Ernest Lindley

How Snobbish Were The Roosevelts?

ON MATTERS OF FACT, James A. Farley is as reliable a witness as could be found. His high standing in American politics is due not only to his agreeable personality, his energy, and his mastery of the techniques of political management, but to his veracity. Moreover, during his years in the Government, he took the time, amid all of his other activities, to dictate memoranda on important conversations and events. In reviewing those years, he is able to buttress his memory, which is above average, with written notes.

Lindley

As to the conclusions to be drawn from some of the facts in his possession, "Big Jim" is not necessarily the most objective judge, however. To arrive at a balanced appraisal, his facts must be weighed with other facts.

PERHAPS THE MOST surprising impression given by his intensely interesting series of articles in Collier's is that he and Mrs. Farley were, or felt, slighted socially by the Roosevelts. He reports that he was never invited to spend a night at the White House and hardly ever invited to join the President on a weekend cruise or on informal social occasions.

He quotes Mrs. Roosevelt as saying: "Franklin finds it hard to relax with people who aren't his social equals."

The date of the quotation attributed to Mrs. Roosevelt is not given. If "Big Jim" remembers or understood her correctly, she may have alluded to some of the late President's early cruises as a guest on Vincent Astor's yacht. On those cruises, people active in public life or politics were usually excluded, and the rule was that no serious matter was ever to be brought up. The purpose was to give FDR a vacation, or as complete a vacation as the business messages sent to him by radio or other means would permit him to take. He appreciated the opportunity to forget public business, or at least not to talk about it, for a few days. It was this, rather than the social background of the others in the party, which enabled him to relax. For on other occasions he relaxed with people from entirely different environments.

On his other cruises—weekends on the Potomac and his later voyages and fishing expeditions—all manner of people were Roosevelt's companions. He took members of his White House staff, sundry advisers, visitors from afar, and many others. Sometimes FDR found his diversion in intellectual stimulation. On a good many of his expeditions, there was no one with his social background. His most constant companion in later years—in the White House and elsewhere—was Harry Hopkins, a former social worker and the son of an itinerant harness-maker.

FDR WAS CAUSTIC, at times, about most people around him. Jim Farley's articles add to the first-hand testimony in support of this statement. But there were no people whom FDR seemed to relish sticking a verbal knife into more than those of his own social background. Most of them were against him politically; and he delighted in depicting them as stuffed shirts.

No one, certainly, would ever accuse Mrs. Roosevelt of being a snob.

Here are some pertinent facts: When her husband came to Washington, Mrs. Farley chose to continue to live in New York. She did not want to assume the social and other obligations of the wife of a Cabinet member. Her decision, although unusual, was respected. Indeed, some people, having seen the effect which the Washington spotlight can have on the offspring of celebrated men, thought she and "Big Jim" were wise to keep their home, with their three children, in New York. As a result of this decision, "Big Jim" himself was a commuter. (He retained also the chairmanship of the Democratic State Committee.) On weekends, when he was not attending a postmasters' or politicians' gathering somewhere, he went to New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt must have been thunderstruck when she heard, late in her husband's second term, that Mrs. Farley felt she had been slighted. Characteristically, she took the matter up directly with Mr. Farley, and he, also characteristically, told her that there was no basis for the report.

IN HIS EARLIER BOOK, "Behind the Ballots," published in 1938 after the breach between himself and FDR had begun to develop, Jim Farley said:

"I think there is another quality about the President that most people overlook, and that is the fact that there isn't a snobbish bone in his body. He never had to pretend an interest in those less fortunate than himself for vote-catching purposes, and this obvious sincerity is one of the cardinal factors in his strength with the mass of people.

"For a man born to wealth and luxury as he was, and also to high social position, it would be impossible for him to conceal his real feelings, at least to those around him, if he really had a feeling of superiority toward some of the individuals with whom he must come in contact. . . . I can honestly say I have never observed anything of that kind in Roosevelt. . . . His friends and personal companions are not chosen from any particular group or class, and that can be said of the rest of the Roosevelts. The entire family seems to have a happy faculty of choosing companions for what they are and not because of their social position or what they represent."

When that passage appeared under Jim Farley's name, he had known FDR well for nearly ten years. The Collier's articles are excerpted from a manuscript of a new book. In justice to Jim Farley, himself, I hope that the full text will not leave the impression that his break with FDR was due in any way to his feeling that he or Mrs. Farley was being snubbed socially by the Roosevelts.

Rail Revenues Held Less Than Half Needed

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—An official of the Railway Business Association said today "all forms" of transportation would face nationalization "if American railways are forced into bankruptcy as a result of governmental policy which denies them adequate earning power."

P. Harvey Middleton, executive vice president, said in a report described as representing the association's views that railroads earned 2¾ per cent on their net investment last year, despite the heaviest volume in peacetime history. During the last 25 years, he added, their earnings averaged 3 2/3 per cent.

Middleton said railroad earnings should be "not less than 6 per cent on the value of their investment, averaged over the years" if they are to continue long their program of improvements. Instead, he added, earnings were only about half the rate advocated by the United States Supreme Court and Congress for a public service corporation.

"The future of private enterprise in this country depends to a very great extent upon fair treatment of the railways," he said. "Once the Government takes over the railways, it would very soon find it necessary to take over the common carriers on the highways, waterways and airways."

He said the financial structure of the railroads and other public services could be "seriously damaged" by a policy of granting wage increases "effective long before permission is granted to raise rates to compensate, at least partially, for these increased labor costs."

The association is made up of firms manufacturing railway supplies and equipment.

Wheat Crop In U. S. Due To Set Record

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department reported last night that prospects point to slightly above average wheat crop in the Northern Hemisphere.

The outlook was said to be brightest in North America and poorest in Europe.

The European crop, excluding Russia, will again be substantially below the prewar average production of 1,670,000,000 bushels, and may be as much as 10 per cent or more below the 1946 harvest of 1,350,000,000, the Department said.

The United States has prospects of a record-breaking crop of about 1,400,000 bushels.

The department said imports of wheat will again be large, taking into account the poor breadgrain prospects in many areas and the very low level of stocks.

Based on present indications, wheat production in Soviet Russia this season will be larger than in 1946, although still considerably smaller than in the prewar period when the crop exceeded a billion bushels in some good years.

The department said an unusually severe winter caused great damage to the winter wheat crop.

The total in Asia may be near last year's level, but prospects were said to be unfavorable in areas to which the United States sent large quantities of grain during the past 12 months.

The department said wheat seeding is now under way in the Southern Hemisphere and is being accomplished under generally favorable conditions in principal producing areas.

Pravda Pictures Huge German Arms Output

Moscow, July 6 (U.P.).—Tiger tanks, high explosives, rocket fighter planes and V-1 and V-2 rockets are pouring from German military plants still in operation in the American and British zones of Germany, the Paris correspondent of Pravda reported today.

The output is intended for use of the occupation armies and for shipment to Britain and the United States, the corespondent said.

He listed at least seven cities in which German planes are producing military equipment. He based his information on reports from travelers in the Anglo-American zones, he said.

French Seize 2 More 'Black Maquis' Suspects

Paris, July 6 (U.P.).—The Surete Nationale last night announced it had seized two more suspects in the "Black Maquis" plot to overthrow the fourth republic and set up a rightist dictatorship.

A total of 14 alleged conspirators have been arrested.

One was Serge Renaudin, known as "Commandant Victoire" in the resistance. He was the leader of the Maquis in the Auvergne region. The other was Gustave Barlot of Montigny le Roi.

Unions Ask Representation On Local Rent Control Boards

By the United Press

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor yesterday urged all State federations to appeal to their Governors for labor representation on the new rent control boards.

"Rent control is the only remaining tool to curb a further drastic rise in living costs of the workers," he wrote.

The boards, to be appointed by the Federal housing expediter on recommendation of State Governors, will make recommendations for or against rent rises under provisions of the new Rent Control Act.

Appended to Green's instructions was a statement by Harry C. Bates, chairman of the AFL housing committee, instructing all central labor unions to join the AFL in working or such representation.

"Unquestionably," Bates said, "the well-organized interest groups who have long fought to cripple our form of rent controls, quickly made their recommendations to the Governors. Workers and their families will be the ones to suffer if the wrong persons are appointed to these local boards.

"It is up to your central labor unions, therefore, to take immediate action in recommending qualified labor representatives.

"Immediate action is imperative. For the housing expediter already has written to all Governors requesting their recommendations for appointments. Rents are a big part of the present high cost of living. We must exert every effort to prevent further increases."

Livengood to Replace Foote in East Indies

By The Associated Press

The State Department disclosed yesterday that Walter A. Foote, consul general at Batavia, Netherlands, East Indies, is to be replaced.

His post will be taken by Charles A. Livengood, who has been counselor on economic affairs at the United States Embassy in Rome. Livengood, now in Washington, is expected to leave this country by plane about July 20.

Industrial Output Rises in U. S. Zone

Production Is 46% of 1936 Average Clay Reports, But Climb Appears Halted

Berlin, July 6 (U.P.).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor in Germany, reported to Washington that industrial production in the United States zone had reached a postwar record, but there was no hope of urther improvement soon.

His raeport came as Britain and the United States were almost ready to announce a new, increased level of production for their zones, in an effort to make them self-supporting by 1950.

Clay's report showed production for May in the United States zone was 46 per cent of the 1936 average, 2 per cent higher than the previous records of October and November, 1946.

Thefts Increasing

He blamed failure of the Ruhr coal miners to dig as much coal as expected for the slowness of industrial development. Daily production in the mines during May was 216,000 metric tons, compared with 233,000 tons, the postwar peak.

Clay also reported theft was increasing in the American zone.

Dispatches said there was so little food in the Soviet zone of Germany that German union members mining pitchblende for the Russians' atomic fission experiments in the Aue area of Saxony had demonstrated for the right to strike.

The American-licensed newspaper Tagesspiegel said the workers complained that their rations were "at least as bad" as in western Germany. It was announced here Saturday that the food situation in western Germany had improved.

Reds Intensify Propaganda

[The American Military Government's official German language newspaper, Die Neue Zietung, said Soviety Marshal Lavrenti P. Beria had worked out with Soviet military authorities here an extensive propaganda campaign for selling Communism to the Germans.]

[The newspaper reported the arrest last month of a number of persons at Guben, on the Oder southeast of Berlin, for putting "uncomfortable questions" to a Russian major following a lecture.

[Such questions as these went unanswered: Where are our sons and daughters who were dragged away last year? Where does our coal go? Why does the food situation deterioriate? Where do the transports of cattle go which pass through Guben daily toward the east? When is the dismantling (of industries) going to stop?]

[At Stuttgart the German Council of States, declaring Germany was unable to care for some 12 million Germans expelled from nearby countries, asked that the International Relief Organization to take up the problem. Nearly three million have been resettled in the American zone.]

Hits Marriage Rule in Reich

Ban Fraulein, GI Weddings 2 Clerics Ask

Berlin, July 6 (AP).—A Methodist bishop and a Jewish clergyman from the United States said today talks with United States Army chaplains had convinced them the Army should ban marriages in Germany between American soldiers and German girls. In their view, the GI should wait at least until he returns home.

Dr. Fred Pierce Corson, Methodist Bishop of Philadelphia, said German girls often were using the GIs only to get "a meal ticket and entrance to the United States."

Rabbi James G. Heller of the Isaac M. Wise Temple at Cincinnati, said the German girls were a political danger because of their indoctrination to naziism and should not be permitted to enter the United States "without years of fumigation."

Both are with a group of prominent American clergymen touring Europe as guests of the War Department.

"From what the chaplains have told us I am convinced the policy of permitting marriages in Germany is a mistake," said Dr. Corson.

"The wiser course would be to prohibit marriages here and require that a soldier affianced to a German girl could send for her only after he had returned to the United States and waited a specific time.

"That would give him a cooling off period which would test their attachment. I'll wager that only 1 in 10 soldiers would send for his German girl to join him after such a test."

Since the lifting of the Army ban last Decembr, several thousand marriages have taken place.

Grain Is Hinge In Anglo-Soviet Trade Talks

Moscow, July 2 (Delayed) (U.P.).—Harold Wilson, head of the British trade delegation, said today that negotiations with Soviet authorities on an Anglo-Soviet trade agreement were continuing.

After 10 days of negotiations including five meetings between Wilson and A. Mikoyan, Soviet Minister of Foreign Trade, Wilson said, "With trade agreements one never knows whether there is going to be agreement or not until the last moment."

Wilson said agreement would mean for England well over one million tons of grain a year and eventually enough timber annually for more than 700,000 houses.

Wilson indicated the main stumbling block was whether Russia will make "real, substantial and immediate" allocations from her present grain crop rather than wait until the 1948 harvest.

To obtain the badly needed grain and timber, Britain was said to be prepared to lower interest rates on the 80-million-pound (320-million-dollar) 1941 credit and extension of payment time from seven to 15 years.

Hukbalahap Camp Burned

Cabanatuan, Philippines, July 6 (AP).—Military police announced today they had captured and burned a Hukbalahap guerilla hideout in central Luzon known as "Little Bataan," killing two and seizing five of the 30 insurgents found there.

Iran Puts Ban On Red Planes

Tehran, July 6 (AP).—Operation of Russian commercial aircraft in northern Iran was apparently prohibited today by a decree of the Iranian government.

Doubt was expressed generally that the Russians would recognize the decree, and most observers believed Iran might complain to the United Nations.

The decree specified routes to be followed by foreign aircraft and prohibited flights by any other lines except by special permission of the ministry.

Russian commercial planes have been flying from Tehran to Tabriz, Resht and Meshed weekly since the war, despite repeated protests by the Irian government that the operation was illegal and unlicensed.

An Iranian Airways official said the Soviet lines were "ignoring regulations, refusing to pay passenger and landing rights, monopolizing Meshed airport hangars, importing Russian fuel without paying Iranian customs duties and cutting fares."

A reliable diplomatic source said some Russian planes operating in Iran were believed to be "lend-lease craft."

Electric Sleep Used as Insanity Treatment

San Francisco, July 6 (AP).—Electrically induced sleep, which keeps a patient unconscious from 7 to 15 minutes, offers a hopeful means of treating one form of insanity, say two University of California medical researchers.

This treatment, electronarcosis, is not new but it is a modification of an older form of treatment, electroshock, in which a heavier charge of current, applied for a fraction of a second, knocks the patient unconscious and throws him into conculsions.

The researchers, Dr. Karl M. Bowman, head of the university's psychiatric clinic, and Dr. Alexander Simon, an associate, reported the recovery of 5 out of 31 persons who took the treatments.

The kind of insanity involved was the depressive type of schizophrenia, one of the common forms.

Pier Blast Rocks S.E. Philadelphia

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP).—Three drums of nitrocellulose exploded today on a pier, rocking the southeast section of this city and igniting other merchandise being loaded on the freighter African Moon.

The sprinkling system on the pier prevented spreading of the flames, police said, and nobody was injured seriously. But six members of the crew, who were in the Texas City disaster, took no chances. They dived into the water and later were picked up by a fireboat.

Several stevedores were injured slightly when they lost their footing in attempting to leap from the ship to the pier.

Umberto Reported Eying U. S. Home

Southport, Conn., July 6 (INS).—Mrs. Walter M. Nones said today that agents for former King Umberto of Italy have been negotiating for purchase of her 17-room estate on Mill Hill rd.

Umberto, who went to Portugal after establishment of the Italian republic, made no formal announcement of any plan to settle in the United States.

Wiley Asks Remote Control Lawmaking in Case of War

By the United Press

Congress should lay plans now for legislation by television in the event of an atomic war, Chairman Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee said yesterday.

He said he expects to take the problem up soon with the radio and television industry. Then he may introduce a bill and ask for hearings on it.

He envisions that the legislators might gather, singly or in State delegations, before cameras in underground shelters in the "grass-roots" sections, where they would be safer from atom bombs than in Washington.

Then, over a television network, the words and pictures of the lawmakers could be flashed back and forth, and debate and congressional business could go on.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), ardent advocate of getting Congress on the radio in peacetime, thought over Wiley's proposal and decided he had a better suggestion.

If, he said, science is so wonderful, "Why don't we demand a system for the spontaneous reproduction of Senators and Representatives. Then if we were wiped out, a new set of legislators could be reproduced immediately to take our places."

He conceded, however, that while it sounds "fantastic," legislation by television "might do—if there were no other way." But he pointed out that his recent experience on a television program had convinced him that it is "very hot, and not as easy as radio."

Nudist Colony Bares Its Secrets to Reporter

By Harman W. Nichols

Roselawn, Ind., July 6 (U.P.).—You can learn a lot of things at a nudist colony.

At least, such was the case here at Zoro Nature Park, a unit of the American Sun Bathing Association. I found:

1. My ball point pen won't write under water but it's swell for taking notes on the bare hide.

2. Yellow sox, when they're all you have on, make a big hit.

3. You can get an awful sunburn in places where you've never had a sunburn before.

Surrogate a Swim

I got a chance to try out the pen shortly after I registered at this 200-acre nude ranch and shed pants, collar and underware. Everything but the sox.

A blonde young thing, arm-locked to a bronzed hubby who looked like Mr. America, suggested a swim.

Down to the pond we tripped, me with pen in hand.

Into the water she and he went with a splash. I followed. While I was under water I wrote what I hoped would be some deathless prose on my chest. Posterity's loss. It wasn't there when I came up.

After a rubdown, I tried the pen on the chest and am still able to make out my notes tonight.

They Can Take It

Horseshoe pitching, volleyball and postwar gardening are popular here. So is playing tag and pitching the beanbag. I tried 'em all and there were no stray rays of sun I didn't collect.

The "skin folks," as they call themselves, can take it. I can't. There were 65 tanned folks in the group picture the man took—and one lobster. That was me.

Enough was enough. I hauled the clothes on over my raw hide and got under an umbrella.

Moscow Diners Cheated

Moscow, July 6 (AP).—Three workers in Moscow's lone automat-type restaurant, have been arrested on charges of selling short-weight sandwiches. The Moscow News said 46 pounds of butter, 22 pounds of sturgeon and a lareg amount of cash and jewelry were found in the apartment of one of the defendants.

London Drivers Strike

London, July 6 (AP).—Transportation was paralyzed in London today by an unofficial strike of bus and tram drivers protesting a union agreement providing time and a quarter pay for Sunday work. The strikers are demanding time and a half.

Transfusions Keep Magda Barely Alive

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 6 (U.P.).—Red-haired Magda Lupescu, who became former King Carol's mistress in 1924 and his wife last Thursday, existed on blood transfusions tonight and her physicians feared she might die within hours.

A reliable source said she had a serious internal disorder as well as pernicious anemia, a disease characterized by the progressive loss of red corpuscles. She is being attended by two physicians, one of whom is always with her.

She keeps lapsing into comas, from which only transfusions revive her. The comas, sources close to Carol said, were becoming more frequent and longer. She has had a hemorrhage nearly every day for about two weeks.

Ernest Urdarinau, who has followed Carol about as chamberlain since he abdicated the Romanian throne in 1940, said she had a "very bad night" last night and her condition was grave.

Carol's friends said he seldom left her bedside. When he is with her he tries to put on a brave face, but as soon as he leaves the room he breaks down. He evidently is convinced that there is no hope.

Carol's friends said his only concern was for her and the world to know he married her in good faith.

Dispatches from Bucharest said the palace had no comment. Carol's son, Michael, is the present King of Romania.

Ordinary Romanians were not greatly concerned. One young actor in Bucharest suggested that Magda had a fortune and Carol married her to get his hands on it before she died.

CITIES SERVICE COMPANY

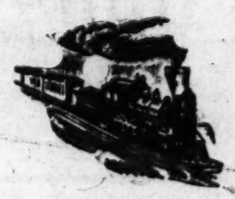
A CENTURY of SERVICE
at the crossroads of America



Back in 1847—that's one hundred long years ago—some forward-looking Hoosiers wanted a railroad to meet increasing transportation needs.

They wanted to go faster than horses; and in carriers with a capacity much greater than that of any carriage or wagon.

They wanted trains—with chugging engines and clanging bells. Trains that had cars for people and cars for freight. And they wanted track—railroad track—that would lead to places they wanted to reach.

So these Hoosiers—like most typical Hoosiers—went to work and, with their own strong hands, literally built the first thrilling miles of track for the new railroad.

Naturally, these folks looked upon this new railroad as their railroad—an intimate thing—a personal thing that belonged to them for their personal use.

Ever since that time the Monon (an Indian name for "swift running") has been "our" railroad to the good people of Indiana. George Ade, James Whitcomb Riley, John T. McCutcheon and Booth Tarkington are only a few of the many famous Hoosiers who could be listed among these intimate "friends of the road."

They have all thought of it and spoken of it, have even written about and "cartooned" it, with the same sense of personal ownership that prompts Hoosiers to speak of "our town"—"our school"—"our team"—"our church"—"our State House"—"our circle."

The Monon quickly became a part of the Indiana scene—a section of "Hoosier" life moving on wheels and track—the train a Hoosier used whenever possible because it was a Hoosier institution—because it was a bit of "home" on wheels.

In these past one hundred years Monon has not always met the highest ideals of railroad service. It has had shortcomings, of course. But this same friendly road has served the people of Indiana for one hundred years, which is, in itself, deserving of recognition. For, be it human, animal or mechanical, nothing can live for 100 years without having something basically sound within it.

So it is that "the Hoosier Line"—one hundred years young—is today celebrating not only a full century of service to Hoosiers and others, but the beginning of a "new century" that involves the most amazing advances in modern engineering.

Today's MONON is a Diesel-powered interpretation of modern railroad service. It is a veritable "life-line" for Indiana—carrying the raw materials from its farms and mines and quarries—its many finished products and its people—from point to point throughout the state and making of Indiana a "corridor" which connects the Great Lakes with the South.

Passenger service on the new "Hoosier Line" will soon provide the newest and finest of streamlined, Diesel-powered trains with the newest innovations in travel comforts and conveniences, which will literally float with velvety smoothness on our modernized roadbed and track.

The MONON looks forward to the years ahead with confidence and optimism. Postwar improvements already made in service to shippers and passengers will be further augmented. With America's great railroad systems as a whole, the Monon sees 1947-48 . . . its 101st year . . . as the dawn of a new era in swift, safe and comfortable passenger service and "on time" operation of fast-scheduled freight trains.

When plans of the present management are fully realized, the NEW Monon will be the most completely Diesel-powered railroad of its size in the nation.

For the solid groundwork which has made possible our plans for the future, the present MONON management gives thanks to the patrons who have loyally traveled by and shipped by "the Hoosier Line" through the past century.

For, after all, it is people and people alone who can put the warm blood and beating heart of life into a railroad—for a hundred years.

MONON
THE HOOSIER LINE

One on the Aisle—

Tosca—Underground

'Open City' Star In Italian Film

By Richard L. Coe

ANNA MAGNANI, who was so fine in "Open City," has returned to the Hippodrome screen in another story of the Italian underground, "Before Him All Rome Trembled."

The film gets its title from a line in Puccini's opera, "Tosca," a good part of which appears in this story as an opera-within-the-film. While the underground story of Italians battling the occupying Nazis is familiar, there is effective novelty in how the story of the film and the plot of the opera are woven together.

As in the Hippodrome's recent "Carmen," the relationship between the original story and what one sees on the screen is interesting. Victorien Sardou of France, "La Tosca" for Sarah Bernhardt, telling of how Roman patriots waited for freedom and the arrival of Napoleon's men in the days of the French empire. There's still plenty of punch left to the scene in which the Roman opera singer murders the chief of police to avenge her lover.

Puccini's version of the story appeared a few years later, in 1900 and his music undoubtedly drew many of the opening day score-hummers to New York ave. "Vissi d'arte," the Te Deum and "E Lucevan Le stelle" and many another theme are on the sound track.

The scenes were filmed laid in Rome's Royal Opera House, with the company's chorus and leading singers at their familiar chores. While Miss Magani's Tosca is sung by Elisabetta Barbato, Gino Sinimberghi's Cavaradossi is his own. Technically the sound is not very good, but it probably will please many an opera-starved Washingtonian whose fare is limited to our infrequent, make-shift music dramas at Constitution Hall.

Backstage Scenes Effective

The modern portion of the film framing the opera centers around the two singers, Tosca and Cavaradossi. Both, unknown to the other, become members of the underground. She uses her feminine beauty to get money and small favors from the Nazis. He shields a Polish Jew and an English espionage officer at his villa. The tenor's complicity is discovered and the opera house is surrounded by SS men during a performance.

Here the film is at its best, with the glamour of an opera performance and its backstage facinations bringing some novelty to the story of underground intrigue which is so familiar. The backstage crew rigs things so that the execution of Cavaradossi in the opera becomes a real-life getaway.

There's some humor, too, in one of the minor characters, as well as an effectively hysterical scene by Eddy Albertini, as the tenor's housekeeper. Miss Magnani is both beautiful and real as the prima donna and Sinimberghi does his acting-singing role with fine versatility.

"Before Him All Rome Trembled" is no "Open City," but it is an effective tour-de-force. The English subtitles help clarify the plot, but they're by no means as good as these things ought to be.

MISS LIBERTY in the Capitol's stage pageant this week is a former Ziegfeld Follies girl whose activities are horrifying her son . . . The statuesque blonde was Kay Norman and her son is an 18-year-old nicknamed Jiggs . . . He's a bit scandalized at Mom making a spectacle of herself, but she's a mighty good-looking spectacle . . . And a sport to boot . . . For on opening day, the model who was to stand on the top of that white column was called back home because of illness in the family . . . Capitol Producer Gene Ford was in a stew . . . What to do? . . . He asked his wife . . . And as show-folk around town know, Mrs. Ford is a stanch aide when her friends need help . . . For Mrs. Ford is the mother of that 18-year-old and our town knows her best as Kay, once Norman, now Ford.

TODAY'S VISITOR is John Mills, whom you may recall as the juvenile in "Cavalcade" . . . Now he's done a fine job as Pip in the Earle's coming "Great Expectations" . . . In the years between he's become one of Britain's most respected stage players . . . He'll be at the Carlton late today and too briefly, but we hope his wife's along . . . She's playwright Mary Hayley Bell, who wrote "Duet for Two Hands," the London hit which may be done here this winter . . . We'll tell you about them Wednesday.

TOMORROW NIGHT'S documentary shorts presented by The Post and the District Public Library suggests the value other nations lay on making themselves known to the world through official channels . . . The Canadian Film Board's "Salmon Run" presents a color study on a curious life cycle . . . "Music of India," presented by the India Information Services, catches unusual music in authentic setting . . . "Expanding World Relationships," from the Library of Congress, suggests how, from Jefferson's time, the world has gotten closer . . . Concluding the program will be "Operation Crossroads," those Bikini pictures you read about in Bob Considine's story yesterday.

WHERE ARE the town's theater managers to be found tonight? . . . If yours is missing he's probably at the Variety Club for a slam-bang Crab Fest, with Tom O'Donnell and Julius Lutley as Kings for the Night.

He Was Only a Shadow of His Cinematic Self

New York—Max Dreyfus, the music publisher who discovered many of the top songwriters of the country, was reminiscing about his long career.

Charles Coburn

He confessed that for 40 years he waited for the day when he would see himself portrayed on the screen. "After 40 years, I made it," sighed Dreyfus, who weighs almost 100 pounds. "Warner Bros. sent one of its stars to study me, for his portrayal of me in 'Rhapsody in Blue.' And the man they picked to play me weighs 200, is over 6 feet tall and wears a monocle—Charles Coburn."

Bernard Baruch, who is 1947's foremost collector of honorary degrees and similar awards, could have added the Medal of Merit to his collection. He halted the proceedings which would have been in recognition of his wartime programs which were not accepted—his plans, later proved justified, for a rigid economy, stockpiling of rubber, etc. It was a program which might have shortened the war, and if it had been adopted he would have accepted the Medal of Merit. But a medal, he feels, should not be given to someone for proposing a program which was rejected.

Bill Downs and Cameraman David Seymour, who went to Europe for material for the Peace Anniversary issue which Jerry Mason is producing for This Week magazine, visited Dachau in pursuit of a story. They found it in a bunker into which they managed to secure entrance. There they discovered Otto Skorzeny, the most dangerous Nazi alive and the man who rescued Mussolini. Seymour photographed him, using a tiny camera hidden in his pocket . . . In Dachau they also saw Elsa Koch, wife of the Buchenwald commandant, who once made lampshades out of human skin. Mrs. Koch had just completed a year and a half in solitary confinement.

Because they have a share-everything agreement, Thurman Arnold and Abe Fortas each will receive one third of the royalties from the book which their law partner, Ambassador Paul Porter, is writing. And because writing the book occupies so much of Porter's time—precious time for which clients would pay big fees—Arnold and Fortas have offered the publisher $10,000 to release Porter from his contract.

Charles Luckman, head of Lever Bros., delivered one of his usual forceful addresses in San Francisco recently. A tremor shook the city, but Luckman continued speaking, assuming that it was a natural aftermath of his delivery . . . Paul Lockwood, Governor Dewey's No. 1 aide, celebrates his twelfth anniversary as a Dewey associate this month. He's the sole survivor of the battery of young lawyers who were members of the original staff of Special Investigator Dewey.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

BOSTON, July 6.—It's evident that the Yankees like to play ball for Bucky Harris, who had them eight games out in front as of this morning and threatening to run away with the pennant. There never was a ball club that didn't like to play for Harris, in fact, and two of the teams he managed threatened to strike if he was fired.

POVICH

Harris has a definite charm over his ballplayers, and apparently it's effective from a distance. He never knew Joe DiMaggio very well before he got the job as Yankee manager this spring, but DiMaggio had been in the same league with Harris for most of 10 years and took it upon himself to get Harris squared away nicely in his new job.

DiMaggio personally went among his Yankee teammates and made little speeches about Harris, the gist of which was that "Bucky is a nice guy . . . Let's give him all we've got . . . He's been around a long time and nobody says anything against him." With DiMaggio, the bellweather of the club, going all out for the new manager, Harris stepped into a happy family group and had a heap of good will going for him.

WHAT SORT OF a guy is this Harris, who can captivate his ballplayers so completely? He's not quite the big personality fellow in the sense that he exudes charm. Innately, Harris is a tough guy with traces of his coal mine background still imbedded in his makeup and he can get hard when the occasion warrants. There's a nice veneer, though, now. As managers go, he's tight-lipped on the bench. The ballplayers don't like a lot of gab from their boss. They're too vulnerable on too many plays.

Rick Ferrell, who played for Harris in Boston and Washington, probably spotted Harris' technique with his players best when he said: "Bucky knows their limits. He doesn't expect a bad ballplayer to play good ball, but he cracks down when a good ballplayer doesn't. I never heard him bawl out a player on the bench. He takes 'em aside later and tells them off. The players are grateful for that."

Never published before is the fact that the Boston Red Sox went to Owner Tom Yawkey in a body late in 1934, headed by Lefty Grove, Rick and Wes Ferrell and Babe Dahlgren, and protested a report that Harris was about to be released as manager. Already it was whispered that Joe Cronin was to take over, and the Boston players not only told Yawkey they'd rather play for Harris but didn't care to play for any other Red Sox manager.

NOT UNTIL HARRIS himself persuaded them to call off their threat did the Red Sox yield. Harris knew his own position was impossible. He was continually at odds with General Manager Eddie Collins, and he had been hired originally by Yawkey over Collins' protests. The Collins-Harris feud dated from the early 1920s when they were both second basemen and playing managers, barking continually at each other.

During that season of 1934, Harris had done a somewhat remarkable job with what had been a seventh-place club, taking them into fourth place despite the fact that it was the year of Lefty Grove's celebrated sore arm. Grove won only eight games. It was the first time since 1918 that the Red Sox were in the first division. A year later, with Cronin on the job at shortstop and Jimmy Foxx acquired from the A's, the Sox could do no better than fourth.

Back in 1924, when Harris was trying to beat out the Yankees for Washington's first pennant, which he finally did, he told his players not to roll players of the other clubs unnecessarily. He didn't want to spur them to any extra efforts against the Nats. It didn't go in the case of Collins' White Sox, however. Collins had his players dead set against Washington, whereupon Harris told his players to "get on everybody. They don't like us, any way."

IN 1943, WHEN HARRIS was fired late in the season by William Cox, owner of the Phillies, his players heard word of it before Harris was advised. Outraged by Cox's act, the Phillies called a meeting in their St. Louis clubhouse before a night game with the Cardinals and refused to go on the field unless Harris was retained as manager.

Again Harris forestalled a strike by taking the rap. He told the players a strike wasn't the sensible thing to do, expressed his gratitude for the fellows' attempt to do the nice thing for him, and said he'd find another job. With the help of Schoolboy Rowe he calmed the Phillies who went on the field after a half hour's delay.

The next thing Harris did explains, perhaps, why his ballplayers go for him. Before taking leave of the Phillies in St. Louis, he called in the traveling secretary, and wrote out a half dozen memorandums for certain players. They had oral contracts with Harris and Cox guaranteeing them bonuses up to $2000 if they won so many games or batted in so many runs, and Harris said, "Before I leave I want you players to have it on paper, so you can collect from Cox."

Hidden Ball Trick, Six Errors Mark Griffs' Play

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Boston, July 6.—This was a day the Nats would willingly forget, but the American League statistics won't. Making six errors, the Nats dropped the opening game of a doubleheader with the Red Sox 7-4. Finding the Nats still breathing, the Red Sox conked 'em with seven runs in the first inning of the second game and took that one 10-1.

The Nats thus stretched their losing streak to six straight, and in that first game taxed the credulity of even their detractors. Twice they filled the bases with none out in the first two innings and couldn't get a run. Five times they threw the ball away to give the Red Sox four tainted runs against Buck Newsom. Rick Ferrell's four hits, including three doubles, were futile.

And to inject a comic note, Buddy Lewis got himself picked off second base by the ancient hidden-ball trick pulled by Johnny Pesky in the first game. It broke up a rally at a time when the Nats had the bases full and one out.

Bang To Bosox

The crowd of 29,309 has scarcely relaxed from the first-game doings when the Red Sox came out for the second game and promptly slugged Mickey Haefner for seven quick runs in the opening inning. After that, the Nats were gone pigeons, and were six-hit victims of Dennis Galehouse.

Dom DiMaggio opened that second game with a double against the left field wall for the Red Sox, and then a lot of things happened. Pesky beat out a bunt, Doerr tripled to center, Jones walked, Tebbets doubled against the wall, Pellagrini walked, Galehouse singled, DiMaggio tripled to center on his second appearance and it was 7-0 Boston.

For Good Measure

Milo Candini shut the Red Sox out from that point, until the eighth when Murrell Jones banged a two-run homer over the left field screen in a three-run session for Boston. The Nats stirred up their only run on Vernon's walk, Travis' single and Grace's fly in the fourth.

Never did a club accomplish so little (nothing, in fact) with so much to work on as the Nats had in the first two innings of the first game. They filled the bases against Mickey Harris with none out in each inning, and couldn't get a run home.

Spence came to bat in the first inning to find the bases loaded on Yost's single, Lewis' walk and McBride's infield single. He sent a short fly to DiMaggio that didn't permit anybody to advance, and then it was that Lewis was the victim of the hidden-ball trick. Unaware Pesky had not returned the ball to Pitcher Harris, Lewis stepped off second base and was tagged out by the shortstop. Vernon grounded out to end the inning.

Three On, Three Out

Again in the second the Nats filled the bases with nobody out, on a walk to Preddy, Pesky's fumble and Ferrell's single. Whereupon Newsom struck out, Yost popped up and Lewis fanned.

The Red Sox meanwhile came up with a run in their own first inning without a hit. They scored on a walk, Yost's fumble of a bunt, Newsom's wild throw to second, and an infield out. In the next inning, Harris tripled to center and

Baksi, 3-1 Favorite, Suffers Sensational Upset by Tandberg

Stockholm, July 6 (U.P.)—In the biggest heavyweight upset in 11 years, Olle Tandberg of Sweden tonight clinched a September shot at the world heavyweight crown by winning a 10-round decision over Joe Baksi, former Pennsylvania coal miner.

A crowd estimated at more than 30,000 in the Rasunda Soccer Grounds saw the tall, blond Tandberg outpoint the formidable American, who had gone into the ring favored at 3-1 to knock out Tandberg within seven rounds.

This crowd, which had paid an estimated $100,000—largest gate in Swedish sports history—witnessed the biggest heavyweight upset since Max Schmeling knocked out Joe Louis in 1936.

It was an ultra-important upset, for only last week both Tandberg and Baksi had signed contracts which guaranteed the winner a title shot with Louis at New York on September 19.

Joe's Edge Wasted

Baksi had a weight advantage of 4½ pounds. Big Joe scaled 213¼ pounds; Tandberg, 208¾.

Baksi had been a prohibitive favorite to beat the 28-year-old Swede because during Joe's eight-year career he had met and beaten many opponents who apparently were much better fighters than the lightly regarded Tandberg. Baski, unbeaten since 1945, had gone into the ring boasting six straight victories that included five straight knockouts. In his last bout, the Pennsylvanian had knocked out Bruce Woodcock, heavyweight champion of the British Empire. Woodcock suffered a broken jaw.

Two of the three ringside judges voted for Tandberg, and the third voted a draw.

It was apparent in the early rounds that the battler from Kulpmont, Pa., was facing stiffer opposition than he expected. Tandberg's long-range punches had Baski's left brow bleeding in the first few seconds of the second round. And Baski appeared unexpectedly slow and inaccurate with his punches.

There was not a knockdown in any of the 10 rounds.

Nate Wolfson, Baski's manager, angrily declared that "the decision is a disgrace."

"If the fight had been staged in the United States, Baksi would have won," he said. "When we first came to Sweden, we raised the question of ring officials. We wanted to have international judges and a neutral referee in the ring. We got neither. Naturally we are very sore at the Swedish officials."

Ray Arcel, Baksi's trainer, echoed Wolfson's dissatisfaction.

Lew Burston, representative of Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Club in New York, agreed that Baksi should have had the decision, but declared that, "Tandberg has been promised the September fight with Louis and now he is going to get it."

"In other words, Tandberg has definitely qualified for the title shot," he said.

Jack Solomons, London promoter, who was a co-promoter of tonight's bout, said he was surprised that Tandberg fought so well.

"I knew Tandberg was a good boxer, but I didn't think he could make such a good match against a reputed killer," he said.

Champ Gets a Laugh

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis guffawed loudly today when informed of Olle Tandberg's triumph over Joe Baksi in Stockholm, Sweden, and said "it looks like I won't fight anybody this year."

"I don't know a thing about Tandberg, and I don't see how the public would pay more than 15 cents to see a championship fight in which the contender pops out of nowhere like Tandberg," declared Louis.

Honest Fellow

Verdict Was Big Surprise To Tandberg

Stockholm, July 6 (AP).—Underdog Olle Tandberg, Sweden's heavyweight champion, upset Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., today, gaining a disputed 10-round decision which ruined the American's chances for a September shot at Joe Louis and left the winner himself somewhat surprised.

One judge and the referee—both Swedes—gave the nod to Tandberg, while a second judge, also a Swede, called the fast-moving fight a draw.

Baksi expressed nothing more than keen disappointment and a desire to fight the Swede again, but his handlers made no secret of their disgust at the turn of events.

"Tandberg did not win," declared Nat Wolfson, manager of the former Pennsylvania beer-hall bouncer.

Tandberg added fuel to the dispute by declaring later that, "I didn' tbelieve I had won the fight, according to the United Press.

"I thought I was too much on the defensive in the closing rounds," he said. "I'm willing to fight Louis, however."

In New York Nat Rogers, matchmaker for the 20th Century, could say only "I don't know what to say," because like practically all of the fight mob he thought Baksi was a positive cinch.

As a result Rogers explained there would be no word until he and Sol Strauss, the Twentieth Century's acting director during the illness of Promoter Mike Jacobs, put their heads together tomorrow and even then they will wait to make it a three-some when Louis himself hits town July 15.

But that did not stop Brooklyn Promoter Andy Niederreiter from cabling Tandberg an offer of 30 per cent of the gate to meet the winner of the July 30 non-title bout between Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich and Heavyweight Tami Mauriello.

Flyweight Brawl Off Second Time

Glasgaw, July 6 (AP).—The title fight between Flyweight Champion Jackie Paterson of Glasgow and Dado Marino of Honolulu was postponed for the second time today and the challenger's manager declared angrily that he didn't believe the Scot could make the 112-pound weight.

Originally scheduled for June 11, the fight was postponed to July 9 when the champion came down with a case of boils and today it was put off another week, to July 16, when Paterson broke out again with boils on one hand.

Tigers Slug To Win Two From Browns

St. Louis, July 6 (AP).—A five-run inning at the expense of Reliefer Jack Kramer put the Detroit Tigers well ahead of the St. Louis Browns for an 8-to-4 victory in the second game after they trounced the Brownies 10 to 2 with four home runs in the opener of a doubleheader today.

St. Louis led the victors going into the top of the ninth, 4 to 3, after taking the lead on a squeeze play bunt by Billy Hitchcock which sent Vern Stephens across the plate.

A walk to Doc Cramer, triple by Eddie Mayo and walks to Vic Wertz and Eddie Lake tied the score and loaded the bases. Roy Cullenbine then singled home two runs to put Detroit out in front.

Kramer walked Dick Wakefield to load the sacks again and was banished when he argued the fourth ball. Two long flies, each good for a run, and a strike out ended the ninth.

Chisox, Tribe Divide Pair

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—Larry Doby, 22-year-old Negro new comer to the Cleveland Indians, singled to drive in a run as the Tribe defeated the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 1, in the second game today after losing the first, 3 to 2, before 31,566 persons.

Doby, who started at first base the second game, handled eight putouts without an error. His hit drove in one of Cleveland's two runs in the fourth inning. Doby yesterday performed once as a pinch batter and struck out. He also struck out in his first appearance today.

Al Gettel pitched a four-hitter for Cleveland's only victory in the three-game series here. It was the former Yankee's third triumph and his second over the White Sox. Rudy York's No. 8 homer, his second since joining the White Sox, accounted for Chicago's only run.

Eddie Lopat pitched a six-hitter for Chicago's victory in the opener. Taft Wright's seventh-inning single followed Luke Appling's fourth double in two days to account for the winning run. The loss ruined Lefty Les Willis' first major league start.

Thackara, Welsh Win in Doubles

Jim Thackara and Barney Welsh, who played against each other in the District of Columbia tennis tournament singles final Saturday, teamed up yesterday to win the doubles crown from Dave Johnsen and Don Leavens, 6—2, 1—6, 6—2, 6—1, at Kenwood.

The accuracy of the winning pair, together with Welsh's booming service were too much for little Dave and Leavens.

In the mixed doubles, Leavens and Libby Prince were leading Mr. and Mrs. Riphonso Smith, one set to none when rain halted the match. The final will be completed today at 5:30 p. m.

Yanks Roll Over A's Twice, 8-2 and 9-2; Retain Margin

New York, July 6 (AP).—The New York Yankees maintained their eight game American League lead to eight games today by taking both ends of a twin bill from the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-2 and 9-2. They won the nightcap by scoring seven runs in the eighth inning and the opener by scoring eight times in the first three innings. Joe Dimaggio and Larry Berra homered for the Yank in the first game and Ferris fain for the A's in the second.

Yankee Allie Reynolds and Phil Marchildon of the A's were hooked up in a hurling duel until the Yanks broke the second game wide open with their seven run rally. The big frame was featured by Johnny Lindell's triple and a double by Phil Rizzuto.

Rookie Carl Scheib was touched for all of the Yanks' runs in the opener. Randy Gumpert started for the Yanks and was in danger a number of times, finally being relieved in the sixth by Fireman Joe Page with the bases loaded and one out. Page ended the threat by striking out the next two batters. He fanned six more during the remaining three innings to preserve the win.

Kapilow Ordered Here Wednesday

Promoter Goldie Ahearn last night ordered Danny Kapilow to report here by no later than Wednesday to complete conditioning for his 10-round boxing bout with Smuggy Hursey at Griffith Stadium a week from tonight, July 14.

Smuggy, meanwhile, resumes boxing today in Billy Grubb's Harlem gymnasium.

Kapilow has been boxing with former welterweight champion Marty Servo at Stillman's gymnasium following the postponement of his bout with Hursey July 1 because of Smuggy's injured lip.

Oliver Falters, Locke Ties Him for Tam O' Shanter Title With 276

Bobby Posts Final 71, Ed Slips to 74

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—South Africa's Bobby "Cash-and-Carry" Locke conquered a heavy wind and stampeding galleryites today to slam a sub par 71 and move into a 72-hole tie with Ed "Porky" Oliver, who skidded to a 74, thus throwing the Tam O'Shanter crown into a playoff.

The extra session for the $7000 first prize will be over a 36-hole route—18 tomorrow starting at 2 p. m., and the final 18 on Tuesday.

45,000 See Play

Locke's one-under-par 71 was posted two hours after Oliver disgustedly tromped in through the crowds estimated at 45,000 with a pair of 37s to wind up his bid for golf's richest award with 276, twelve strokes under the regulation.

Starting the last 18-hole round, Locke trailed the Wilmington, Del., veteran by three strokes. After matching par 36 on the first nine, the visitor from the Veldt was only two strokes behind.

Locke birdied the sixth-fourth, sixty-sixth and the sixty-seventh and needed only to match par on the remaining five holes to win.

As news spread around the 6825-yard course that Locke had a stroke lead, spectators began jamming the sides of the fairways and greens to watch the sensational foreign golfer continue his triumphal march. At his side was George S. May, 56-year-old promoter, dressed in yellow pants and a blinding red sports jacket.

But Bobby Fails

But Locke faltered. In the face of a stiff wind and the milling crowd, he went over par on the next two holes, taking a five after being cornered in a trap, and then a six after his shot from the wiry rough cracked against a tree blocking his patch to the green.

He parred the last three holes, but almost faded out on the eighteenth green, where his approach was 25 feet from the pin.

For fully three minutes Locke paced the distance from his ball to the cup like an expectant father in a hospital corridor. Then he confidently tapped the ball. It stopped three feet short. Again Locke rapped the ball. It trickled to the lip, hung there momentarily, then plunked into the hole.

Furgol Third

Third place and $2333.45 went to 26-year-old Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., who was in the chase all the way and ended with a par 72 for 278. A stroke away was Chick Harbert of Detroit who closed with a 72 to collect $1666.75.

Bracketed next at 284 were "the chief" Laffoon of Chicago and Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, each with last flings of 74. Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Ralph Hutchinson, Bethlehem, Pa., posted 75s for 286 to be grouped with Lloyd Mangrum, the 1946 National Open king; Dutch Harrison and George Payton.

Lawson Little and Clayton Heafner drew up at 288.

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., fashioned a 70 to tie at 289 with Lloyd Wadkins, Odessa, Tex., who posted 71.

Herman Barrow, the defending champion, blew to 295, while Jim Ferrier, recent National PGA winner, required 294 and Sammy Snead a 290.

District Golf Roundup

Voigt and Griffin Advance To Finals at Prince Georges

Extra hole contests were the order of the day at Prince Georges yesterday as seven matches in the club championship were decided in overtime.

In the first flight, George Voight, former Walker Cup player and defending champion, had to go 19 holes before disposing of Jerry Hort, 1 up. Voight was two-under par, 72, at the end of the 18-hole round.

Billy Griffin, the young George Washington ace, was carried to the 20th green before he eliminated Edgie Johnson, 1 up. Last Sunday Griffin defeated Medalist Jim Kinder. He and Voight meet for title next Sunday.

E. G. Pearman downed C. F. Nickels, 1 up, 19 holes in the second flight; Tom Crum edged Jerry Burch, 1 up, 22 holes, in the third flight; T. M. Miller eliminated W. B. Smith, 1 up, 19 holes in the fourth flight; Steve Dale nosed out Sam Crosswaite, 1 up, 19 holes, in the fifth flight; M. H. Debruin defeated V. R. Sensemen, 1 up, 22 holes, in the sixth flight; R. S. Wright trounced Paul Eaton, 5-4, in the seventh flight and Pat Thorn disposed of A. Unger, 1 up, 19 holes, in the eighth flight.

Marie Walper successfully defended her women's championship, defeating Miss Ora Emge, 4-2. These two were finalists last year.

In a second flight women's match, Mrs. Fred Chamison won from Mrs. Burton Kintz, 1 up; Mrs. Gil Levy defeated Mrs. William O'Brien 2 and 1, in the third flight and Mrs. Homer Head defeated Miss Marie Spates, 1 up, in the fourth flight.

Congressional

G. K. Miller shot a 75—9—66 to win the Tatum Cup yesterday at Congressional.

Miller's net score also won the Breakfast Club tournament, although low gross honors went to F. B. Bomar who came in with a 77.

Low foursome scores of 64 were turned in by two groups. J. H. Roddy, M. P. Nolan, J. A. Akur and Dr. W. J. Evans made up one set of winners and W. O. Wooley, W. H. Wenzel, L. P. Sharp and F. E. McArdle turned in the other winning card.

Washington Aviation

Ivan Hall won the 36-hole Medal Play Handicap at Washington Aviation yesterday with a score of 135. Second place went to Dan Pompone and Ed Williams who tied at 138.

Don Scott shot an 18-hole score of 83 as he planted his flag on the nineteenth green to win the Men's Flag Tourment. K. Tobin, also on the nineteenth green, had an 18-hole tally of 84.

The women's event was won by Mrs. R. C. Doyle, who shot an 89 and ended up on the nineteenth green. Behind her was Mrs. E. P. Myles with a 95 score and her flag on the nineteenth.

C. W. Minor and Phil Donaldson hit the blind bogey of 164 right on the nose.

Woodmont

Howard Nordlinger pinned a 1 up defeat on Dave Wortman to win the Club Championship yesterday at Woodmont.

In the sweepstakes, Sam Schwartz took Class A honors with 80, 11—69; Sam Sugar won in Class B with 88, 17—71; Dr. H. H. Diamond captured the Class C prize with an 86, 19—67 and Morris Kupersmidt took the Class D title with 106, 26—80.

Army-Navy

Clyde Box, H. C. Parks and L. P. Davis planted their flags on the 19th fairway to win the annual Flag Day Tournament at Army-Navy yesterday.

In second place on the 18th green were Harold Bowen, jr. and H. H. Neilson.

Quantico

Miss Edna Hintz and Captain F. Stamtsli shot a 52, 25—27 to win the 9 hole Mixed Scotch Foursome yesterday at Quantico.

In second position were Mrs. R. B. Neville and Lieut. Col. S. M. Kelly with 53, 25—28.

Two-Man Team Match Added to Wrestling Card

A two-man team match has been added to Wednesday night's wrestling show featuring Gino Garibaldi of St. Louis and Sheik Badui of Arabia at Turner's Arena.

Assault May Pass Stymie In Earnings

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP)—Stymie, the 6-year-old thoroughbred from Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' barns, stands at the head of the turf's class in banking today but he may find himself back in second place by Saturday.

The chestnut flyer, taken out of the claiming ranks as a 2-year-old for a mere $1500 by trainer Hirsch Jacobs, boosted his total earnings to $595,510 by picking up a $20,850 paycheck in the Sussex Handicap at Delaware Park Saturday.

But Assault, with a bankroll of $576,670, is favored to take the $50,000 Butler Handicap of Empire City's meeting at Jamaica this Saturday and a week later he's down for the $100,000 Gold Cup at the same track.

Faces His Master

Stymie also is eligible for both the Butler and the Gold Cup but Assault has proved his master in their last four clashes. Off his winning effort in the Sussex, however, the son of Equestrian must be given consideration. Running his typical come-from-behind race, Stymie reeled off the 1¼-mile in 2:02 2/5, three-fifths of a second faster than the track record, and he had 128 pounds in the saddle, a part of which was Conn McCreary.

It is doubtful that even Jacobs visualized such fabulous earnings for stymie when he claimed the colt to run in the silks of his wife. As a 2 and 3-year old, Stymie was a consistent performer but his earnings were not much.

Then Came Payoff

As a 4-year old, however, he blossomed into a real money winner, earning $225,375. Last year he picked up purses totaling $238,650 and already has won $79,225 in eight starts this season.

Jacobs never has asked any quarter for his star. Stymie has faced the barrier 104 times and been in the money on 75 occasions. After 27 races he returned to the winner's circle and finished second 26 times and third in 22 other trips to the post.

In the Sussex he caught the pace-setting Natchez, owned by Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, inside of the sixteenth pole and went on to win by 3½ lengths.

Abrams Faces Belloise Friday In New York

New York, July 6 (AP).— The indestructible Willie Pep, who saw wartime service in both the Army and the Navy and last spring survived the crash of a commercial plane, is not resting on his laurels even though he has held the featherweight crown for almost five years.

They said Willie would never fight again when they pulled him out of the wreckage with a badly injured leg, but the 24-year-old Hartford, Conn., boxer fooled them by climbing through the ropes a few weeks ago.

He has had two fights since the accident and won them both. This week, he has two more boxing lessons to give.

Tuesday night at Norwalk, Conn., Pep takes on Leo Lebrun of New York in a 10-round nontitle bout, and Friday night he goes to North Adams, Mass., for another 10-rounder against Jean Barriere of Montreal.

Boxing returns to Madison Square Garden here after a week's layoff when Steve Belloise of the Bronx gets a chance to even matters with George Abrams of Washington, D. C., in a middleweight tussle slated for 10 rounds.

Montgomery Race Track Drive Sags

A race track for Montgomery County, proposed by County Commissioner Brooke Johns, is falling behind in public polls undertaken by county weeklies.

Approximately 80 per cent of those who voted in the polls have registered disapproval while 40 per cent favor location of a race track in the county to increase county intake of funds.

Bill Bennings:

AT CHARLES TOWN

Dear Folks:

This track starts the last go-around Monday. Fourteen days of racing remain. With Delaware Park closed, business should continue good. Apprentice Sammy Triola, who was riding in excellent style, suffered a broken arm in the July Fourth spill, X-rays showed yesterday. With Jimmy Baird out of the apprentice ranks, Triola seemed headed for the top among the "bug" riders on the smaller tracks. Looks as if the courts might get the final say on whether Marlboro will run this year. Jockey Willie Nertney, who rode in all nine races on July 4, lost 4½ pounds during the afternoon. But he didn't keep the weight off. A big meal and a few drinks of water had him back close to his usual 113-pound mark. Purses here have been pretty well distributed, with 107 different trainers saddling winners. The Italian-American boys are in the majority in the jockeys, room with Palumbo, Tammaro, Grant, Arduini, Scocca, Sarno, Triola, Romaine, Guida and others taking mounts. Favorite players have been doing well here of late. In the last 65 races 36 choices have scored. See you on the rail.

Moral Victory

Giants Held Homer-Less, But Win, 4-3

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP).—The New York Giants defeated the Philadelphia Phillies today, 4 to 3, without the aid of their most potent weapon—the home run. Charley Schanz stopped the Giants without a home run after they had connected for 37 in 16 straight contests. A crowd of 11,390 watched Larry Jansen fashion a seven hitter for the win.

The Giants tabbed Schanz for all four runs, three of them unearned, in the third inning.

Sid Gordon singled to open the inning, took second on a passed ball and scored on Jack Lohrke's single. Lohrke was trapped at second on a relay. After Jansen was retired, Schanz hit Billy Rigney on the elbow. Buddy Kerr singled to put runners on first and second.

Skeeter Newsome's bobble of Bob Thomson's grounder loaded the bases and a walk to Johnny Mize forced in a run. Then Willard Marshall singled to score Kerr and Thomson.

The Phils' first run came in the third inning on Lee Handley's double and Emil Verban's single.

Branca Wins 12th on 3-Hit Mound Job

Brooklyn, July 6 (AP).—Big Ralph Branca pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers back into the National League lead today by turning back the Boston Braves, 4-0, on three hits. The win was Branca's twelfth of the season and moved the Dodgers a game in front of the Braves who dropped to second place.

It was the 21-year-old right-hander's third shutout. Branca had a no-hitter until Tommy Holmes led off the sixth with a sliced single into left field.

The Dodgers scored once in the first on a walk to Jackie Robinson, out on Carl Furillo.

They added another in the second as Bruce Edwards doubled, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Eddie Stanky's fly.

In the fourth they knocked out the Braves' starter, Red Barrett, with a two-run cluster as Pee Wee Reese and Johnny Jorgensen doubled and Branca singled.

Warren Spahn and Clyde Shoun, working relief, turned in with a no-hit exhibition the rest of the way.

The Braves came close to scoring in the eighth when Johnny Hopp, who walked after two out, was cut down at the plate attempting to score on Carvell Rowell's double.

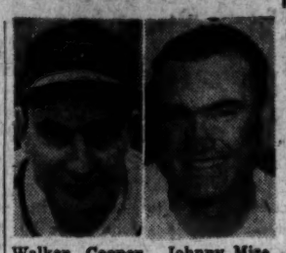
'Bear Down,' Frick Exhorts National League All-Stars



Walker Cooper Johnny Mize

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, the hottest pitcher in baseball, and the home bats of New York's Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper Give the National League an even chance of upsetting the American Leaguers Tuesday in the fourteenth All-Star game at Wrigley Field.

With Cleveland's Bobby Feller definitely off the squad because of an aching back, the National is able to match the American's mound staff. For the first time since the series started in 1933 the Nationals have a decided edge in home run production.

Memories of the 12-0 rout in Fenway Park last July still rankle National League authorities who try to generate optimism despite the Americans' 9-4 edge in games. Manager Eddie Dyer has been given a "fight talk" by President Ford Frick whose advice can be summed up in "bear down."

The revenge motive is not all on the National side for Manager Joe Cronin, whose Boston Red Sox were treated roughly by Dyer's underdog St. Louis Cardinals last October, would like to get even. Not to mention one Mr. Theodore Williams.

Williams, who dominated this game with his slugging feats in 1941 and 1946, was stopped dead in the last World Series by Dyer's pitching operatives. Dyer and the Card hurlers were credited with handcuffing Teddy by smart under-the-chin pitching and generous use of the Dyer shift. The Boston slugger, who ruined the Nationals with two homers in last year's all-star game, always claimed it was his own slump and not the Card pitching or shift that made him flop in the series. Now he gets a chance to prove it.

Dyer and Cronin will not make their pitching selections known until tomorrow morning, but the word has been buzzing around that Blackwell will get the nod for the National and Hal Newhouser of Detroit for the American Leaguers, who will be the visiting club.

Blackwell reeled off his twelfth straight win of the season July 4, and would seem to be a natural against the Americans, who see little of the side-arm style he represents.

Cards Move Into Fourth With 2 Wins

Cincinnati, July 6 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals scored a twin shutout victory over the Cincinnati Reds today, 3-0, and 2-0, to move into fourth place in the National League. Jim Hearn pitched a three-hitter in the opener and Murray Dickson allowed one hit to win the nightcap as a rain-dampened crowd of 24,635 looked on.

With Dickson pitching airtight ball, the Cardinals touched young Kent Peterson for six safeties in the second game.

They combined Whitey Kurowski's walk, a double by Enos Slaughter and Joe Medwick's long fly to push over one marker in the second frame, and then counted another in the eighth as Marty Marion tripled and scored on Chuck Diering's fly.

Starter Johnny Vander Meer gave up all the Cardinal runs in the first two innings of the opener and, although two Redleg reliefers allowed but one hit the rest of the way, the Rhinelanders couldn't touch Hearn's rightarm slants.

Two Cincinnati errors aided the Cards in collecting the trio of runs.

Revived Pirates Whip Cubs Twice

Pittsburgh, July 6 (AP). — Aging Fritz Ostermueller pitched a six-hit shutout today as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Chicago Cubs, 10 to 0, in the nightcap after taking the opener of their doubleheader, 6 to 2.

It was the first twin bill the last-place Pirates have captured this season.

scored on Pesky's single for another run.

They made it 4-0 in the third after Moses singled. Moses stole second, went to third on Ferrell's wild throw, and scored when Spence, retrieving the ball, also threw wild to the infield. Jones, who later walked, scored from second on an infield hit by Harris, helped along by Christman's wild throw. 'Twas pretty awful.

Wild Pitches Help

Harris retired with a sore arm after three innings, and against M.I Parnell the Nats came up with two in the fourth. Priddy singled and Ferrell doubled and they both scored on wild pitches. Ferrell's double and Yost's single narrowed the Red Sox lead to 4-3 in the sixth, but in the eighth the Red Sox came up with three runs on two hits and a couple more Washington errors (by Vernon and Travis) to clinch the game.

Walsh Finishes 3d in Regional Pistol Tourney

Harry Reeves, National All-round Pistol champion from Detroit, Mich., won the .45 caliber pistol competition at the Fifth Annual Eastern Regional Pistol Championships at Quantico yesterday with a score of 855 points out of a possible 900.

Finishing second to Reeves was Louis F. Rose, of West Long Branch, N. J. He scored a 832 to nose out Lieut. Col. Walter Walsh, USMC of Washington, D. C., by 4 points. Walsh was just yesterday crowned 1947 Eastern Pistol champion in the regular title competition with the .22 caliber and .38 caliber pistol.

Dr. William Cook, of Washington, D. C., tied for fifth place with Jack Ackerman, of the Dearborn, Mich., police, and Norman C. Studt, also of Dearborn, with 819 points.

Dectective John Layton, of the Washington police, was eighth with 813 and Walter S. Bakutis, Washington, 11th with 804. Of the over 200 shooters which competed from eight eastern States and the District, Washington placed four in the first 11.

...schwartz CREDIT service is much more practical...

● We might as well concede the point . . . the Average Pup never had it so good. Some dogs are born to luxury (like Little Snooty-Nose here) . . . and some get along on the bones that come their way. But for Snooty-Nose, it's the Service that counts. Take away Jeeves . . . the "beef-bone-en-casserole" . . . the plush cushion . . . and this fancy pup would be on his way back to the dog house.

● Beef bones and Jeeves-in-livery are not our specialty. But Service is . . . particularly Schwartz Credit Service. Your treasures from Schwartz . . . diamonds and watches . . . bracelets and pins . . . gold and silver masterpieces . . . all have lasting value. They are not forgotten in a day . . . or a decade. But lifetime treasures can't always be paid for in a day, either. That's when the Schwartz Credit Service is ready to give you an "assist." It's our way of providing Personal Treasures that will be yours throughout the years.

● You can have these cherished possessions now . . . without endless months of waiting . . . because Schwartz is ready to honor your name and your integrity by extending the period in which to pay. That's what we mean by Practical Credit Service. Credit arrangements at Schwartz can be made easily, in an atmosphere of pleasant and cheerful cooperation. Generations of Washingtonians have used the Service before you . . . tens of thousands of your friends and fellow citizens use it today.

● So if it's Fine Jewelry you want . . . you need not wait or worry . . . use the Practical Credit Service at Schwartz . . . a Great name in Jewelry in the Nation's Capital.

WASHINGTON: MONDAY, JULY 7, 1947

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

10 State Dept. Firings Stigmatize Hundreds

STATE: The firing of 10 unidentified employes in this department on Red charges has had these repercussions:

Kluttz

1. Several have appealed to Civil Service to "clear" their names and to approve them for reinstatement to jobs in other Federal agencies, and,

2. The 500 or more employes who were fired from the department in the economy drive are finding it most difficult to get other jobs in either private industry or the Government. It seems that prospective employers suspect any and all former State employes as being Reds, a most unhappy and embarrassing condition. In fact, several victims of the economy wave have asked for letters that say, in effect, that this fellow wasn't fired because he's a Communist.

And can this rumor possibly be true—that State Secretary Marshall ordered the 10 fired and promised potent GOP members of Congress to axe several times that number of his employes who are objectionable to them in order to get some money to continue the department's overseas information service? I am sure of this—that some members of Congress hint it's really true.

CROSSFIRE: Commerce Secretary Harriman has been placed in the middle of a bitter House-Senate fight. He can't win.

The scrap involves Census' foreign trade tabulating unit, which is divided between New York and Washington. Everyone agrees that it should be consolidated. Where? is the question.

Harriman insists that the 90-man New York staff should be moved here in the interest of both economy and efficiency. Senator Ball, who handled the Commerce bill in the Senate, said he and his colleagues take the view that Harriman should make the final decision on the location of the office.

But Representative Stefan, who handled the bill in the House, insists that the 250-man staff here should be moved to New York.

Believe it or not, but Congress has been fighting over this very problem for 25 years, and it's no nearer an agreement today on it than it was a quarter of a century ago. Which should prove that Congress shouldn't try to dictate the answers to administrative problems.

STATE: Its appropriation bill provides a full budget for international broadcasting the Voice of America programs. The other activities of the overseas information office will have funds to liquidate and that's about all . . .

CAPITOL HILL: The Jones bill will be called up today in the House. It would allow employes who served up to 10 years to withdraw their money from the Civil Service retirement system when they leave the Government.

OVERTIME: Congress has voted to reduce overtime pay for employes of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. A recent court decision, according to Senator Ball (R., Minn.), required the agency to pay triple time for Sunday work. The Senator put a rider onto the Justice appropriation bill that would cut the overtime to straight time and a half.

CIVIL SERVICE: An exam has been announced for messenger, $1690 a year. No experience necessary. Competitors must pass a written test. Veterans will be given top preference and nonveterans will be given jobs only when veterans are not available . . . A test also is open for photographer, $2168 to $3397. No written test. Applicants to be judged on experience and training.

COMING TESTS: Within two weeks a test for social worker jobs in the Veterans Administration will be open. The jobs pay from $3397 to $8179. VA expects to make 1000 permanent appointments from the eligible list to its more than 100 installations throughout the Nation . . . A geologist test also is in the works. The jobs pay from $4149 to $7102 a year. No written test will be required. Those who qualify will be appointed to jobs in the Agriculture and Interior Departments.

INTERIOR: A recent count shows that only 109 employes in the Fish and Wildlife Service in Chicago will come back here if and when it's ordered to move . . .

TREASURY: Despite contrary reports, it has no plans to return its big Public Debt office in Chicago to this city. However, the pressure is on to get it out of its Chicago offices, and the agency will be moved to another Midwest city if a suitable and surplus Government building can be found.

JOBS: The Walter Reed Hospital is anxious to hire a score or more nurses for general duty. If interested, see Guy Bennett in Room 350 of the Main hospital building.

STORY: Jed Johnson took the oath of a Federal judge the other day. He had served in Congress for a dozen years, and at the swearing-in ceremony, he was asked what he considered his greatest contribution in that body.

"I made it possible," he began, "for 51 fine boys from my State of Oklahoma to get a college education. I had 51 patronage appointments on Capitol Hill and in each of them I appointed a poor boy who had to work for his education. That was my greatest contribution in Congress."

That's a record to be proud of.

Suspects Seized in 2 Of Weekend Theft Series

Youth, 18, Reported Escaped From D. C. School Is Held for Breaking Into Auto

Alert policemen arrested suspects in two of a series of theft cases reported to the police yesterday.

Lerone Davis Foster, 18, described by police as an escaped inmate of the District Training School, was walking along Chapin st. nw. carrying a suitcase and several suits when he was spotted by Pvt. Clifton I. Panciera of the Tenth Precinct.

Panciera engaged Foster in conversation and shortly afterward booked him on a charge of grand larceny. William Monies, 1660 Preston rd., Alexandria, reported the clothes and suitcase had been stolen from his car in the 1400 block of Chapin st. An air vent had been jimmied, he told police.

Charged With Robbery

Pvt. Louis H. Gersch of No. 2 Precinct reported he saw Alfred Cunningham, 24, 712 N st. nw., changing the contents of one pocket to another in the men's room of a restaurant.

Suspicious, he said he investigated and found papers belonging to Lewis E. Hall, 43, 1321 11th st. nw., who had reported being robbed of a billfold late Saturday night. Cunningham was charged with robbery.

Miss Ruth Hall, 931 G st. nw., reported that $119 and a $300 gold and diamond stickpin had been stolen from her apartment early yesterday.

Otto W. Smith, night manager of a gasoline station at 1101 14th st. nw., told police an envelope containing about $142 in bills and $10 worth of gas coupons had been taken from an unlocked safe in the office.

Loses $29 in Billfold

James Wolf, 539 Randolph st. nw., lost $29 in a billfold early yesterday morning, he reported, when three men sat upon him in the Ellipse, behind the White House.

John Cortney, 34, 1315 12th st. nw., had $65 in bills taken out of his pocket while he was sleeping in a chair near the door of his home, he told police.

A gold wrist watch set with eight rubies and five diamonds, valued at $350, was reported stolen or lost by Mrs. Annie Sauber, 829 Delafield pl. nw., while she was at the Palace Theater Saturday night, according to a police report.

Louis E. Nyberg, owner of the Famous Frozen Food Store, 501 Connecticut ave. nw., lost $97.06 worth of assorted meats and 15 dozen eggs overnight when the rear basement door of the store was forced early yesterday morning, he told police. An attempt had been made to remove the bolts in the door hinges of a safe, he added.

Joseph G. Slye, 949 S st. nw., had a warm day yesterday after someone chisled a pane of glass from the rear window of his home, he told police, and went away with his electric fan.

A quantity of clean and dirty laundry was taken from the Elite Laundry, 2119 14th st. nw., police reported, and the rear window was found broken.

A loose window screen was the means of entrance for someone who took a watch and ruby ring, valued at $60, from the home of William Lomax, 210 H st. sw., he reported to police.

The purse of Mary Monch, Falls Church, Va., was snatched early yesterday morning, she told police, by a man of medium height at the corner of 2d st. and Massachusetts ave. nw. She had $8 in the purse, she said.

A cab driver, Columbus Fitch, 62, 914 S st. nw., escaped being robbed early yesterday morning when one of two fares grabbed him from behind and placed a knife against his throat. He told police the appearance of a group of people scared the assailants away. The two fled through an alley from the 1200 block of First st. se.

Md. Milk Truck Driver Kills Self

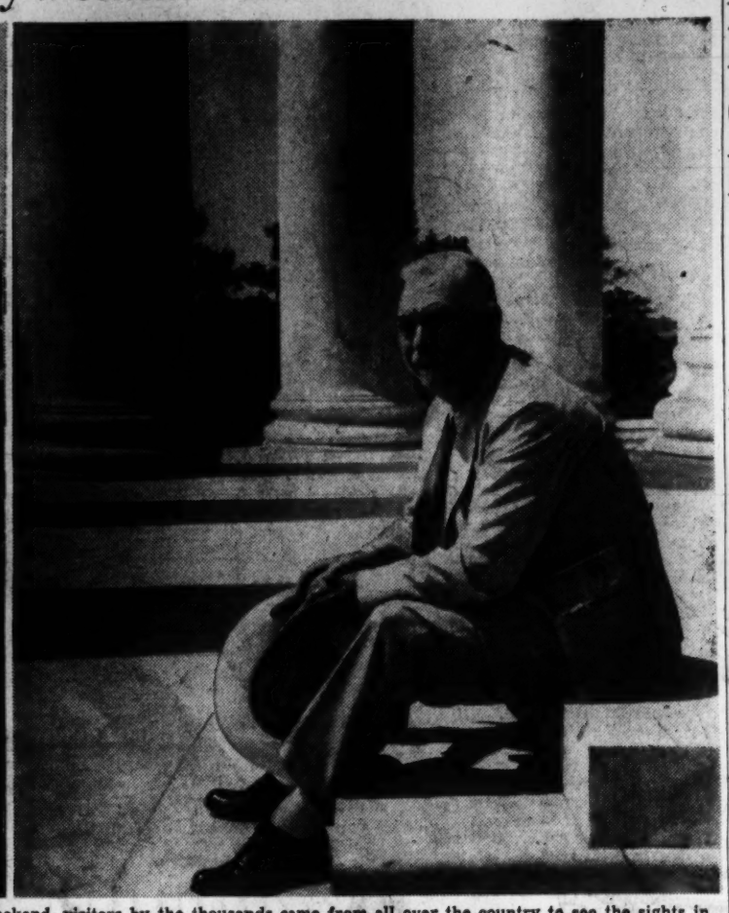
Edgar Burns, 49, milk truck driver, shot and killed himself early yesterday at his home on the Clarksburg-Boyds rd. near Burdette, Md.

Dr. F. J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, pronounced him dead and issued a certificate of suicide.

County police reported that Burns, despondent for some time, had been in the living room with his wife, daughter, son and son-in-law playing a phonograph. About 2 a. m. he went into the kitchen and seated himself in a rocking chair. He fired a .22 rifle bullet into his right temple.

The body was removed to the Roy Barber funeral home at Laytonsville, Md., pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Washington Was the Mecca of Holiday Weekend Visitors



WHILE YOU WERE AWAY—With the further inducement of a long holiday weekend, visitors by the thousands came from all over the country to see the sights in the Nation's Capital. Above, at left, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hentschel of Chicago, fulfilled a lifetime ambition by capping a country-wide tour with a visit to the Capitol. At right, Byrne Ross, 60, of Oklahoma City, a perennial visitor, takes his ease at the Jefferson Memorial

THEY MARVELED AT THE SIGHTS—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Wilson of Mount Holly, N. J., who are preparing a book of photographs, took special advantage of their trip to Washington. Wilson made shots at the Lincoln Memorial and Memorial Bridge, while Mrs. Wilson took down photographic data. At right, nothing less than an oversized telescope would satisfy Philip Grasty, 17, of Staunton, Va., to get an eyeful of Washington

D. C. Owners Seek Voice in Rent Control

Three Groups Aim At Extending New U. S. Act to D. C.

Three District real estate and hotel groups have asked a Senate District Subcommittee for a chance to advocate extension of the Federal Rent Control Act to the District.

The new rent law, which specifically exempts the District from its provisions, allows rent raises up to 15 per cent with leases running through 1948, decontrols new housing and converted apartments completed since February 1, and also takes controls off hotel rates, in the 48 States.

Frank E. Wheatley, president of the Washington Hotel Association, one of the groups asking for a hearing, said yesterday the local group "wants complete decontrol of all hotel rates." Hotels have already passed the peak of volume of business and profits, he asserted.

Charles J. Rush, executive secretary of the Washington Real Estate Board, also asked for a hearing, and the apartment division of the Building Owners and Managers Association made a similar request.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Senator C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.), now has before it a bill, passed by the House, which would extend the present District rent control regulations to March 31, 1948. The real estate and hotel spokesmen hope to be heard when this bill receives a hearing, which as yet has not been set.

Nurses Meet Tonight

The regular monthly meeting of the Washington Nurses Association will be held at 8:30 tonight at Kendall House, YWCA, 614 E st. nw. Dr. Benjamin Paul Lafski will lecture on allergies.

Shriners Sail Tonight

Approximately 1500 Shriners and their wives and guests will go on Almas Temple's annual moonlight cruise at 8:30 p. m. today aboard the SS Mount Vernon.

They're either ganderers or browsers—those Sunday sightseers in the Nation's Capital.

Oh, sometimes one is spotted who is neither. But mostly they're those who give one quick gander and whiz-z-z—off to another spot like a flying saucer.

Or if not that, they're the browsers who make of each relic, statue, or building a sort of private homestead wherein they dwell in seemingly painful reverie for long minutes. Then, with a sigh of great emotional catharsis, they reluctantly drag off to other sites.

But whether they're ganderers or browsers or in-between, they apparently enjoy themselves — and, too, they take their sight-seeing pretty seriously.

At the Capitol yesterday, for example, the ganderers were impatient and the browsers were entranced as the guide described the murals inside the dome as "only the imagination of the gentleman who painted them."

As for the in-betweens, there were Mr. and Mrs. A. Hentschel of Chicago who scurried up the Capitol steps at about quarter of four, with very little time to make a tour of the building. They were fulfilling a life-time ambition to tour the country and their impression of Washington was that it is "the most beautiful city we've hit."

To Phillip Grasty, a 17-year-old Staunton, Va. youth visiting in nearby Alexandria, Washington is a "nice place to come." Phillip, viewing the Potomac through a telescope, was rather apologetic that he couldn't come up with some more glowing phrases about the Capital of his country—but after all, he hasn't been here very long and hasn't seen much yet.

To Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Wilson of Mount Holly, N. J., Washington was kind of in a business way. Wilson is in the photographic business, and he and his wife stopped by to make some pictures of the Lincoln Memorial on their way home from the great Smoky Mountains.

While Wilson takes the pictures, Mrs. Wilson keeps tabs on the time exposure, film used, and other photographic facts. They are putting out a book of pictures.

And Washington? "We think it's grand," they said.

Over at the Jefferson Memorial, Byrne Ross of Oklahoma City was sitting on one of the cool marble benches, with a stiff breeze blowing in on him and on Jefferson.

Ross is 60, and he's been coming to Washington ever since, as a boy, he was brought here by his father during the administration of Cleveland.

Ross went to the Jefferson Memorial because, he explained, "I almost worship Jefferson." He feels the same way about Lincoln.

And as soon as he finished paying his own tribute to the author of the Declaartion of Independence, he said he was going over to see the man who wrote the Gettysburg Address.

"This is the most beautiful Capital, and the most wonderful country in the world. I wouldn't change it for anything," said Ross.

Sinatra's Tie, Louis' Gloves Give Junior Police Corps $95

A pair of Joe Louis' boxing gloves, however, added $75.

The Sinatra neckwear and Louis' gloves were auctioned yesterday afternoon at a benefit show at the Sylvan Theater, put on by Washington radio, night club and theater entertainers. Approximately $2000 was raised in all.

A dozen women gave a young man stiff competition for the Sinatra tie, Police Pvt. Oliver A. Cowan, corps director, said. The women refused to pay more than $18, however.

Dr. William Nash, 1330 13th st. nw., bought the Joe Louis gloves.

Also auctioned, to aid the $25,000 maintenance and equipment fund campaign now under way, were three baseballs autographed by the Washington Senators. They brought $10, $12 and $15.

The 2500 who attended the show were unaware of a heated argument back-stage. Jackson Lowe of radio station WWDC and Richard Eaton, general manager of WOOK, debated whether WOOK should also broadcast the performance. WOOK lost.

Va. Hackers Again Plagued By Insurance

N. Y. Firm Withdraws Coverage on Taxis Effective July 28

Many nearby Virginia taxicab owners, temporarily without insurance when the State Corporation Commission canceled the business license of the Keystone Mutual Co. last month, had a new insurance problem yesterday.

Operators in both Alexandria and Arlington disclosed that policies issued by the Public Service Mutual Co., of New York, following cancellation of the Keystone insurance, would be withdrawn effective July 28. Unless new insurance can be obtained, about 200 cabs affected will be ineligible to operate under Virginia's compulsory insurance law.

Spokesmen for cab companies in both areas said the company had given no explanation for canceling its policies. The firm had agreed to cover a majority of the cabs left uninsured by the Keystone collapse, and their policies had been formally approved by the Corporation Commission.

Only one concern, Yellow Cab, of Arlington, reported it had obtained blanket insurance from another company and was adequately covered beyond the July 28 deadline. Most of the other companies in the northern Virginia area had obtained policies from the New York concern, although a few individual owners had succeeded in getting insurance elsewhere.

Meanwhile, the State Corporation Commission is attempting to locate companies which would accept the insurance of Virginia cabs. It has sent out applications to cab operators throughout the State suggesting that they be returned as promptly as possible.

The commission canceled the Keystone Company's license without advance notice, charging that the company was "apparently insolvent." Most of the cabs in nearby Virginia were idle for several days because of their inability to transfer their insurance immediately.

Despite Tax Cut

O'Conor Sees U. S. Surplus Next Year

Baltimore, July 6 (AP).—Senator O'Conor (D., Md.) said today he "strongly urged enactment of a tax reduction bill now" and said available evidence indicated a Treasury surplus could be expected in 1948 despite passage of the measure.

O'Conor was one of the Democratic Senators who voted for the vetoed tax cut bill, which would have made reductions effective in July.

The former Maryland Governor said in a radio address that the reduction provided by the present proposal "is amply justified by the present budgetary situation." Approximately 48 million people will benefit from the cut, and at the same time essential Governmental functions will not be impaired," he declared.

O'Conor also reviewed what he called "most unfortunate" developments of American foreign relations and said Russia's rejection of the United States-sponsored European recovery plan emphasized once more "that it is not Russia's strategy to cooperate with the nations of western Europe, or with the United States."

Western nations, therefore, must work out their recovery program without Russia's participation, he said, adding: "If ever there was a case of half a loaf being better than none, this is it."

Tuck Will Aid In Monticello Highway Rally

Manassas, Va., July 6 (Spl.).—Gov. William M. Tuck will head a list of prominent Virginians scheduled to participate in a public rally sponsored by the Monticello Highway Committee and its advisory council here Thursday.

The rally, expected to attract 5000 people, has been arranged to enlist support of the proposed Monticello hwy., which would link Thomas Jefferson's home at Charlottesville, and the Jefferson Memorial in Washington. Sessions have been scheduled at the Portner estate near Manassas at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Among participants in the program will be State officials representing virtually all governmental departments. Speakers will include State Senator John S. Battle of Charlottesville; Judge Burnett Miller of Culpeper; Representative Howard W. Smith of Alexandria; Representative L. Lindsey Almond of Roanoke, and former State Delegate Charles R. Fenwick of Arlington.

According to proposals of the committee, the highway would utilize existing roadways where feasible, and would entail "comparatively little" new construction. The committee contends it would reduce the distance between Washington and Charlottesville by 10 to 15 miles.

Merger of Services Is Air Forum Topic

"Should the Present Army-Navy Merger Bill Be Passed?" will be the subject of the American Forum of the Air program, 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. tomorrow over the Mutual Broadcasting System network.

Speakers on the program, originating in the Shoreham Hotel, will be Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, AAF (ret.); Representative Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.); Representative Harry R. Sheppard (D., Calif.), and Col. Melvin J. Maas, member of the Marine Corps Reserve and former representative from Minnesota.

Action Due During Week On District Fiscal Bill

Budget and Taxing Measures in House; Hearing Scheduled On D. C. Home Rule

Rush action is slated at the Capitol this week to round out the District financial program for the 1948 fiscal year.

On the spending side, the city's $95,939,310 budget bill will go to the House Appropriations Committee for action tomorrow, and the House plans to clear it the following day.

On the income side, District leaders scheduled a conference for today to complete preparation of the new city revenue program. Main issue left is how to tighten loopholes in the plan demanded by the House t oexempt Federal employes from the local income tax if they have a legal domicile in a State. Agreement would clear the way for the 12-million-dollar revenue bill to reach the White House this week.

Hearings on Home Rule

The city appropriation bill will take longer. After House action it will go t othe Senate for Appropriation committee hearings there, followed by Senate action and a joint conference on any differences.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) predicted the District's would be the last appropriation bill to reach the White House, but that it might go there by the end of next week.

In the House, Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.), has scheduled a full week of hearings in the program of his District reorganization and home rule subcommittee.

His full subcommittee will hear Federal officials at 10 a. m. today, Wednesday and Friday on the question of what Federal activities here might be turned over to the city government.

Touchy Subject

Touchiest subject for the week is the one set for tomorrow—the question of what District agencies now relatively independent might be turned over to Commisisoners' control. This question will be reviewed by a two-member subcommittee of the Auchincloss group. They have called the Commissioners to appear, along with Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the school board; Edgar Morris, welfare board chairman; Albert W. Atwood, of the library board, and Harry S. Wender, recreation board chairman.

The hearing will be handled by Representatives Harold F. Youngblood (R., Mich.) and Charles B. Deane (D., N. C.).

A separate two-man group, Representatives Auchincloss and Robert N McGarvey (R., Pa.) will hear Federal officials Thursday on the question of fiscal control and organization in the District.

P-TA to Open 3-Day Parley At Maryland U.

Annual three-day conference of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers will open at the University of Maryland tomorrow.

Theme of the meeting will be "Assignment for Tomorrow."

In preparation for the conference, a school of instruction for members of the State Board of Managers will be conducted today at 2 p. m. by Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, vice president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A conference meeting of the board of managers will be held at 7 tonight.

Mrs. Robert G. Doty of Cumberland, president of the State group, will preside at the opening conference session tomorrow at 10 a. m. Registration of delegates will be in charge of Mrs. John E. Lancaster of Cumberland, State treasurer. Mrs. Walter J. Muchow of Linthicum Heights, program chairman, and Mrs. Austin S. Donaldson of Kensington, general chairman of the conference, will make announcements, and Mrs. Doty will speak on the "Keynote of the Conference."

Conference of local presidents will be held at 10:30, with Mrs. A. K. Romoser, chairman of the Local Presidents Club, presiding. County Council presidents will meet at the same time with Mrs. J. Sylvester Gower of Sharpsburg, presiding.

Mrs. Thomas W. Pyle of Bethesda, State chairman, also will conduct a conference on recreation planning.

The afternoon session will begin at 2 p. m. with greetings from Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, followed by a talk on "The National Congress Objectives" by Mrs. Gardner. Miss Edna B. McNaughton of College Park, chairman of parent education, will report on the Maryland Congress leadership training program.

A discussion on "Are we, as parents, failing our children," will be held at 3 p. m. led by the leadership training group. Participants will be Mrs. Myron Brock, College Park P-TA; Mrs. James C. Matheny, Greenbelt P-TA; Mrs. C. C. Shotts, and Mrs. C. M. Wright, both of the Sherwood P-TA, Sandy Spring, and Mrs. Helen Cooper, Kensington Junior High School P-TA, who will serve as chairman.

In Maryland and Virginia

Public Hearings Set On Dog Tag, Fire Laws

Richmond, Va., July 6 (AP).—Public hearings on Virginia's dog license law enforcement and on fire hazards in public buildings head this week's slate of legislative study committee sessions.

Both hearings will be at the State Senate chamber. The dog license meeting starts at 10 a. m. Thursday and the fire hazard session at the same time Friday.

The main issue to be determined is whether Virginia's game wardens, under the State Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, may be freed of the responsibility of enforcing the dog tax law.

At present, wardens are charged with the enforcement job, the game commission gets 15 per cent of the revenues and the localities get 85 per cent. Delegate Edmund T. DeJarnette of Hanover is chairman of the study committee.

Friday's hearing on fire hazards by an advisory legislative council committee, headed by State Senator M. M. Long, will be concerned with whether the public now is adequately protected in view of the lack of uniformity of statutes and ordinances on protection against fire hazards.

Third-Try Convention

Baltimore, July 6 (AP).—A twice-postponed biennial convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind opens here tomorrow, with Helen Keller, nationally known blind-deaf leader, listed among speakers.

The convention was cancelled in 1945 because of wartime travel difficulties. Subsequently, in 1946, it was slated to meet at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago when a fire at that hotel forced abandonment of the meeting.

Boy's Eye Lacerated

Winchester, Va., July 5.—One lad who set off a firecracker that exploded prematurely here yesterday escaped unscathed, but Donivan Wilson, jr., who was standing over him, had to be treated by a local physcian for a lacerated eye. When the cracker went off, the youth jerked up his head, smashing Wilson's glasses.

Million Pounds Given

New Windsor, Md., July 6.—More than a million pounds of materials for overseas relief were contributed during May and June by people in the six-State area served by the Church World Service Center at New Windsor.

Since May 1, 1,002,796 pounds of clothing, bedding, food, first aid supplies, candles, soap, and other needed items have been donated to the center for overseas shipment.

The New Windsor area collection drive is being carried out in North Caroline, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware. The District of Columbia is also included.

Memorial Indorsed

Berryville Va., July 6.—Graham Dougherty, sr., chairman of the war memorial committee, said today that the American Legion, the Lions Club and the Junior Women's Club have all indorsed a plan to enlarge facilities of the community building here as a suitable war memorial for Clarke County's World War II veterans.

Chairmen Selected

Leesburg, Va., July 6.—Mrs. R. B. Sampson, newly elected president of the Loudoun Business and Professional Club, has appointed the following chairmen to head the club's departments:

Membership, Mrs. Evelyn L. Adams; program coordination, Mrs. Kathleen E. Courtney; education and vocations, Mrs. Mabel Taylor; finance, Mrs. Anne Frazer; health and safety, Mrs. Frances Webster; international relations, Mrs. Edna Carr Carter; legislation, Mrs. Ruth Schulke; public affairs, Mrs. Naomi P. Hatcher; news service and publicity, Mrs. Jane J. Palmer, and radio, Miss Betty Hatcher.

Chairmen of special committees are: Mrs. Celia Dunn, emblem; Mrs. Mary Thomas, music; Mrs. Frances Edmondson, yearbook and bulletin, and Miss Mary Ann Nichols, hospitality and attendance.

Goes to Soap Box Finals

Winchester, Va., July 6.—Jerry Allan White, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy White, will represent Winchester in the annual Soap Box Derby at Akron, Ohio, next month, as a result of his victory in the second annual local race here July 4.

The new champion is the brother of Leroy White, jr., winner of last year's race who was eliminated in the first heat at Akron. Jerry crossed the finish line in 27.2 seconds in the Class A finals to nose out Fred Stine, jr., for first place.

A feature of the city's Fourth of July observance, the derby was sponsored by Winchester's Junior Board of Trade.

Fireworks 'Casualties'

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 6. One arrest for shooting firecrackers was reported by police yesterday. No name was given. In another fireworks incident one young woman stepped on a lighted cracker and the sole was blown from her slipper. She sustained leg burns. A firecracker was reported thrown through the front door of a beer tavern, causing a wild scramble by men and women to get out.

Va. Delegate to Speak

Manassas, Va., July 6.—Frank R. Moncure, member of the House of Delegates from Stafford and Prince William Counties and his opponent, Edgar G. Puffish, Manassas, have been invited to speak at a meeting of the Quantico Chamber of Commerce at 8 p. m. Friday at the Dumfries School.

Superintendent of County Schools R. Worth Peters also will speak on the school situation. Peters is a member of the McCue Committee named recently to study the school system in the State. The public has been invited attend the meeting.

Matthews Appointed

Fredericksburg, Va., July 6.—William A. Matthews of Caroline County has been appointed assistant to teachers of vocational agriculture in the schools of Stafford and King George Counties. He will work with veterans studying agriculture under the GI Bill of Rights.

Veterans in the two counties wishing to pursue the courses have been asked to communicate with Matthews directly or these agriculture teachers: J. F. Coleman, King George; L. A. Muse, Fredericksburg; G. T. Saunders, Edge Hill.

Bank Robbed of $8

Stafford Courthouse, Va., July 6 (AP).—Special Officer W. R. Robey of Stafford County said yesterday he had been notified by officials of the Peoples Bank of Stafford that the bank was broken into during the holiday and $8 stolen from a cash drawer.

Robey said James Ashby, Stafford County clerk and bank official, reported the robbery. Robey said entry apparently had been made by breaking a glass and unlocking a door.

Post Elects Perry

Charlestown, W. Va., July 6. Thornton T. Perry, jr., Charles Town postmaster and World War II veteran, was reelected commander of the Jackson-Perks Post, American Legion, at the post's annual meeting yesterday.

Other new officers include Allen L. Marshall, adjutant; Richard Bond, first vice commander; R. E. L. Strider, second vice commander; the Rev. C. C. Tarplee, chaplain; Augustus Rodeffer, service officer; and Jack Getzendanner, sergeant-at-arms.

Medical Books Shown

Charlottesville, Va., July 6 (AP).—Rare medical books, including the works of Avicenna, Fallopius, Galen, Harvey, Pare, Vasalinus and many others, are attracting considerable attention in the library of the University of Virginia school of medicine where they are on exhibition.

The exhibit is a small selection from the treasuries of medical history recently presented to the university by Dr. Stephen H. Watts, a native of Lynchburg and for many years professor of surgery here, who is now living in retirement at Farmington.

Baptists to Convene

Frederick, Md., July 6 (AP).—The annual Maryland Baptist summer assembly will open at Hood College tomorrow, with more than 200 delegates expected to attend the month-long sessions.

Dr. Eugene T. West of Boston, will lead the musical activities of the assembly. The recreation program will be in charge of Miss E. Virginia Atkinson of Baltimore.

Memorial Rites Held

Fredericksburg, Va., July 6. Brief memorial services were held at the Methodist Church here today for 38 persons killed in street and highway accidents in Fredericksburg and five adjacent counties in 1946. Rev. J. Aubrey Hughes conducted the services.

Funeral Scheduled

Winchester, Va., July 6.—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for William Geanious, 21, Army veteran son of Mr. and Mrs. James Geanious of this city, who drowned in the Shenandoah River July 4.

The body of Geanious was recovered yesterday almost 20 hours after sinking in view of five swimming companions. In addition to his parents, four brothers and three sisters survive. The youth was discharged from the Army last month after overseas service.

Jobless Benefits Drop

Baltimore, July 6 (AP).—A sharp decline in jobless benefit payments during the last year was reported today by the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board.

The agency disbursed only a little more than half the amount paid in the previous year ended June 30, 1946. The total handed out during the '46-'47 period, the board said, was $13,146,342 in 779,077 checks. The previous 12-month disbursement was $25,146,342 in 1,340,784 weekly checks.

Cancer Quota Topped

Manassas, Va., July 6.—A total of $1,194.62 was contributed in Prince William County during the recent Cancer Control Campaign, Mrs. James A. Bishop, county chairman, has announced. The amount exceeded the quota by several hundred dollars.

Cat Is 17 Years Old

Salisbury, Md., July 6 (AP).—Cookie, pet tomcat of Mr. and Mrs. J. Woolford Jones, was well on his way to setting some sort of longevity record for felines today. A mixture of Angora and Maltese, Cookie celebrated his seventeenth birthday with a special offering of canned fish and milk, Mrs. Johnson said.

D. C. Cosmetologists Take Exams

SIS GETS THE BENEFIT—Male applicants for licenses are not required to take the facial and manicure tests, so William C. Libby of 1631 S st. nw., tries his hand at styling his sister Phyllis' hair

A 20-year-old former GI who wants to "pile women's hair way up high" was one of about a dozen persons who last week took the Board of Cosmetology's practical test for beatuy operators.

He is William C. Libby, 1631 S st. nw., who plans to take up hair styling in New York. Libby took his sister to the Cosmetology Board and went through the practical routine with her as a model. This, for those who have 1500 hours of training and want a beauty operator's license, consists of a facial, scalp treatment, marcel, wrapping for both types of permanent waves, a shampoo, a finger wave and a manicure.

Each person is timed on the basis of shop schedules. The usual time for completing all three beauty treatments is about three hours.

250 Registered

Mrs. Roselia B. Shaw, executive secretary of the Cosmetology Board, said that about 250 persons had registered for the tests being given during this quarter. The board takes about a dozen applicants per day, and officials expect this quarter's tests to continue almost until August.

Mrs. Shaw explained that it is rare indeed when an applicant fails to pass most of the beauty operator's test. The applicants go to the board after 1500 hours training either in a vocational or commercial school.

In this year's crop of applicants so far, about 35 ex-GIs have taken the tests, with the idea of going into hair styling as a profession. The women who have taken the tests have in the main wished to qualify as beauty operators here. And although the minimum weekly wage for this work is $18 (it used to be $13.50), all are confident they will make at least $25 a week. Many hope to work up to the $75 a week made by more experienced operators.

If an applicant fails to pass all of his tests, he is given a temporary license permitting him to work at those phases of beautification at which he has proved proficient. He can then return later to the Cosmetology Board to take a re-test on the subjects he failed. Next testing period for the board is in October.

The Pink, Blue and Black

The Cosmetology Board is in the Municipal Center, in a suite that is a far cry from the usual office austerity. The testing room itself is finished in pink, blue and black. Mrs. Shaw said that when this color scheme was suggested to the building superintendent he threw up his hands in horror.

"But now," she said, "he realizes it isn't bad at all." The idea was to suggest shop conditions as far as possible. During the war, when WPB used the board's quarters, they simply covered over the shampoo bowls and worked in the pink, blue and black splendor.

Philadelphia Call Refused By Marshall

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Dr. Peter Marshall, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, yesterday announced his refusal of a Philadelphia pulpit and challenged his flock to build a new church.

More than 1500 worshipers heard the Senate chaplain declare that he had declined an invitation to serve a congregation being formed from a merger of First and Second and Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian churches in the Quaker City.

In a statement after the communion rites, the Scottish-born preacher said he had based his decision to remain on two questions over which he had prayed:

"Where does God want me to go? What does God want me to do?"

Dr. Marshall said it would be "good economy" to erect a new church and Sunday School plant on the present site at 13th st. and New York ave. nw. Such a building, he said, should nearly as possible resemble the present church.

"For over 50 years we have needed a new Sunday School building," he said, reminding the congregation that the church membership had increased from 1000 to 2000 in a decade.

While $160,000 has already been paid or pledged toward a new structure, between $750,000 and a million dollars may be needed for such a project, he stated.

Dr. Marshall pledged himself to lead his congregation toward the goal of a new building "as long as God keeps me here." He told his parishioners that he would leave today for vacation and not return until September. He urged them to "go forward with condidence, faith and vision."

Mrs. Helen M. Hoen

New York, July 6 (AP).—Mrs. Helen M. Hoen, 96, widow of Dr. Adolph G. Hoen, former director of the Pasteur Institute of Richmond, Va., died here today at the home of her son, Augustus Ottone.

She had been in failing health for several months. Funeral services are to be held in Baltimore Tuesday.

Dr. Fowlkes, 59, Succumbs In Virginia

Richmond, Va., July 6 (AP).—Dr. Carroll Harris Fowlkes, 59, ear, nose and throat specialist, died today at the home of his brother-in-law, E. W. Beattie, Goldsboro Farm, at Columbia, where he had been spending the Fourth of July weekend.

Funeral rites will be held here at 5 p. m. Monday at St. James' Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

A native of Callends, he was born July 4, 1889, a son of Mrs. Sarah Lawrence Fowlkes and the late Williamson D. Fowlkes. After graduation from private schools in Danville, he came to Richmond to attend the Medical College of Virginia, where he was graduated in 1910.

He took internship work at Johnston-Willis Hospital here and at the Brooklyn Ear and Eye Infirmary. Dr. Fowlkes returned to Richmond and established his practice here in 1915.

During World War I he served in the Medical Corps of the Navy as a lieutenant and was attached to the Naval Hospital at Cape May, N. J.

Dr. Fowlkes resumed his practice here after the war and then began his specialization in ear, nose and throat work.

His wife, the late Mrs. Anne Beattie Fowlkes, died here August 11, 1945.

Dr. Fowlkes leaves his mother, Mrs. W. D. Fowlkes of Danville; four children, Mrs. Charles C. Adams of Lexington; Mrs. Jack N. Herod of Charlottesville, Miss Sara Fowlkes and Carroll H. Fowlkes, both of Richmond; three brothers and a sister.

Mrs. Sarah Sachs

Funeral services will be held this morning for Mrs. Sarah Sachs, 85, of 1300 Ingraham st. nw., who died Saturday at Doctors Hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Sachs, a resident of Washington for 50 years, was the widow of Louis Sachs, a local merchant.

She is survived by a brother, Isaac Miller of Baltimore, Md.; five sons, George, William M., Frank, Hyman and Abe; four daughters, Mrs. Morris M. Kotzin, Mrs. A. L. Klein, Mrs. Rose Breslau and Mrs. Samuel E. Wolf, all of Washington; 22 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at her residence. Burial will be in Ohev Sholom Cemetery.

Mrs. Agnes M. Mitchell

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Marr Mitchell, 69, the wife of Hugh Chester Mitchell and a native of Washington, will be held today with prayers at her home, 3038 Newark st. nw., at 9:30 a. m. A mass will be said at the St. Thomas Apostle Church, Woodley rd. and 27th st. nw., at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Mitchell's family has lived in Washington for more than 100 years. She is the daughter of Dr. Samuel Stewart Marr, for many years chief law clerk in the General Land Office, and granddaughter of James H. Marr, former chief clerk in the office of the Postmaster General.

Mrs. Mitchell attended Immaculate Conception Academy. In 1903 she married Hugh C. Mitchell, who retired two years ago as chief mathematician of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

She leaves her husband, a son, Hugh C. Mitchell, jr., Woodmoor, Md.; a daughter, Mrs. Helen M. Neill; a sister, Mrs. Mina Marr Palmer; three brothers, Joseph A. Marr and James H. Marr of Washington, and Dr. W. Walter Marr, Lexington, Ky., and four grandchildren.

Louis Reizenstein

Pittsburgh, July 6 (AP).—Louis Reizenstein, 91, internationally known glass and china authority and merchant, died last night after a long illness.

For more than 50 years he headed C. Reizenstein Sons, believed to be the oldest family-owned china and glassware concern in the United States. He retired several years ago.

He was known as the originator of the service plate, the crystal salad and soup plates and many stemware designs.

In 1927 King Albert of Belgium made him Commander of Order of the Crown for giving ideas to Belgium's glass industry. He was the first American to be so honored for commercial endeavor.

Funeral services will be held here Tuesday.

Mrs. Helen M. Hoen

New York, July 6 (AP).—Mrs. Helen M. Hoen, 96, widow of the late Dr. Adolph G. Hoen, former director of the Pasteur Institute at Richmond, Va., died here today at the home of her son. She had been in failing health for several months. Funeral services are to be held in Baltimore Tuesday.

When Her Children Have Outgrown Mothering, The Older Woman's Basic Emotional Problem Is How to Make Her Life Vital, Worth While

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Thank you for publishing my jeremiad against the kitchen sink—the greatest impediment to Female Personality Development!—in your column of June 6. There's always a thrill in seeing one's efforts in print.

I've already acted on your suggestion to read the Della Cyrus articles in Atlantic Monthly: "What's Wrong With the Family?" in the November, 1946, issue, and "Why Mothers Fail," in the March, 1947, issue.

I'm convinced Mrs. Cyrus is right. She makes a powerful argument for a new family-format to release mothers from stultifying drudgery and allow them to function as citizens of society. And yet, one hesitates!

Reviewing the 25 years of my married life, I can't see where there was ever a time that I could have conscientiously put on my bonnet and gone after "the things of this world,"—still dear to my heart. I couldn't have given my babies to the care of strangers; they needed me. Nor could I have left my beloved, infirm mother's long care to others; she needed me.

Also of course a wife must believe that a good husband, coming home tired each night, needs to find special preparation awaiting his arrival—including the products of a day spent at the kitchen sink,—supervised by a loving spouse.

Looking at Life From the Fifties

PERHAPS I'm only fooling myself when I say no one else could have stepped into my shoes to do these things as well for those whose welfare was dear to my heart. But that's how I felt then and how I still feel, after the vital years and their wearing demands have brought me to the fifties.

It is now the real problem arises; now when the dear mother no longer awaits my hurrying footsteps; now when the children are grown and ready for college. Now is the problem: What to do with myself? How give substance and significance to the next 20 years or less?

There are old clothes to sort over, yes; attics to clean and accumulations to burn. But each such task seems to be a reminder, an echo, of things that have been and are no more! Hence the feeling of urgent need to replace the activities of the past with something as vital, worth while and human!

Lack of Money Is Stultifying

IT IS here, I think, that a woman's faith in the old order of things is put to test. For lack of cold cash, her aspiration to expand her usefulness crumbles. Wherever she turns, whatever she would do, there is need of money. Even the boxes of old clothes, packed tenderly for less fortunates overseas, cost money to send,—as do the boxes of food. And average salaries are soon exhausted.

Women who earned substantial income before marriage are always embarrassed by subsequent total dependency on the husband's hard-pressed ability to provide. The desire to be of practical financial help is ever-present; but her hands are tied when the children are small. Later, when they're grown and no longer need her as "a very present help in time of trouble," what is her worth, commercially?

The very question sounds ridiculous! But however crudely I've expressed it, I believe here is the older woman's basic emotional problem: her need to find some vital use for her life. Alas, we can't always pick up where we left off in the larger world—however much, in memory, we may still be tripping along Broadway! H. B.

Time to Adjust To New Concept?

DEAR H. B.: Doubtless you couldn't have run contrary to the ages-old creed that woman's place is in the home, without doing violence to your sensibilities and transmitting some of the "rub" to your nearest-and-dearest. But as I recall, Mrs. Cyrus sees that, too; and thinks it high time we adjusted our sights to a new enlightened concept of woman's appropriate concerns and activities and revised our social planning and sentimental values accordingly.

Scales Are Last to Show Weight Loss; Keep to Diet

By Ida Jean Kain

I'M clairvoyant this morning, and perceive that some of you stepped defiantly on the scales this blue Monday, expecting the worst. I've been promising that you could lose 3 to 5 pounds in 10 days to two weeks. And what happened? Nothing . . . Absolutely nothing. Well, before you write that letter, let me explain.

I'll give the proof first. Remember our courageous reducer who brought her weight down from 231 pounds to 135 pounds, the one who had gained 96 pounds during the three years her husband was overseas? On a very strict diet, our heroine did not lose a single pound for an exasperating two weeks. But she was determined to bring her weight to normal, so she stayed with it, and on the fifteenth day the scales were down 9 pounds. That is the total amount she had lost over that period, and it showed up in a lump sum.

Stick With It

If you will stay with your diet, in another day or two the scales will be down, perhaps 4 pounds, or even 6. That is, they will be if you have been cutting calories. It's water storage that holds the weight up, diet to the contrary.

It's a curious phenomenon, and difficult to understand, in that the amount of water consumed has no bearing on the retention. It's called water storage, for actually that is what happens, but the regulating factor is salt. It's this way . . . the amount of salt in the tissues determines the amount of water which will be held back in the tissues or given up to the surrounding fluids.

Loss Slow to Show

On a low-calorie diet, the fat is used for part of the energy needs, but when water is stored simultaneously the loss does not show, for stored water and stored fat weigh the same. But when the water balance adjusts, all the weight that has been lost since the beginning of the diet is indicated on the scales. Sixteen days is the longest period on record that water storage has replaced lost fat, and you are not likely to beat the record.

In hot weather, salt should not be restricted too rigidly, since it is lost through perspiration. But unless you take exercises which induce excessive perspiration there is no need to resalt foods at the table. A moderate amount used in foods while cooking is sufficient.

There are dietary factors which help to prevent water retention . . . high protein, vitamin B factors . . . included in the vitamin concentrate which supplements our low-calorie diet, and high potassium, furnished by liberal use of vegetables, and low salt.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

Can you tell me how to remove cod liver oil stains from a white woolen jacket? M. Y. T.

Cod liver oil stains can be removed from white woolen materials by soaking the spot for a half hour or longer in a bleaching solution made of two tablespoons of hydrogen peroxide and a gallon of water. Rinse twice in clear water after soaking.

I have a blouse made of metal cloth which has become quite wrinkled. Is it safe to iron such cloth and how should it be done? T. M. M.

Metal fabrics may be pressed by putting the garment over an ironing board metal side down and covering the back of the cloth with tissue paper. Use a warm iron and be careful not to let the iron touch the cloth without the tissue.

Is there any way to remove tarnish from gold and silver insignia on Army uniforms? Also, while I was in the hospital recently, some silver nitrate was accidentally spilled on a peach-colored satin nightgown. Can you suggest anything which will remove these stains? M. L. T.

Some tarnish and dirt may be removed from gold and silver embroidered patches with dry-cleaning fluid or alcohol, but there's really little you can do to restore their brightness.

Treatment with tincture of iodine and sodium thiosulfate (photographer's "hypo") will usually lighten silver nitrate stains and may completely remove them. The sodium thiosulfate can be bought at a photographer's supply store.

PETUNIA!
To carve a pie in 5 neat parts
Takes mental acrobatics
Goodness sake, I wished I'd passed my 3rd grade mathematics
It's easy, Petunia! Cut a capital letter Y . . . then cut the two big parts in half.

Before treating the silver nitrate spot, sponge it with cold water to get rid of as much stain as possible. Then wash in warm suds. Mix one part iodine and three parts water and test on a hidden part of the garment to be sure it won't affect the color. If it doesn't, sponge the stain with the solution. If stain remains, sponge with a solution made by dissolving a few crystals of sodium thiosulfate in a half cup of water. If stains still are not removed, repeat applications of iodine and sodium thiosulfate. Finish by washing in warm suds.

Should the salad fork be placed to the left or right of the dinner fork in setting the table? V. M. Q.

The implements necessary for each course should be arranged in the order of their use. The one to be used first goes on the outside where it is reached first. Therefore, since forks are always placed on the left side the plate, the salad fork will be to the right of the dinner or meat fork, next to the plate. If you have a small fork for a shrimp cocktail or similar dish, it should be placed to the left of the dinner fork.

Is it true that cooking pickles in a copper kettle will make them a brighter green? T. W. M.

Yes, but it's a dangerous practice. Members of your family may look a little green, too, after eating the pickles! Unless the copper is very bright and shiny, the acid in the vinegar will react with the tarnish on the metal and form poisons.

Will you please tell me how to remove dull spots from mahogany furniture caused by a sort of wax paper with which the furniture was wrapped when it was stored?

Wax and grease spots can usually be removed from furniture by wiping with a cloth dampened with carbon tetrachloride, then polishing.

How to Buy A Good Pillow

The thrills of delight with which many brides start furnishing their first homes may soon change to bewilderment at the number and variety of things they need to know to choose wisely.

Characteristics of a good pillow are:

LIGHTNESS—Of two pillows the same size and plumpness, the lighter will be superior.

RESILIENCY—The ability of the features to resume their shape is a requirement. Test this by laying the pillow flat and pressing down the center with both hands. The more completely it rebounds the better the feathers.

BUOYANCY—This is the ability to sustain weight so that the pillow will hold the head comfortably without letting it sink too far into the pillow.

The type of feathers determines all these other factors

Down is the most luxurious and expensive. It is the soft, fluffy undercoating of adult waterfowl. Most people find it too soft for true comfort, as it lacks buoyancy. The ideal pillow is filled with a mixture of down and goose feathers.

Goose feathers are springy and resilient. Duck feathers are similar, but not as strong, resilient or fluffy.

MRS. GORDON P. DARLING
. . . Home ceremony

Darling—Smith

Miss Frances Wallace Smith, daughter of Robert Lee Smith, this city, and the late Mrs. Marilla A. Smith, became the bride on July 3 of Gordon Padgett Darling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Darling, also of Washington. The ceremony took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yelverton Cowherd, the Rev. M. P. German officiating.

Dressed in a suit of aqua gabardine with black and pink accessories and corsage of sweetheart roses and baby's breath, the bride had Mrs. Beulah M. Myles as her only attendant. John C. Brinkman was best man for his brother-in-law.

After a honeymoon in Maine, the newlyweds will make their home in Washington.

Town Talk—

Nation of Brutal Battalions Now Making Best Baby Sitters

By Eva Hinton

TIME MARCHES ON and sometimes to better things: Tokyo, the very name of which was a short time ago anathema to American ears, now sounds like a tourist paradise. In the very best hotels a luxurious room and bath with first-rate meals costs 75 cents a day, and I have it on good authority that a gentle little Japanese girl will baby-sit most happily for 5 cents an evening.

Servants are numerous and obliging, and their manners are so charming as to make domestic life a pleasure. This last I had from Gen. Richard Lindsey, a guest of Gen. and Mrs. George C. McDonald, who were entertaining in farewell to popular Air Vice Marshal Robin Willock and his pretty wife.

General Lindsey, who is flying back to his post in Japan, and has his family out there, was telling about their furnace man. Seems he hasn't much to do in the summer with only the hot water to worry about. One evening while they were at dinner he sent word to ask if he might speak to Mrs. Lindsey and he brought in a really beautiful painting which he had done right there in the furnace room. It was in an antique gold frame. "And," said General Lindsey, "I'm no art critic but I think it's really a work of merit!"

Everyone at the McDonalds' party was going somewhere or had just returned from somewhere. Air Vice Marshal Willock and his wife are going back to England. He is leaving immediately, but she plans a visit with their daughter, Mrs. William Warren of Long Island, first.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, recently returned from Brazil, remarked the dazzling beauty of Brazilian women. His wife also had a remark to make.

"You may say," she said, "that he hasn't talked of anything else since he came home!"

LEAVING for Wichita Falls, Tex., to take part in the National Soaring Contests was Nigel Bicknell, who has been Air Vice Marshal Willock's Assistant Civil Air Attache at the British Embassy and who will carry on the job.

At the contests Mr. Bicknell will be piloting a British Olympia glider shipped from England. The British have two gliders and a team of four in the contest, a pilot and a reserve for each glider.

Mr. Bicknell had a distinguished war record with the famous RAF Pathfinder Force, those intrepid guys who located the targets for the bombers. He is amusing as well as gallant and was telling with relish his sensations while flying over Germany during his missions when he remembered with satisfaction that it was the Germans themselves who taught him to fly, and for free. He was studying at a German university. The German government was trying to get around the Versailles Treaty restrictions on airplanes by teaching gliding.

Col. Tex Hill of the famous Flying Tigers is contemplating an expedition to Abyssinia to trap gorillas. He wasn't sure whether such occupation would offer more or less security than testing new planes for the Army.

The Secretary-General of the International Emergency Food Council Says:

Help World Recovery, Save Used Fats

Thanks to patriotic American women, over 600 million pounds of used fats have been added to U. S. supplies of industrial fats since August 1942. These 600 million pounds were vitally important, not only to the United States, but to the entire world.

Fats and oils, both food fats and industrial fats, are in critically short supply, practically everywhere. Total world production of fats and oils in 1947 will be one-sixth less than in prewar years. But at the same time, there are many more mouths to feed and a tremendous job of reconstruction and rehabilitation to be done.

In the face of this great worldwide shortage of fats and oils, it is obviously most necessary to conserve every possible pound of fat. American women can make a real contribution to the welfare of their own country and to the recovery of the rest of the world by saving and turning in their used cooking fats.

D. A. Fitzgerald, Secretary-General

Pegler—Smith

The marriage of Miss Helen Sharpless Smith to Reginald Pegler took place June 26 in Elam, Pa., at the Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman P. Smith, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Mr. Pegler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pegler, London, England.

After a trip to Washington the newlyweds will make their home in Fort Lauderdale. The bride, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Minor C. Smith, Washington, was born and educated in this city. Mr. Pegler served over six years with the Royal Air Force.

Meiners—Fuller

Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Meiners, jr., who were married June 21 in Syracuse, N.Y., were recently guests of honor at a reception given here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meiners.

The bride is the former Miss Betty Jean Fuller, Syracuse. The wedding took place in the South Presbyterian Church with the Rev. John T. Reeve officiating, assisted by the Rev. Raymond M. Meiners, brother of the bridegroom. Attired in a gown of white lace, the veil was of illusion net with a lace mantilla from the Philippines. Miss Dorothea Dixon was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Tarr and Miss Doris Stanton. David Entler served as best man. The bride was graduated from Hope College and is on the staff of the Hope College Library. Mr. Meiners, who graduated from Hope College last month, served as a Lieutenant in the Medical Administrative Corps during the war. He will resume his studies in the fall at Westminster Seminary, Philadelphia.

Hoar—McBride

Miss Dorothy Suzanne McBride, daughter of Mrs. Harold Paul Ely of Hendersonville, N. C., and the late Clarence J. McBride, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., was married on June 26 in Hendersonville to William Michael Hoar, 3d, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

The bride is the stepdaughter of Capt. Harold Paul Ely, USN (ret.), formerly of Washington. The newlyweds will reside in Ann Arbor after their honeymoon in Cashiers, Valley.

Goblirsch—Homrighaus

In St. Matthew's Cathedral on June 30, Miss Ruth M. Homrighaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Homrighaus, Doigeville, N. Y., was married to Virgil F. Goblirsch, son of Mrs. C. G. Goblirsch, Minneapolis, Minn., and the late Mr. Goblirsch. The Rev. John B. Argaut officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of gray, trimmed with lace, and black feather hat with gray velling. She carried a prayer book with a spray of orchids. Mrs. Patrick E. Carroll, matron of honor, was attired in powder-blue crepe with a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Carroll served as best man.

Following a wedding breakfast at the Mayflower Hotel, the newlyweds left on a trip to Minneapolis, Chicago and New York. They will make their home in Washington.

The bride attended Utica School of Commerce, Utica, N. Y., and her husband is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and Harvard.

Nichols—Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Willard Nichols, married on June 17 in London, Ky., will return from their honeymoon in the West to reside in Kensington, Md.

The bride, the former Edith Elizabeth Johnson, is the daughter of Mrs. James Sion Johnson of London, and the late Mr. Johnson. Mr. Nichols is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Nichols of Westboro, Mass.

The Rev. Walter L. Johnson, the bride's brother, performed the ceremony in First Baptist Church of London. Given in marriage by another brother, Roy E. Johnson, the bride wore white Mousseline de soi, a tiara of white flowers holding her veil, and carried white roses and baby's breath. Mrs. Roy H. Silvers was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Mrs. Walter L. Johnson, Mrs. Lucile Green, Miss June Nichols and Miss Kathleen Johnson. Arnold Price of Washington was best man. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother.

Among out of town guests was Representative Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

McCartney—Stewart

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stewart announce the marriage of their daughter, Anna-Louisa, to Robert T. McCartney, jr., on June 11 at the home of the bride's parents in Berwyn Heights, Md.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Kidder, pastor of Berwyn Presbyterian Church in the presence of members of the family. Mr. Stewart gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride was born in Brazil where her father was president of Mackenzie College. He is now senior specialist in Latin American education, United States Office of Education. The bride was graduated from the University of Maryland and for two years was on the staff of the Public Library, Washington. Mr. McCartney, a graduate of the University of California, is continuing his studies in law in Berkeley.

Rug Names

Names of Oriental rugs, only in a general way, are an indication of quality. Rugs get their names from the geographical districts where they are woven. One rug woven in the city of Hamadan, for example, might be worth considerably more than another rug of the same size from the same city.

Woman Makes Stardom

In Krakow, Poland, the Jagiellonski University of Krakow has awarded its first doctorate of astronomy to a woman. She is Dr. Lidii Stankiewicz, who before the war studied astronomy at Italian institutes in Rome.

World's Most Famous Rug in Museum

The most famous rug in the world is the Ardebil rug now in the South Kensington Museum in London, according to the Oriental Rug Institute. Hand woven in the Orient, it contains 32 million hand-tufted knots, or 530 knots to the square inch.

Originally made in 1536 during the reign of Tamasp I for the Ardebil mosque, the rug through the years graced the floors of palaces and castles in many lands and now, despite its age, is worth a king's ransom.

The field of the Ardebil rug is a rich blue, and it is covered with delicate, free-flowing floral designs. In the center is a pale yellow medallion. There are four border stripes. The outer border is yellow, the others are rich brown, cream and crimson.

Miss Bender, Lieut. Wallace Wed in Korea

Of interest in Washington is the marriage in Korea on June 21 of Miss Beverley Bender, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Arthur Hodgkins Bender, formerly stationed here, to Lieut. George Magoon Wallace 2d, son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Fred Clute Wallace, Keswick, Va.

The wedding took place at the quarters of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Andrew Davis Bruce, wife of Major General Bruce, commanding general of the Seventh Infantry Division. Bishop A. Cecil Cooper and Chaplain Alvie McKnight officiated.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white mousseline de soie with long train and a finger-tip veil attached to a high coronet. She carried Easter lilies. Miss Roberta Linnell Bruce, maid of honor, was costumed in yellow marquisette and carried spotted lilies. Jay Allison Tyler was flower girl and Michael William Powers acted as ringbearer. Lieut. George Hoge served as best man and ushers were Lieut. Harry James Shaw and Lieut. Thomas Henry Devlin.

The bride attended Holton-Arms School here and Lieutenant Wallace was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1945. After a wedding trip to Japan, Lieutenant and Mrs. Wallace will make their home in Camp Sobinggo for the remainder of their tour in Korea.

Women's Rights' Researcher Begins Interesting Story

By Dorothy Doan

NEW YORK, July 6.—In a two-by-four cubicle off one of the endless corridors of the converted gyroscope factory that now houses the United Nations, a small, bird-like woman sifts daily through a mountain of data on the political, civil, social and economic rights of the women of 55 nations.

She is Parisian born Loenie Mitchell, new secretary of the U. N.'s Status of Women Commission.

The job of correlating the hard cold facts on women's rights and lack of rights is the most ambitious project ever undertaken in the history of the woman's movement.

Authorized by Commission

It was authorized by the 15-nation commission as the first step toward equalizing the rights of women throughout the world.

As one delegate sagely remarked:

"You can't point an accusing finger at any (predominantly male) government until you can get it to put down in black and white exactly what it's doing to guarantee its women their legal, economic, educational and social rights."

The present American delegate on the women's commission, Judge Dorothy Kenyon of New York, began a compilation of women's legal status for the League of Nations.

But the league folded before it was completed. She handed over the results of her labor somewhat sadly to the present commission with her wishes for better luck this time.

If Miss Mitchell is disheartened by the outcome of earlier efforts or wary of the new commission's ambitions, she shows no sign of it.

As a doctor of law who spent several years at Paris University concentrating on women's legal status, she thinks the 18-page questionnaire shipped out to the 55 U. N. governments by the Women's Commission will accomplish more in the end than a torrent of impassioned speeches at the local women's club.

The governments, incidentally, are obliged by General Assembly edict to answer those questionnaires this month so the Assembly can consider their report when it meets in September.

Miss Mitchell is blonde and thirtyish with an international background to steady her for the hefty secretarial job she's just taken on.

She has dual citizenship, her father was English, her mother French. She came to the United States last October as a translator of legal documents for the United Nations.

She was president of the first Business and Professional Women's Club in Paris after the liberation and promptly joined its sister organization when she arrived in New York.

Ironic Twist

There are a lot of questions we'd have liked to put to Miss Mitchell—how she thinks women's organizations in this country stack up with those in Europe and Asia—what she thinks the political trends are in the various international groups—but the interview hit a procedural snag.

One of Miss Mitchell's bosses in the U. N. secretariat ruled that anything she said would have to be censored before it was published, and the interview ended abruptly.

Be Smart

IT'S A FASHION-WORTHY development, and very smart—a trim of real-as-life looking fruits on a wide, wide hat brim . . . or an equally wide sailor stripped down to a mere ribbon band around your crown. The latter is especially effective in midsummer's rough straws.

Papas Place Now Is in The Nursery

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are some parental attitudes time has crystalized which would be profitable to review and alter. One of these is the traditional attitude that a father's share in the family responsibilities is to earn the money that shall support the family. The mother's part is to use that money to feed and clothe herself and children, and keep the home running smoothly.

These attitudes had merit when the mother had few outside interests; when relatives lived and worked in these larger homes or domestic help was cheap and plentiful.

It is obvious that none of these conditions persist today. Mothers have innumerable outside interests, some of them of vital consequence to the community and society. Homes may be smaller but they have taken on a picture quality which demands a high degree of efficiency to maintain.

Care of children is a full-time job, keeping them clean, seeing that they are well-fed, get their shots and booster shots, take their music and dancing lessons, entertain their friends, get ready for camp, go to Sunday School—the obligations as any mother knows are endless.

This ought to be proof enough to any intelligent father that he has a larger role to play than just to bring home the bacon, important as that is. His relationship, with his children from their days of infancy, is essential to their development as successful human beings.

The father, because of the limited time spent with his children, has a voice of authority which is superior to that of the mother. Because of his different upbringing his attitudes toward play, toward homework, toward money all differ from hers and are valuable to the child's understanding of these troublesome subjects.

Children need the companionship of the father, his interest, his criticisms, his praise. In fact there is never a moment from early babyhood that he cannot make himself an intimate part of the child's daily life, a participant in its duties, its joys and tragedies and a lifelong influence to it.

40-Hr. Week Urged for Teachers

A 40-hour work week for schoolteachers was recommended Saturday by a subcommittee of the first National Conference on Improved Teaching at the conclusion of a three-day program on the campus of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Dr. W. E. Peik, chairman of the national commission on teacher education and professional standards of the National Education Association, heartily indorsed the recommendation, as did Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the commission.

Both stressed that it was in accord with the generally accepted theory among modern educators that improved teaching required men and women to be relieved of the great burden of after school drudgery that oppressed old-fashioned schoolteachers. The 40-hour week, Dr. Peik admitted, would cost the American people money, and might be expected to meet with considerable opposition at first, until the Nation realized how imperative it was to improve the general level of teaching. "I expect the American people will spend between four and five billion dollars for education in the next 10 years." He said, "in the past decade we have $2,500,000,000 in rising costs of materials and salaries, and reduction of teaching hours and loads will make the difference."

The rule of thumb" he said, "is that for every hour of classroom work a teacher needs two to three outside. We must cut down the classroom hours to 15 or 20, to allow her the extra hours outside. Under present conditions even the most brilliant teachers find it difficult to do their job in less than 50 hours a week."

Enjoy clean wholesome living all summer long—not far from the teeming summer steaming city are sands of opportunity beckoning you to a summer of good living at DRUM POINT BEACH—an enchanting playground of 2,200 acres, including miles of white sand beach and 4 fresh-water lakes bordered by majestic hardwood trees. Here is your chance to own a home where you can retreat at the end of the business day—to relax and enjoy the restfulness of DRUM POINT BEACH.

The beauty of DRUM POINT BEACH has been preserved in the many secluded spots off the beaten path where one may place a cosy cottage and still have a wide outlook over the sparkling blue water of Chesapeake Bay.

Large beautiful wooded sites at predevelopment prices, some with riparian rights, make DRUM POINT BEACH a sound permanent investment. Every property owner has the privilege and use of approximately 6 miles of shore fronting on the salt water of Chesapeake Bay and the Patuxent River, plus the use of 4 spring-fed fresh-water lakes teeming with fish.

DRUM POINT BEACH has one of the finest all-year-round harbors in the Chesapeake Bay area where yachtsmen may leisurely indulge their hobby—sun bathers and swimmers have unbounded areas for sport—Isaak Walton fans are bid welcome by the fresh-water lakes teeming with fish.

Truman Doubts Floods Change TVA Foes; That 'Nice Old Man' Rankin Gets a Vote

By Drew Pearson

The disastrous floods along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers were very much on his mind as Senator Jim Murray of Montana, with Ben Stong of Denver, Colo., chairman of the regional Missouri River Association, called at the White House last week.

Murray

After introducing Stong to the President, the Montana Senator proposed to Truman that he send a message to Congress restating his support for a Missouri Valley Authority in connection with the present floods.

"Here is an ideal time to restate your support of MVA in the strongest possible terms," said Murray, who was the original author of MVA. "A strong statement from you now would mean added hope for the people who are today suffering millions of dollars' loss because of the floods."

"You're perfectly right, Jim," the President replied. "I'm still for an MVA, but I don't just see how we can do anything with the present Congress. I just can't see this Congress approving that or a Columbia Valley Authority when we both know that if they had their way they'd even kill off TVA (the Tennessee Valley Authority)."

"That's probably true," Murray admitted. "But the fact is that there could be no more opportune time for a strong message from you making it clear that the Administration is anxious to go ahead with a program designed not only to prevent repetition of the flood damage of this spring and summer but also to develop the industrial and agricultural resources of the Missouri Basin."

The President promised to think over Murray's proposal, but refused to commit himself definitely.

The Lady From New York

Mississippi's rootin'-tootin' Representative John Rankin isn't having as much influence over Republican Congressmen as last year, although some still look upon Rankin as their close friend and virtual leader. One exception is efficient Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts Republican, whose battles with Rankin over veterans' committee matters have been cloakroom gossip for years.

Mrs. Rogers was sitting next to Mrs. Katharine St. George, protege of former Congressman Hamilton Fish, when the House voted on an amendment by Rankin providing for immediate authorization for the Tombigbee Canal.

Congresswoman St. George arose to support the amendment, which most Republicans opposed. It was defeated.

"Why do you vote for that Rankin amendment?" Mrs. Rogers asked her New York colleague.

"Oh, he's such a nice old man," replied the lady who replaced Ham Fish, apparently completely unaware of the Rankin-Rogers feud. "You know, he told me one day I look just like his daughter."

Marshall on Palestine

Secretary of State George Marshall has already learned that not all members of Congress are statesmen. Last week he learned that at least one member is no diplomat, even though a conscientious and valuable member of the House.

"The District Line" by Bill Gold is being suspended during Bill's vacation.

Marshall was visited by a group of Congressmen that included blunt-spoken Representative Emanuel Celler of New York—the nondiplomat. The solons were worried about the Palestine situation and wanted assurance from Marshall regarding the United States' position.

Marshall assured his callers that this country would not alter "its traditional policy" on the Palestine question.

"I want you gentlemen to know that I am terribly anxious to see a solution to the Palestine problem. We must achieve an acceptable plan—and it must be a plan which will work. No plan is of any value unless it will work."

It was at this point that Congressman Celler stepped in. Abruptly he asked:

"Mr. Secretary, are you familiar with the charges against the Middle East desk of the State Department in Mr. Bartley Crum's book, 'Behind the Silken Curtain'? That book charges the State Department with shocking duplicity in the conduct of the Palestine affair, and makes the point that over a period of years every time a constructive and encouraging statement has been issued by our Government, Arab leaders have been quietly assured by the State Department that they need not take these statements seriously."

"I have not read Mr. Crum's book," Marshall replied, "but I can assure you that everything pertaining to the State Department policy on this matter will cross my desk. I will stand for no duplicity in the department and that is something I can do something about."

"I think it high time, Mr. Secretary," Celler said, "for this country to record its position on the Palestine question, and I think that any strong statement from you is bound to strengthen, rather than weaken, the United Nations. I don't have to remind you that Russia has stated her position publicly, and I would like to see my country do likewise."

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♣	1♡	2♣	3♡
Pass	Pass	Dble	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: K♣.

The hand today is a good argument in favor of the high lead in opening partner's suit against a trump contract, a point which has come under dispute in recent years.

Had West opened a low club instead of the king he would have had no chance to set the contract, for East would be forced into the lead on the first trick and no return he would make would hurt declarer.

The advantages of being able to win the first trick so as to be able to study the dummy and follow through with an attack on the exposed cards is so important as to throw the weight to the high lead in practically all cases. Particularly is it so when the high card in partner's suit is perhaps the only one you hold, for then you know it will be your only chance to take a trick and make another lead.

When you suspect that declarer holds an honor in your partner's suit which you think you can kill by holding back your high card, the low lead is indicated—otherwise lead high so as to give flexibility to the defense.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

EAVESDROPPING MAY NOT BE QUITE POLITE, BUT YOU SURE FIND OUT STUFF THAT WAY. TUBBY'S WORRIED ABOUT HIS TIME SCHEDULE, SO HE'S SENDING THE MAIN BODY OF HIS TRIBESMEN IN TO OCCUPY THE OIL FIELDS AND LEAVING A SMALL PARTY HERE TO KEEP THE POLICE BOTTLED UP IN THEIR POST.
BY THIS TIME PAT MUST KNOW WHAT THE FAT BOY'S PLAY IS BUT, UNLESS I CAN COOK UP SOMETHING BRIGHT TO DELAY THINGS, HE'S GOING TO BE TOO LATE — AND ONCE TUBBY HOLDS THE OIL FIELDS, HE PICKS UP THE MARBLES.
KEEP 'EM ROLLING, SERGEANT. WE'VE GOT A LONG WAY TO GO, AND TIME'S RUNNING OUT.

MR. BRADFORD TOLD ME YOU WERE INCONVENIENCED AGAIN
INCONVENIENCED?
YOU WERE "STRANDED" WITH MR. BRADLEY ON SOME MOUNTAIN TOP FOR A FEW DAYS—
OH THAT! WE HAD PLANE TROUBLE— STAYED A COUPLA DAYS WITH A MOUNTAINEER
RECALLING YOUR "GHOST TOWN" EXPERIENCE WITH MR. BRADFORD— WHICH WAS THE MOST INTERESTING INCONVENIENCE?
I'M NOT SURE I QUITE UNDERSTAND YOU—
—BUT IF YOU'RE TRYING TO FIND OUT WHOM I'VE DECIDED ON — WELL — BRADFORD'S THE BOY!

MARK TRAIL

SO YOU SEE, DART, IF YOU CAPTURE AND TAME THIS WILD STALLION, AND IF MISS MALONE CAN RIDE WELL ENOUGH TO WIN ON HIM... YOU'LL MAKE A NEAT $8000...
WHAT DO YOU MEAN IF?.. I'M THE BEST HOSS RUNNER IN THIS COUNTRY AND DON'T WORRY ABOUT MISS MALONE... SHE'LL WIN!
SHE CERTAINLY OUGHT TO WIN ON FLASH... HE'S THE BEST THING THIS COUNTRY'S SEEN IN YEARS...
DON'T WORRY, PARD... DON'T WORRY!

Clerk

He walks around or stands behind . . . The counter in a store . . . He spends his hours in a bank . . Or on an office floor . . . He serves the buying public or . . . He labors at a desk . . . But for the clerk there is no time . . . For leisure or burlesque . . . He has to be on time each day . . . to tackle all his woes . . . And always he must stay until . . . The final whistle blows . . . He does not have a union and . . He is the hardest hit . . . When prices soar beyond the point . . . Where there is sense to it . . . He may become a president . . . Or owner of a store . . . Or he may struggle as a clerk . . . For 50 years or more.

A GREAT STORE IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE CITIZENS OF WASHINGTON WHOSE HOMES ARE IN

Kansas . . . "the heart of America"

● KANSAS . . . Steeped in the romantic tradition of the pioneer days of the West . . . the range "where the buffalo roamed" . . . now a vast and highly productive farming area, which also yields a wealth of minerals and fuels.

● KANSAS . . . Originally populated by cattlemen . . . whose frontier settlements were taught law and order by two-gun Wild Bill Hickok, Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp . . . and brought into closer touch with the rest of the country in 1860 by the Pony Express.

● KANSAS . . . Containing the second largest amount of cultivated farm land in the United States . . . ranks first in production of wheat . . . first in alfalfa seed . . . among the first three in sorghums . . . and ninth in hogs.

● KANSAS . . . Famous for those thick and luscious Kansas City beefsteaks. Rich grazing lands make Kansas a leading livestock producer in the Nation . . . second in slaughtering and meat packing . . . in some years producing one-tenth of the Nation's meat supply . . . and a host of assorted by-products of meat packing . . . hides . . . fur . . . soap.

● KANSAS . . . Whose thriving industries are based on her natural products. First in flour milling and wheat storage space . . . high in livestock feed production . . . first in production of black walnut timber . . . hog serum . . . metal working . . . oil refining . . . salt production . . . great trading center for five states.

● KANSAS . . . Rich source of minerals and fuels . . . site of the largest natural gas field in the world, the Hugoton . . . fifth in petroleum . . . third in zinc . . . sixth in lead . . . first in volcanic ash . . . and a salt supply to last half a million years . . . and large coal reserves.

● KANSAS . . . Whose people rank third in percentage of students attending colleges, and fourth in high-school graduates. Proud of her forty-two institutions of higher learning . . . with the largest government Indian school, Haskell Institute, at Lawrence. The Library of the State Historical Society is second only to the Library of Congress for its newspaper collection.

● KANSAS . . . Heart of America, whose pulse beat is in time with the progressive trend of the country.

In her roaring frontier days, Kansas, the Sun Flower State, lay at the crossroads of the Nation . . . on the Oregon and Santa Fe Trails traveled by the Gold Rushers . . . at the Northern end of the Chisholm Trail up from the Southwestern cattle ranges. Today these trails have been supplanted by broad, modern highways, of which Kansas has her share of the mileage in the Nation—and her original five-mile single track has grown to 8,581 miles of railroad. The friendly cooperation of her people has been a big factor in developing her natural resources for agriculture and mining and in building up her industries. Her fertile acres produce wheat to feed the Nations of the World, and sleek cattle graze on her blue-stem pastures . . . the air of Kansas is perfumed by field after field of corn as it tassels and silks. Kansas has huge mineral deposits . . . coal, lead, zinc, salt mines and potash . . . and "grows" her gasoline in great oil fields . . . preparing the crude petroleum in her many refineries. Jayhawkers are proud of their record in education, ranking second among the forty-eight States of the Union; and of their health record as demonstrated by the high percentage of acceptance of men called for military service. Among her prominent citizens, we number General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Commander of the Allied Forces in World War II . . . Major General Frederick Funston, who captured the Insurrectionist leader in the Philippines . . . William Allen White, "The Sage of Emporia" . . . and Charles Curtis, former Vice-President of the United States. Kansas, the Heart of America, with America at heart, welcomes the opportunity given it by The Hecht Company to relate the saga of Kansas. We believe that the glorious past of our State will be excelled by the more glorious future of Kansas and all America.
